ITALIANS SMASH ETHIOPIAN ARMY IN 4 DAY BATTLE

Rout 10,000 in Drive on Harrar.

MOGADISHU, Italian Somaliland, April 19.—(AP)—The left wing of Italy's southern army drove toward Harrar today after reporting defeat of 10,000 Ethiopians in four days of bitter fighting near Bircut.

The enemy was engaged by an Italian division under Gen. Nasi, reinforced with native troops.

The division, started an advance April 14 from Danane. Its immediate objective was Bircut, an important caravan center with abundant water 40 miles away.

There the Ethiopians concentrated about 10,000 men with the object of recapturing Danane, which the Italians had taken in November and which was only moderately garrisoned.

Ethiopians Strongly Entrenched.

The Italians contacted the enemy the next day, finding them strongly entrenched on the banks of the Giano Gobo river, which was at flood stage and fordable only at a few places.

The Ethiopians, taking the fullest advantage of the favorable position, offered stubborn resistance during the days of April 15 and 16 and the morning of April 17.

Then the Fascists, reinforced by an aviation squadron, executed an encircling movement which routed the Ethiopians in a bloody combat.

Italian losses were placed at 10 officers and 650 soldiers killed and wounded. The enemy left about 1,000 dead on the field, including some important chieftains.

Italian Planes Damaged.

Thousands of rifles, dozens of machine guns and cannon and considerable other war material were captured by the Italians. Two Italian airplanes were seriously damaged in the combat but succeeded in returning to the Italian lines.

After the battle the division again began its march toward Bircut while Gen. Rodolfo Graziani, commander of the southern army, appeared on the scene and watched its progress.

Simultaneously the central column under Gen. Fusci reached the plain of North Uarandab, completing a march of more than 30 miles.

The Bircut battle was a culmination of a march of 620 miles which the Fascists made during terrific rains that have fallen since February.

Crown Prince Rallies Army.

ADDIS ABABA, April 19.—(AP)—Crown Prince Asfa Wosan rallied Ethiopian troops south of Dessye today in a desperate effort to stem the Italian advance.

Fresh troops from remote provinces in the interior were ordered northward posthaste to reënforce Emperor Haile Selassie's retreating forces.

It was disclosed that the removal of the seat of the government to a less exposed site was discussed at a secret meeting of chieftains and officials yesterday, but no decision was announced.

At the last minute a Belgian military commission, which resigned in a body, postponed its departure from Djibouti, French Somaliland. The nature of the Belgians' dispute with the government was not disclosed.

Report Fall of Jigjiga.

Written instructions as to what to do in case of danger were issued by some legations as there was an unconfirmed report that the Italians had occupied the strategic city of Jigjiga.

The Ethiopian Young Men's association began the distribution of arms to men, women, and boys who apply for them. Males are expected to proceed to the front and the women to help guard Addis Ababa.

Huge popular demonstrations were held in various parts of the capital and the battle cry was sounded: "It is better to die free than to live as Italian slaves."

Orders were published prescribing flogging and heavy fines for slackers. All able-bodied men, the government asserted, must help defend the nation.

JOB PROBLEM IS SEEN AS MASTER KEY IN CAMPAIGN

Viewed as Greatest New Deal Hurdle.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 19.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt's Baltimore speech of last week now is accepted generally by politicians as a campaign document of great significance.

In this speech to the Young Democrats the President opened his canvass for reëlection with an attempt to face the great overshadowing question before the American people—the persisting volume of unemployment after three years of the New Deal, a volume of unemployment that is enormous and thought provoking whether you accept the estimate of 9 million 800 thousand by the national industrial conference board or the figure of 12 millions arrived at by the American Federation of Labor.

Agree 5 Million Reëmployed.

Both sources agree only on the extent of the reduction of unemployment in the last three years, which they place at about five million men. The New Dealers take credit for that reduction while the anti-New Dealers contend that but for the Roosevelt policies, the reëmployment would have been much greater.

The President at Baltimore was all too palpably troubled by this apparent record of failure which he must face and try to explain away. So he proceeded to say what he would do to end unemployment. His remedy, broadly stated, is to divide up the available amount of work among the available number of workers.

"Industry," said the President, "can contribute in great measure to the increase of employment if employers as a whole will undertake a reasonable reduction of hours of work a week, while, at the same time, they keep the average individual's pay envelope at least as large as it is today."

Would Limit Working Years.

Mr. Roosevelt also threw out the suggestion that there would be more jobs available if nobody worked before the age of 18 or after the age of 65. Then he uttered a thinly veiled threat of government action, if necessary, to make more jobs out of the visible supply of work.

"Because," said Mr. Roosevelt, "the practices of employment definitly affect the problem of unemployment, the government must give and will give consideration to such subjects as the length of the working week, the stability of employment on an annual basis and the payment of at least adequate minimum wages."

This clearly was a hint of the revival of such regimentation of industry as existed under the NRA, which the Supreme court demolished as an unconstitutional invasion of state rights, or of the enactment of legislation such as the Black bill limiting employment to 30 hours a week. But NRA was a demonstrated economic blunder before it was knocked out by the Supreme court.

NRA Blamed for Costs Rising.

Under NRA hours of labor were decreased and wage rates raised. The initial effect was an increase of employment. But the eventual result was an increase in the cost of production, which, translated into higher prices caused a lessened demand on the part of consumers whose purchasing power had not been increased.

The decreased demand for commodities caused curtailment of production. Factories were closed down or run on part time and the final result was an increase of unemployment. At the same time the AAA program of artificially induced scarcity had resulted in increased unemployment on the farms and in packing house and milling towns, the cotton curtailment plan alone having thrown more than one million persons out of work.

Thus the line of cleavage is established between the two schools of thought which will come to grips in the presidential election. On the one hand are the President and his associated liberals and radicals of all parties who would continue all the economic experimentation of the New Deal, which not only has failed to abolish, but has increased unemployment, and then, by invoking still more regimentation, would compel

RESCUE LIGHTHOUSE KEEPER, AT POST TWO DAYS IN GREAT PAIN

LONDON, April 19.—(AP)—Longstone lighthouse off the coast of Northumberland — scene of heroic rescues from a broken ship almost a century ago—was in the news again today.

Henry Fishburn, the present lighthouse keeper, was taken ill with a poisoned hand. He suffered agonizing pain. Alone in the lighthouse, he flew a distress signal for two days. Meanwhile he tended the light, enabling vessels to keep a safe course amid raging seas, whipped by fury of April winds sweeping the north sea. Eventually Fishburn's signal was answered. From nearby Holy Island came a lifeboat. The lighthouse keeper was taken to the mainland for treatment. He is recovering from the poisoning.

The plight of Fishburn recalled the heroic exploit of 23 year old Grace Darling. Her father kept the Longstone lighthouse. On July 9, 1838, the Forfarshire, with sixty-three on board, struck Farne Island on which the lighthouse stands. Forty-three were drowned. Darling and his daughter rowed out in the storm and brought off nine persons from the wrecked ship. Other survivors were able to swim ashore.

BURNED IN TRYING TO RESCUE DOG; IT SAVES ITSELF

When fire broke out yesterday in the flat of Frank Munford at 615 South boulevard, Oak Park, Munford fled to the street. So did his sister, Miss Irene Munford. Only when they had reached a place of safety did Munford remember that his wire haired terrier, Happy, was still in the apartment. He dashed back and tried to rescue the dog, but had to give up the effort when his face and hands were severely burned. When firemen had extinguished the flames they found that Happy had crawled under a bed and had suffered only a slight singe. Damage in the fire was estimated at only $200.

When he stepped from an airplane today he planned to spend two months. But he was greeted by a cablegram from Alexander Korda, his producer: "Return by next plane."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, April 2.—[By Mail.]—From the upper Rio Negro, which is virtually unexplored jungle, comes the story of the annihilation of the "cobra grande," a monster as superior in monstrousness to other monsters as Paul Bunyan was to other lumberjacks.

This cobra grande [also at times called the sukury] has for many years been the talk of the upper Amazon country. Old rubber gatherers in that section have said that they mistook its eyes at night for searchlights. Others have maintained its body was so large and its length so great that at times it was mistaken for a cedar tree floating in the Amazon. Also when it swam it made more wake than two or three Amazonian steamboats.

Tell of Killing Monster.

The intelligent residents of Manaos, the last outpost of civilization on the river, used to dismiss these tales as inventions of the caboclos, the rubber tree tappers. But not any more. For two young explorers have reached Manaos and told of killing the sukury just before it rolled over a whole surveying party and all but scrunched it into nothing.

These explorers were members of a mixed Brazilian-Venezuelan party that has been endeavoring for ten years to fix the border line of the two countries. They were standing on the bank of the Rio Negro, they said, when they heard the creature coming.

"There were eight of us," said the spokesman, "when we saw it breaking its way through the jungle growths right at us. There was no escape for us. But one of the men, when the monster was only thirty feet away, pointed a rifle at it and fired. It was a lucky shot. It caught the cobra grande right between the eyes.

Trees Leveled by Creature.

"It threw itself straight up in the air, a distance of perhaps forty feet. In its thrashing about it leveled trees. Then, after three more bullets had been fired into its body, the monster died.

"The next day we measured it. Its length was 131 feet 3 inches, and its diameter 31½ inches. We estimated it would weigh three tons or more. Four men could not lift its head off the ground. Regretfully we had to leave the body there, as we were several days' journey even from our main party and hundreds of miles from Manaos."

Perhaps nobody would have believed the story if the explorers had not produced a picture of it. And that picture, which was printed originally in the Journal of Manaos, proves that the dead cobra grande was something tremendous in the way of snaky monsters—if the photography wasn't faked. And who knows?

BAH! SAY EXPERTS.

Chicagoans who know their serpents were doubtful last night about the dimensions of the cobra grande reported killed in Brazil. Edward H. Bean, director of the Chicago Zoölogical park, said that the largest snakes ever brought into this country, Indian pythons, were less than thirty feet long and seldom exceed that length. However, he said, much Brazilian country was unexplored, and nobody knew what it might produce.

Bob Becker, THE TRIBUNE'S wild life expert, was less conservative.

"The caboclos drink a kind of rum called cashaca," he said. "Maybe they use it when they take pictures. Six of the biggest South American snakes laid end to end wouldn't be 131 feet long."

BROTHER-IN-LAW OF KING EDWARD LIKENS HITLER TO GANGSTER

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, April 19.—The earl of Harewood, King Edward's brother-in-law, compared Adolf Hitler to a gangster yesterday in a speech which may earn him a private rebuke from St. James's palace.

"If you examine the methods of Hitler it is difficult to draw any parallel to them except to the methods of a gangster," said the earl in his address opening the new drill hall for territorial army at Huddersfield. After citing Hitler's treatment of politicians and Jews he went on: "All that does not interest us while he governs in his own country, but the moment he begins terrorizing persons outside his own country then we will be obliged to take interest."

"If dealing with a highwayman or a gangster we shall do so more comfortably if we are armed with a bulletproof shirt. It is a bulletproof shirt which we have to provide somehow in this country."

Harewood has often expressed political opinions in public speeches and occasionally he has been the source of embarrassment to the rest of the royal family.

Fred Harvey and Wife Die in Plane Crash

Coroner Cyrus Davis identified the couple by papers found in the plane. They lived in Kansas City.

Davis said the ship struck electric power lines near the top of a mountain and apparently plunged nose first into the ground. Gasoline and oil poured from the ship, spreading fire throughout a clearing.

Plane Heard Flying Low.

Residents of mountain farms told of hearing the ship flying low overhead. A moment later there was a crash. Then another.

Farmers rushed up the mountain and found the ship in flames. They tossed buckets of water in an effort to prevent the fire from consuming the bodies.

The coroner said he found the charred body of a pet dog clasped tightly in Mrs. Harvey's arms.

Mrs. Harvey returned yesterday from a trip to Europe. Her husband had gone east to meet her ship at New York.

Crashes 600 Feet from Mud Road.

"It was impossible for anybody to have seen the wreck, because the plane crashed 600 or 700 feet from the mud road leading over the mountains between farming communities," the coroner added.

"The plane hit in a piece of rough, rocky, and wild cutover timber land in a cleared space crossed by five high tension wires.

"The wreck is right on top of the Alleghenies."

Witnesses said the skies were cloudy, but that visibility was fair. The accident occurred about 60 miles northeast of Chestnut ridge, where the TWA's Sun Racer plunged into a mountain on April 7, killing 12 persons.

Former Army Pilot.

Kansas City, Mo., April 19.—(AP)—Associates here said Frederick H. Harvey, 40 years old, killed in an airplane crash near Johnstown, Pa., flew east a week ago to meet his wife, Elizabeth, 31, on her return from a trip to England.

Harvey, a director of Transcontinental and Western Air, was a veteran pilot. He left Harvard university early in 1917 to enter the aviation section of the army signal corps, in which he later earned a captain's commission. He was an enthusiastic horseman and a dog fancier, and was well known in the midwest as a polo player.

FREQUENT VISITOR HERE.

Frederick H. Harvey was a nephew of Byron S. Harvey Sr. of Chicago, who succeeded Frederick's father, Ford, as president of Fred Harvey, Inc. Frederick H. and his wife, the former Elizabeth Drage of Kansas City, visited frequently in Chicago and attended social functions here in former years. Stewart Harvey, 1366 Dearborn parkway, also is an uncle of the dead man.

Mr. Harvey passed through here on Tuesday of last week.

Companions Face Like Fate.

MOOSE RIVER, N. S., April 20 [Monday].—The men entombed in the Moose River gold mine sent word that one of their number was dead today, after flood waters rose rapidly in the pit where they had been imprisoned a week.

They said the dead man was Herman B. Magill, Toronto lawyer and one of the owners of the abandoned gold mine.

A cry, coming through the communication tube from the depths of the gold mine, informed the rescue workers that Magill was dead.

A five inch pipe, driven down to their cavern, 141 feet below the surface of the earth, had established communication with the three men yesterday. They were trapped Easter Sunday night in a cave-in while inspecting the old works.

Rescuers Stand Aghast.

Harassed volunteers, who had been planning to proceed safely to the 141 foot level over a period of two or three days, feeding the prisoners through the pipe line during that time, stood aghast as the fatal word came to the surface.

Half an hour before the strangled cry of death came the entombed men sent an emergency signal, saying the flood waters were rising and that they had only ten hours to live unless they were rescued.

The voice of the timekeeper, Scadding, carried to the surface by the 100 foot pipe line through which the three men had just been fed, brought the news. With Scadding remained Dr. Robertson, who purchased the mine three months ago with Magill.

Exist in Utter Darkness.

All three had existed in utter darkness, without food or water, until yesterday, when the communication was established with the aid of a diamond drill. Flashlights, medicine, food, water, and coffee had been lowered to the imprisoned men.

Mrs. Robertson and Mrs. Magill, standing at the surface while rescue crews strove to reach their husbands, sent messages of encouragement below and were answered.

Soup was being fed to the men through a rubber tube and all was believed to be well, when suddenly shouts from the pit asked that the tube be raised.

"The mine is flooding!" came a cry.

Widow Not Informed.

Mrs. Magill was not immediately informed of her husband's death.

R. J. Ivey of London, Ont., brother-in-law of Dr. Robertson, said: "I was speaking down the tube. I was asked if Mrs. Magill were at the mine head or somewhere handy. I replied she was at the mine office. She does not know of the death."

Telephone workers attempted to lower equipment through the tube to direct the other two men below to higher ground away from the seeping waters.

Mine Manager F. D. Henderson said he could hazard no guess as to when Dr. Robertson and Scadding might be reached.

Twelve hours of steady work would be required to clear away twenty feet of rock and débris, Harold Gordon, a mining engineer, said.

Work on New Shaft.

But there was no chance for steady work. Unsupported walls collapsed time after time as daring miners, many of them with no more than five hours sleep in four days, dug forward. At each warning they scrambled to safety.

Meanwhile, other rescuers strove at a new vertical shaft being sunk from the surface. It was down forty-five feet, less than half way, and it was estimated at least three days would be required to sink it to the 141-foot level.

Contact with the men was established shortly after last midnight when tapping signals were heard on the pipe driven through a two inch diamond drill hole.

"Hello," the rescue miners shouted down.

"Hello," came back the faint voice of Scadding.

At that time Scadding told them all three men were alive and well. He sent up word he did not believe there was any danger of the mine being flooded from water seeping through the mine levels.

But he said it was necessary to wade through the cold water to reach the communication pipe.

Talk to Husbands.

Mrs. Robertson and Mrs. Magill, so overcome they could scarcely speak, talked briefly with the men in the underground cavern.

"Hello, Herm, hello," said Mrs. Magill.

"Eddie, you there?" said Mrs. Robertson.

Receiving an answer, she shouted, "Keep up your courage."

Turning to the tired, dirt covered miners who crowded about, she said, "Men, you are wonderful."

Mine Manager F. D. Henderson, who is assisting Inspector J. P. Messervey in directing the rescue, sent down a written message directing the men to explore the eastern slope of the shaft to aid the rescue efforts.

Send Written Message.

"We'll have you up in two days," he wrote. "Keep up courage. Over 100 men working to get you up and government giving every aid. Tell the doctor and Magill love and kisses from Mrs. Magill and Mrs. Robertson."

The three men were unable to give any directions, however, as to where drilling operations would be most successful. They said they were unable to hear the blasting overhead.

Once, after communication was established, alarm was felt that the men were drowning.

Henderson, leaning over the tube after waterproof material had been sent down, chaffed at the delay of the three in emptying the container.

"Hello," he shouted, "why don't you unload?"

Then placing his ear to the line he heard rushing water, and, horror stricken, he exclaimed, "There's water pouring in."

But soon, Scadding shouted that the seepage made it difficult to reach the line without getting wet, and that Dr. Robertson, carefully husbanding the strength of his two patients, "was keeping them away from the tube as much as possible."

Later rubber hose was rushed to the mine by seaplane on order of Premier Angus Macdonald so food could be sent the men without their getting wet.

Ask for Coffee.

Premier MacDonald, down on his hands and knees in the mud, shouted through the pipeline, "Did you get the soup?"

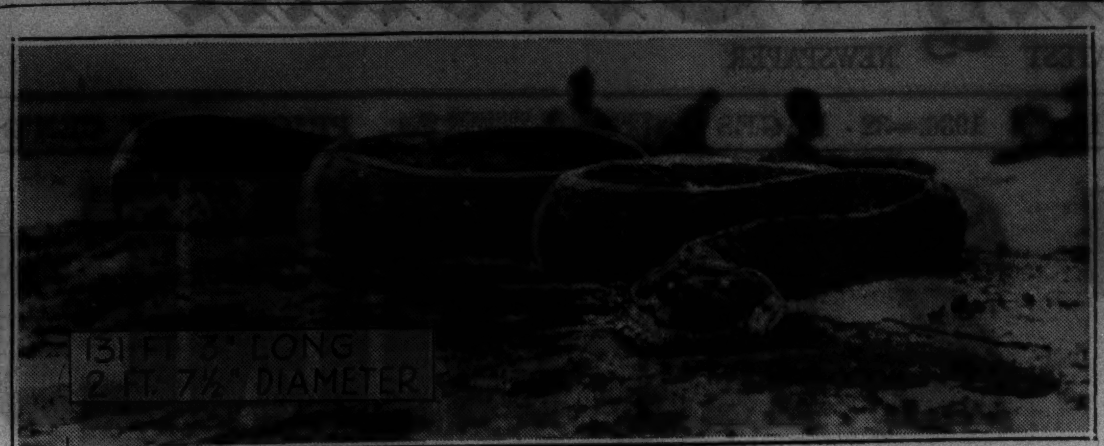
"Yes!" came a joyous voice from below.

"Do you want some more?" the premier yelled, as all drills and a steam shovel were quieted on the surface.

"We want coffee!" came back the answer.

So coffee was sent down to them. The hole is only two inches in diameter. Rescue workers, however, were preparing to sink a second one, five inches in diameter, as a safeguard against possible damage to the one in use.

MONSTER TO END ALL STORIES OF MONSTERS



"Cobra grande," reputed to be a reptile 131 feet 3 inches long and 2 feet 7½ inches in diameter, said to have been killed by surveyors on the Upper Rio Negro, Brazil. The men who brought out the picture, reproduced by permission of O Journal, Manaos, Brazil, were working in virtually unexplored jungle for the commission which is surveying the Brazil-Venezuela boundary in that region. Skeptics say this picture may be the result of trick photography.

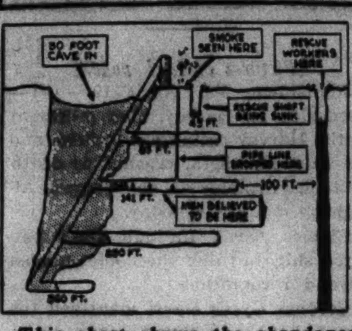
MINE TRAGEDY



This chart shows the abandoned gold mine at Moose River, N. S., where three are trapped by a cave-in. One of the victims is reported dead. The hole at the right of the main shaft is a pipe sunk to the 141 foot level, through which food is passed. A rescue shaft has been sunk forty-five feet, while near by another abandoned shaft is cleared by rescuers.

Boy Called to Breakfast; Door Sticks; Falls 30 Feet

Los Angeles, Cal., April 19.—(AP)—Clarence O'Neal Jr., 7, had been called to breakfast by his mother and he was hungry. But his bedroom door, swollen by recent damp weather, would not budge. He went to the window to call his parents. A short while later the boy was in a hospital suffering from abdominal injuries. He had fallen 30 feet to the hard earth.

HEAR DUCE PLANS TO PLACE HAILE'S SON ON THRONE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, April 19.—The British determination to "fight Italy to the last Ethiopian"—a wicked French appreciation of British policy—was given particularly tragic significance by new reports in Italian circles here today that Marshal Pietro Badoglio, Italian commander in East Africa, will shortly proclaim Emperor Haile Selassie's eldest son, Crown Prince Asfa Wosan, emperor in his father's place.

The emperor, it was reported, has considered the advisability of abdicating on the ground that in this way he could end the massacre of his subjects and gain less harsh peace terms for his country. The British, however, tell the emperor not to give up. If the Italians enter Addis Ababa Haile Selassie can carry on guerilla warfare. With the league of nations' economic sanctions in force the cost of maintaining the Italian army eventually would ruin Italy, the English predict.

Meanwhile the Italians are preparing to spring a new Ethiopian government on the league. Jesus Afework, former Ethiopian minister to Rome who is married to an Italian woman, is fighting against Haile Selassie. He is due in Geneva soon.

It is believed the Italians want Afework to serve as a spokesman for the new negus when and if a provision government is set up.

POLISH CABINET CRISIS SEEN; PREMIER CALLS OFF TRIP TO HUNGARY

WARSAW, April 19.—(AP)—Rumors of a Polish cabinet crisis circulated tonight as Premier Marjan Zyndram Koscialkowski suddenly canceled a trip to Budapest where he was to return a visit to Warsaw by Premier Julius Goemboes of Hungary in 1934.

Koscialkowski was to have left today. An official statement said ill health was the reason for his change of mind, but most observers thought a cabinet revision was impending as a result of recent disorders.

The newspaper Gazeta Palska, generally considered almost a government mouthpiece especially on foreign affairs, was confiscated for criticizing the government for weakness in dealing with unrest and economic distress.

There was much uneasiness here as communists tried last night to stir up demonstrations in Lwow, where sixteen persons were killed in riots Thursday. Lwow police arrested groups of cyclists pedaling from place to place to urge the people to come out into the streets. The government disclosed that 660 persons have been arrested since Thursday.

HITLER FOE TELLS JEWISH MEETING OF PERSECUTION

The second annual conference of the Chicago division of the American Jewish congress met yesterday in the Hotel Sherman. Max Brauer, exiled by the Nazis, spoke on the present persecution of Jews in Germany. He was regarded an expert in municipal affairs during pre-Nazi days. He was mayor of Altona, Germany, and was a president of the Germany Federation of Cities. Although not a Jew, Mr. Brauer was compelled to flee from Germany when Hitler came into power.

Sigmund W. David, president of the Chicago division of the Jewish congress, presided. He was reëlected president and Mrs. Mayer De Mar again was chosen secretary. Rabbis Abraham E. Abramowitz and Solomon Goldman and Judge Joseph B. David of Superior court were named delegates to the World Jewish congress next August at The Hague.

Among the other speakers were Prof. Paul Douglas of the University of Chicago, Pearl Franklin, co-chairman of the conference; Leo H. Lowitz, and Rabbis Felix Mendelsohn and M. B. Sachs. Mrs. Stephen S. Wise of New York was a luncheon guest.

UNBORN BABIES HEAR SOUNDS IN LAST 4 MONTHS

Yellow Springs, O., April 19.—(AP)—Unborn babies hear sounds for the last four months before birth, and noises which do not disturb their mothers may speed the infant's heart rate 14 beats a second.

These discoveries, startling because some physiologists have doubted that even a newborn baby hears, and because they indicate that environment may begin its molding influence before birth in ways not hitherto considered, is reported by Dr. L. W. Sontag and Dr. Wallace of Antioch college.

Their work was done for the Samuel S. Fels fund clinic and described in the American Journal of Diseases of Children.

KIDNAP HIDEOUT HAMLET LONGS FOR OBSCURITY

Quiet Bensenville Shrinks from $300,000 Crimes.

In 1873 the Milwaukee railroad pushed its rails into Du Page through what is now the town of Bensenville. After the usual flurry of excitement attendant upon the coming of a railroad subsided, the farmers of the countryside settled down to the everyday business of using the town as a milk depot, the railroad established an office, and peace enveloped the community.

That same peace prevailed for more than 50 years, when suddenly the people of Bensenville were jolted out of their complacence on learning that one of the most daring band of outlaws in the country's history had used two of their respected neighbors as keepers of two millionaire kidnaping victims who were held for a total of $300,000 ransom.

Bremer Case as an Opener.

The first revelation came last year when federal agents of the department of justice arrested Harold Alderton, with the announcement that his home at 180 South May street in the suburb was the prison where Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, was held in January, 1934, until the Barker-Karpis gang collected $200,000 for his release.

Alderton was sentenced to 20 years in the penitentiary. Then last Friday the federal agents upset the town's complacence anew when three men called upon Postmaster Edward C. Bartholmey, said they were postoffice inspectors and invited him out to dinner. They didn't tell Bartholmey, but their dinner engagement was in Minneapolis, whither they went by plane.

Another Famous Abduction.

On Saturday Bensenville again was the center of a blast of publicity. D. M. Ladd, head of the Chicago office of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice, and Edgar Hoover in Washington announced that Bartholmey's arrest solved the kidnaping of William Hamm Jr., wealthy St. Paul brewer, in June, 1933. Hamm, the agents said, was held prisoner in Bartholmey's house until the Barker-Karpis gang got $100,000 for returning him to his family.

The arrest of the postmaster, who was politically active in the town for 15 years, was the main topic of conversation at street corner gatherings, after church meetings, in stores, and in the several highly respectable family taverns.

Mrs. Sophie Thiemann, who is 72 years old, a widow, and a member of the old German section of the community, still runs the tavern her husband opened in 1895 to serve the farmers and the railroad men from the nearby roundhouse. She expressed the village sentiment concerning its unwanted notoriety this way:

"Nothing like this ever happened here before, and it's too bad. It's much worse than the time a farmer's wife jumped in a cistern and killed herself. Of course, we all feel sorry for Mrs. Bartholmey. She is a nice woman. But give them time and people will forget. Anyway, it's not like the old days. Nothing ever happened then."

The principal reaction of the townspeople was a surprise. After that, the consensus was:

"Pretty soon, we'll have a name like Stickney used to have in the Al Capone days."

The townspeople, Mayor George Runge, Chief of Police Harry Kolze, and Police Magistrate Julius G. Frey cannot understand why the Barker-Karpis gang chose Bensenville as a hideaway.

With its 1,900 inhabitants, Bensenville has a distinctly rural atmosphere in contrast with other communities of its size within 20 miles of Chicago. York road, a paved north-south highway, and Irving Park boulevard run through the town, and its nearby network of highways includes Lake street and North avenue, giving quick access to the city.

On the eastern outskirts of the town is the Milwaukee railroad roundhouse. Blasts from its whistle, four times a day at 7 a. m., 12 noon, 2:20 p. m., and 3 p. m., recorded themselves so firmly in Bremer's mind that they furnished the government investigators one of the clews with which they narrowed the search for Bremer's prison to Bensenville. Switchmen, laborers, and trainmen come and go in the town, some of them boarding there, strangers among their number almost unnoticed.

Huge Railway Yards Near.

The myriad railroad tracks in the area—the Bensenville switchyard is only a few miles from the great Proviso yards known as the largest in the world—offer a means of flight to any one pushed to the extremity of fleeing on a freight train.

The Bremer kidnapers used Alderton's house for a hideaway and congregated in Elmer Farmer's tavern. Elmer and his brother, James, who still lives in Bensenville, came to the town about 20 years ago. Both were bachelors. They opened a hotel, but it failed within a few years. Elmer then ran a restaurant and sold beer. The brothers were considered respectable.

SEEK TO INDICT SEVEN FOR HAMM KIDNAPING TOMORROW IN ST. PAUL

St. Paul, Minn., April 19.—[Special.] Indictment of seven men on charges of participating in the $100,000 ransome kidnaping of William Hamm Jr., wealthy St. Paul brewer, in June, 1933, will be sought here Tuesday when the federal grand jury convenes, according to George F. Sullivan, United States district attorney.

Alvin Karpis, national Public Enemy No. 1, is sought as the leader of the kidnap gang. The others against whom indictments will be asked are Edward C. Bartholmey, postmaster of Bensenville, Ill.; Elmer Farmer, former tavernkeeper in Bensenville; Jack Pfeiffer, St. Paul gambler and night club owner; Charles Fitzgerald, a bank robber; Byron Bolton, and Arthur [Doc] Barker.

Bartholmey and Pfeiffer were arrested at their homes Friday and Fitzgerald was seized Wednesday in Los Angeles and is being brought to St. Paul. Barker is serving a life term in the government prison at Alcatraz for his part in the kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, another wealthy St. Paul brewer, for whose release $200,000 ransom was paid.

Farmer is serving a twenty year sentence at Leavenworth penitentiary for his part in the Bremer abduction. Bolton, now in the county jail at St. Paul, has pleaded guilty to complicity in the Bremer kidnaping and is awaiting sentence.

PRESS SEARCH FOR MYSTERY GIRL IN KILLING

Hunted as Key to Death of Arthur Hewitt.

Police were searching in Chicago last night for Jewel Corley [or Cortez], the young woman believed to be the key figure in the mysterious slaying of Arthur J. Hewitt, 59 years old, prosperous resident of Wheaton. Hewitt's body was found early Saturday in an areaway between buildings at 3612-14 South Park way, where it had apparently lain since Thursday.

Two men and another girl, held at the state's attorney's office, said the Corley girl, whom they knew as Jerry, confided to them that she slew Hewitt by hitting him on the head with a ginger ale bottle early Thursday. The trio admitted they drove to Detroit early Friday with Jerry in the slain Hewitt's automobile. Detroit police also were hunting the young woman.

Gary Phone Call Traced.

Information that Jerry might be in Chicago and not in Detroit was received late yesterday by Wheaton police. They received a telephone call from a man who said he could "turn up Jerry" on payment of $100. The call was traced to Gary, where Guy Madison, 29 years old, colored, 1620 Adams street, Gary, was found in a phone booth in a drug store at 1600 Broadway.

Madison and Irene Williams, 31 years old, 1345 Adams street, Gary, also colored, were arrested. The Williams woman was brought to Chicago for questioning. Madison was held at Gary.

Those held at the state's attorney's office, who accompanied the Corley woman to Detroit, are Betty Honzik, 20 years old, 8404 South Major avenue, Clearing; George Richardson, 1755 Washington boulevard, a Checker cab driver, and Clement Tichelaar, 1407 North Karlov avenue, a baker.

Also in custody is Jack Rossi, 6420 Eggleston avenue, another Checker driver, who was not on the Detroit trip but who knew Jerry and corroborated some of the statements of the others. Police said they were satisfied those in custody had nothing to do with the killing.

Heel of Shoe Is Clew.

In Detroit, investigators were canvassing all shoe repair shops and pawnbrokers' establishments. According to the story told by Miss Honzik, Richardson, and Tichelaar, Jerry pawned two suits of men's clothing in Detroit and later gave them the slip by going into a shoe repair shop to have a heel put on one of her shoes, then dodging out a side door. A woman's shoe heel was picked up near Hewitt's body.

Police here believed the killing occurred Thursday night, theorizing that Hewitt's woman companion lured him to the areaway where she or male accomplices slew him for his money. Hewitt's clothing was in disorder. Police believed he did not die immediately after he was attacked but that he lingered in the areaway unconscious for possibly as long as 15 hours before death came.

An inquest into Hewitt's death will be held at the county morgue today.

Police last night, after an all day search, were without tangible clews to the mysterious slaying of Patrick Carroll, 45 years old, small time gambler and minor politician in the Forty-second ward. Carroll was found shot below the heart at 4:30 a. m. yesterday at the emergency entrance of Henrotin hospital, where he died in a few hours.

When taken to the operating room he told detectives that he had been wounded while standing on the sidewalk near Wells street and Chicago avenue. He declared that he walked from that point to the hospital, a distance of more than three blocks. Physicians asserted, however, that it was improbable he could have walked that far with the mortal wound.

Worker for Connors.

According to the police, Carroll, after operating a gambling house in the Chicago avenue district for years, went broke four years ago, and since then had been working as a sheet writer in handbook establishments.

He worked also as a precinct captain in the regular Democratic organization. During the last primary campaign he is reported to have been a worker for William [Butch] Connors, Forty-second ward committeeman and state senator.

Carroll said that he believed that he had been accidentally shot by early morning revelers, who were passing in an automobile. The bullet entered his left side below the heart and took a downward course, penetrating the stomach. Physicians commented that the course of the bullet would not indicate that it was fired from an automobile.

The politician's automobile was found parked at Elm and Clark streets. No bloodstains or evidences of a struggle were found in the car, but it was examined for finger prints. The police who traced the course which Carroll said he took in walking to the hospital were unable to find any bloodstains on the sidewalk.

Persists in His Story.

Lieut George Devereaux of the Chicago avenue station, after going over the evidence, said he believed Carroll was shot elsewhere and was taken to the hospital by associates who left him at the entrance. The wounded man, however, insisted while dying that his story was true.

At his bedside when he died were his two brothers and a sister, Mrs. Robert Wallace, whose husband is captain of fire truck company No. 22, 1620 Winnemac avenue. The politician lived with his mother, Mrs. Margaret Carroll, 76 years old, at 3535 Wilton avenue.

Chalk stripes have been gaining in favor with well-dressed men for some time. Nothing gives a man a more upstanding appearance. Along the same lines, but somewhat bolder, cable stripes came into the picture—from London. And now, from the same source come polychrome stripes—alternating stripes of two colors, or one color and white.

THREE BURN TO DEATH IN TRUCK AND AUTO CRASH

Victims in Car Without Plates Unidentified.

Three persons, two men and a woman, were burned to death early today when the automobile in which they were riding burst into flames after crashing into the trailer of a cattle truck at 111th street and Cicero avenue, in Worth township.

All the bodies were burned so badly that police for a time were not even postitive of the sex of the victims. Their car was a mass of fire immediately after the impact and none could approach it to attempt a rescue. The machine, an old two door sedan, carried no license plates and no other marks of identification were found.

Car Hits Cattle Truck.

The truck and trailer, loaded with cattle, was traveling north in Cicero avenue and the sedan east in 111th street. Police were told that the driver of the sedan failed to make the required stop at the intersection. The cattle truck was not seriously damaged and the county highway police, without learning the driver's name, directed him to take his load to the stockyards and then to return to the Willow Springs police station.

W. A. O'Connor, owner of a garage at the intersection, heard the crash and looked out to see the wrecked automobile blazing. He seized a fire extinguisher and ran to the car, but was unable to get near enough to use the extinguisher on the flames.

He then called the Oak Lawn fire department and the police, who put out the fire and removed the bodies to the undertaking rooms at 9515 Cook avenue, Oak Lawn. An inquest will be held there today.

Teacher's Auto Kills Boy.

Charles Pence, 12 years old, 14412 South Trumbull avenue, Midlothian, died yesterday in Michael Reese hospital of injuries received Saturday night when he was struck at 46th street and the outer drive by an automobile driven by George Huss, 31 years old, 1718 South Jefferson street, a teacher in the Medill High school.

Charles, with his brothers, Clyde, Lee, and Lyle, were on their way to the lake shore when the tragedy occurred. They were waiting for a break in trafic so they could cross the drive. Suddenly Charles darted ahead of his brothers into the path of the Huss car.

The young woman killed yesterday morning when an automobile in which she was riding struck an abutment of the Chicago and North Western railroad viaduct on Irving Park boulevard at Ravenswood avenue was identified later as Mrs. Evelyn Gessler, 27 years old, 106 Cornelia avenue, a divorcée. The driver, William Carlin, 25 years old, 4508 North Keystone avenue, was in serious condition at Martha Washington hospital.

Forest Park Woman Dies.

Mrs. Margaret Schunke, 60 years old, 239 Marengo street, Forest Park, died in the Oak Park hospital early today shortly after she was struck by an automobile in Harlem avenue between 15th and 16th streets, Berwyn. The driver, Stanley Beireis, 22 years old, of East Walters street, Northbrook, was held by the Berwyn police for the inquest today.

Mrs. Gessler was the mother of an 11 year old son. Her aunt, Mrs. Reva Snow, who identified the body, said her niece had been keeping company with Carlin for several months.

John Holdring, 81 years old, 9314 Cregier avenue, died in his home yesterday of injuries incurred on March 8 when he was struck by an automobile driven by Victor Galerious, 7308 Drexel avenue, at Stony Island avenue and 93d street.

William G. Turner, 43 years old, of Sterling, Whiteside county, was seriously injured last evening when the automobile in which he was riding was struck by a car driven by Robert G. Robinson, 373 Central avenue, Highland Park, at Church street and Judson avenue, Evanston.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 280 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. During this period 229 were killed and 4,419 were injured in trafic accidents in Chicago.

Their Speech is Different But Their Desires the Same

Filling market baskets through salesmanship-in-print is the same the world over

Advertising, in its modern form, is an American creation—born and raised in the service of American Industry.

Foreigners have always considered it unique to this country—like the Yankee Drawl, or the Western Cowboy. "It may work in the United States," they said, "but it is entirely impractical, even unwelcome, in other countries."

In recent years, our experience with foreign advertising has brought radical revision of this idea.

"Reason-Why"—a universal appeal

True salesmanship-in-print has proved its power to sell goods in any country, to any kind of people. Whether you advertise to Englishmen, Frenchmen, Asiatics or Americans, this fundamental principle holds good—"Give to the consumer, in a compelling way, the REASONS-WHY it is in his interest to buy your wares."

Just a few years ago, advertising in foreign countries was still merely "general publicity," or "keeping your name in print." It was in the same condition as advertising in America thirty years ago, when Lord & Thomas first discovered the basic principle of salesmanship-in-print.

In those days, American advertisers were at a loss as to procedure in their foreign advertising. There was a great-to-do about "Local Color"—putting distinctive phrases in the copy that had the flavor of the country for which the advertising was intended.

This Gave Foreigners Some Strange Ideas

For example, the phrase, "A chukker of polo" was supposed to give an advertisement the local color of British India. And mention of "Pampas" was almost obligatory in South American advertising. No Spanish advertisement was complete without a "senorita" prominently displayed in illustration and copy.

Such "local color" was used in all advertising, from soaps to rubber tires—with results that may have given foreigners some strange ideas of American advertising.

Self-interest* first—Local color second

Now we leave local color entirely to native writers who understand the language and idiom of the country—and knowing its habits and thoughts, ofttimes use basic selling ideas—REASONS-WHY—that are exactly the same as those we use in America. Their appeal is universal.

And just as often, our foreign offices supply Reasons-Why which we find use for in America. The deep-rooted prejudices against American advertising abroad have yielded to sound principles of selling which replace the old ideas of "Local Color."

Thus, the foreign offices of Lord & Thomas unite with American offices to produce advertising that sells around the world. And basic principles have tapped golden opportunities in the same foreign fields that formerly resisted American selling programs, based on strange ideas of "Local Color."

True Salesmanship-in-Print Knows No Borders

True salesmanship-in-print knows no borders, for people are essentially the same everywhere. The same emotions, desires, needs and dreams inspire the actions of all human beings. Advertising that embraces this basic psychology wins markets and sales the world over.

We will be happy to discuss opportunities in foreign countries with advertisers who are looking for wider markets. Our foreign offices will gladly cooperate in planning and directing programs that bring "American Results" in the way of increased sales and profits.

ADMITS WENDEL KIDNAPING PLOT; 2 OTHERS SOUGHT

Suspect Refuses to Name Partners in Crime.

New York, April 19.—[Special.]—Martin Schlossman, 30 years old, of Brooklyn, tonight was formally charged with the kidnaping of Paul H. Wendel.

The booking followed by announcement by District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan of Kings county that Schlossman, co-proprietor of a laundry, had confessed.

Earlier Mr. Geoghan made known that Mrs. Fay Schlossman, the prisoner's wife, and her brother, Sidney Bleefeld, also known as Sidney Field, had been released.

Confers with Wilentz Today.

They will appear at his office at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning, however, he added, at which time Attorney General David T. Wilentz of New Jersey is expected to be there.

Mr. Geoghan said the prisoner had not asked for a lawyer and was making a more complete statement, details of which would be made public later.

The original announcement of the confession was formal and Mr. Geoghan refused to expand it in any way. Asked if Schlossman had implicated any other person he replied, "No."

Submits to Questioning.

Mr. Geoghan replied briefly to a series of questions. Part of the transcript follows:

Q.—As a result of your investigation and the information received has this crime been linked with any Jersey official? A.—At this time I prefer not to answer.

Q.—Is it the work of professional kidnapers or of amateurs and what motivated the kidnaping? A.—I wouldn't say that it was the work of a professional band, but the investigation discloses that it was a bonafide kidnaping. As to the motive, I prefer to answer that question later.

Q.—Does your information link with the Lindbergh investigation and the delay in Hauptmann's execution? A.—It does link generally with the Lindbergh case.

"Torture Prison" Found.

Geoghan said he was convinced that the house of Schlossman's father-in-law, Harry Bleefeld, was the one in which Wendel claims to have been held prisoner for ten days and tortured to force a confession, later repudiated, to the Lingbergh baby kidnaping.

Geoghan said he had been doubtful at first that the house in question was the one where Wendel said he had been held, because the cellar did not contain a partition such as the one to which Wendel said he was chained.

He said that Schlossman had admitted, however, that the partition was built at the time of the alleged kidnaping and later removed.

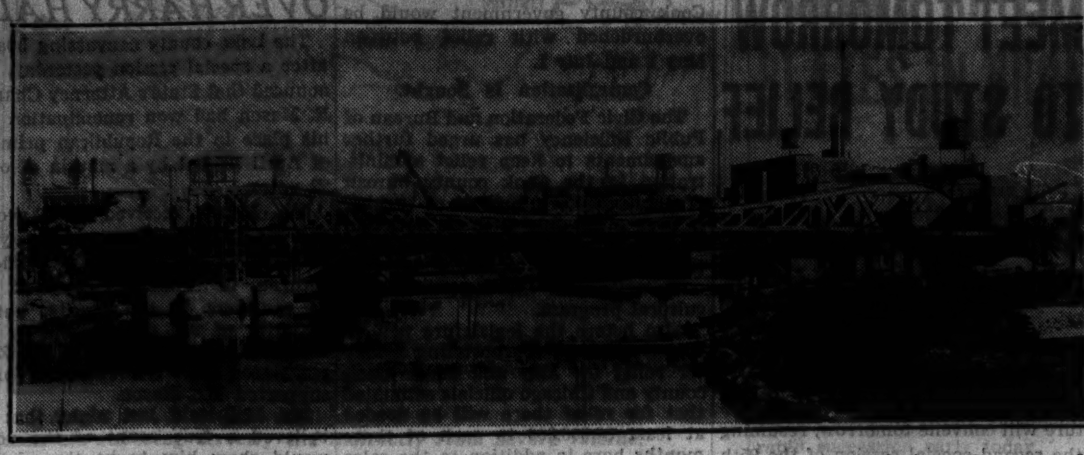
The district attorney said Schlossman also admitted he was the member of the kidnap quartet called "Jack," as Wendel had said.

Schlossman denied, however, that he had driven Wendel from Brooklyn to the home of Ellis Parker, veteran New Jersey detective. Geoghan said Schlossman declined to answer questions as to "who was behind" the kidnaping.

Seek Two Others in Detroit.

Another new development in the Wendel case came at 9 p. m. when a party, including Brooklyn detectives, took off in a plane from Floyd Bennett field, bound for Detroit, apparently intent on arresting two other suspects sought in the alleged kidnaping.

ASHLAND AVENUE BRIDGE WORK NEAR END



The new Ashland avenue bridge, being built with gas tax funds, nearing completion. It spans the north branch of the Chicago river. Approaches are to be paved soon. The opening has been set for July.

Ready by July 1

The $1,700,000 bascule bridge which will span the north branch of the Chicago river at Ashland avenue will soon be completed, it was announced yesterday. Only the approaches to the bridge remain to be installed, engineers said. The bridge was started two years ago from gas tax funds and is scheduled to be open for trafic before July 1.

FINNIGAN SILENT ON SPITZ'S $5,000 RANSOM CACHE

Attorney Returns from Seeing Hoffman.

Attorney Bernard Finnigan, who went to New Jersey on April 1 with Stephen Spitz, a convicted swindler who claimed to know where $5,000 of the Lindbergh ransom money could be found, was back in Chicago yesterday. He declared the money still is "available."

BERNARD FINNIGAN.

"But," he added, "there are several features to be developed first. That must be done by Gov. Hoffman of New Jersey."

Spitz did not return. He obtained his liberty from the Bridewell, where he was serving out a fine of $1,000 for operating a confidence game, when $872—the balance due on his debt to society—was sent by telegraph, presumably from Gov. Hoffman.

Story Leaves Judge Cold.

His story was that in August, 1934, two men offered to sell him the Lindbergh ransom money at 40 cents on the dollar. This disclosure was regarded as of some importance in view of the fact that Bruno Richard Hauptmann was expected to be electrocuted.

Chief Justice Sonsteby of the Municipal court and other officials, who interviewed Spitz in his cell, would not recommend his release on the story, and he probably would have been imprisoned yet if the fine had not been paid.

Faces New Arrest Here.

According to Attorney Finnigan, Spitz is remaining in the east. From the Spitz standpoint this is probably good strategy, as there is another complaint in Chicago charging him with operating a confidence game and the police have threatened to arrest him on sight.

Mr. Finnigan hazarded the opinion that when Gov. Hoffman had finished developing the Lindbergh kidnaping and murder case the mystery would be cleared up.

"But any further statements about it," he said, "will have to come from the governor."

Governor Makes No Comment.

Trenton, N. J., April 19.—(AP)—William S. Conklin, press aid to Gov. Harold G. Hoffman, said tonight the governor was not available for comment on statements by Bernard J. Finnegan, Chicago lawyer.

BEGIN TESTIMONY TODAY IN $1,500,000 REND BANK CASE

Hearing of evidence in the suit brought by the estate of the late Joseph P. Rend, coal merchant and capitalist, against the City company of New York City will begin this morning before a jury in the court of Federal Judge Charles A. Woodward. The jury was selected on Thursday but the trial was postponed to today because of the illness of Max D. Steuer of New York, who is chief counsel for the City company. Mr. Steuer has now recovered.

The suit was filed on behalf of Rend's widow, Mrs. Agnes Rend of the Seneca hotel, who is executrix of her husband's estate, seeking to collect $1,500,000.

She alleges that Charles E. Mitchell, former president of the National City bank, of which the City company is an affiliate, induced her husband to buy the bank's stock at inflated values during the boom days. Mitchell is a brother-in-law of Rend.

RUSSIAN FLYERS LAND SAFELY ON ISLAND IN ARCTIC

MOSCOW, April 19.—(AP)—The Tikhaya bay settlement in the center of the Franz Josef Island group received a radio message today announcing the safe arrival of a soviet arctic plane operated by Pilot Mihail Vodopyanoff.

He reported he was forced to land at Hochestetter Island, about 65 miles from Tikhaya bay, his destination. The crew of three was safe, Vodopyanoff reported, and will resume the trip when visibility improves.

The plane hopped off from Cape Desire on Novaya Zemlya Island, 350 miles from Tikhaya bay, three days ago. A fragmentary message received yesterday indicated the crew was safe, but failed to give the plane's location.

Hold Triple Funeral for Killer and Close Friend

Whitesburg, Ky., April 19.—[Special.]—Triple funeral services were held at Greenridge today for George Gibson, 30; Charles Adams, 22, and Dorsey Banks. They were killed Saturday after Banks accused Gibson and Adams of the theft of five gallons of whisky. After the theft the men met on the roadside. Without warning Banks killed both and then shot himself. All three died within a few minutes. Previously they had been close friends.

PURDUE OBTAINS 'FLYING LAB' TO BOOST AVIATION

Lafayette, Ind., April 19.—(AP)—Announcement of the establishment of a fund for purchase of a "flying laboratory" in which Amelia Earhart, first woman to fly the Atlantic, will hop here and there around the world was announced today by Purdue university.

The fund, of over $50,000, to be known as the Amelia Earhart fund for aeronautical research, was contributed by several members of the Purdue Research Foundation who asked that their names not be made public.

The "flying laboratory" now is being constructed by the Lockheed factory at Burbank, Cal. It is a twin-motored, 10-passenger, two-pilot transport plane of the low-wing monoplane type and has a normal cruising speed of 190 miles an hour and a top in excess of 200.

Instead of seats the plane will be equipped with extra gas tanks for extended non-stop flight, robot pilot, de-icing appliances, radio "homing" device, two-way radio telephone and all the other present day aids to aerial navigation.

Identify Robber Slain by Drug Store Clerk

The youthful robber who was shot to death Saturday after he held up a drug store at 7200 Racine avenue was identified yesterday as Leo Udelis, 21 years old, by his mother, Mrs. Adele Bewon, 4630 South Honore street, and by a girl acquaintance, Miss Nellie Kosarek, 21 years old, 4633 South Honore street. Udelis was fatally wounded by Charles Lindemeyer, 42 years old, 1241 West 31st street, a clerk in the store.

ICKES PROPOSED AS DELEGATE TO HORNER BY IGOE

Resolutions Body Berth Also Suggested.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

French Lick Springs, Ind., April 19.—[Special.]—Selection of Secretary of the Interior Ickes as a delegate-at-large from Illinois to the Democratic national convention in Philadelphia was proposed to Gov. Horner today by United States Attorney Igoe of Chicago.

Igoe said that he had discussed the possibility with Ickes in Washington recently and believed that the secretary would accept, if elected by the state convention in Springfield May 1.

The further suggestion was made that Ickes, hardest of the hard-shell New Dealers, might even be named the Illinois member of the resolutions committee where he could have a hand in writing a platform which would be a positive, word-for-word reflection of just how President Roosevelt wanted it to read.

Expect Horner to Be Delegate.

Horner forces here for their post-primary play—interspersed with as much political talk as they feel like indulging in—anticipate that they will control the state convention and will be able to choose the eight delegates-at-large. The governor undoubtedly will be one of them, and the others are expected to include Igoe, Senator James Hamilton Lewis, former Congressman James T. Igoe, and James M. Slattery, who helped the governor in his primary campaign.

As things now stand, Senator Lewis' colleague, William H. Dieterich of Beardstown, appears unlikely to be among the delegates-at-large, because of his energetic support of Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, Horner's opponent. However, that matter is still in doubt.

According to Daniel James Florence Sullivan, a major Horner political advisor and secretary of the state central committee, the basis of representation at the state convention will be the Democratic primary vote cast in 1934, when the downstate vote was slightly larger than that in Cook county.

See Cook County Support.

The Horner people say that they will control the downstate delegation and will have the Cook county support at least of James Whalen and Martin J. O'Brien, committeemen of the Sixth and Twenty-ninth wards, respectively. Several of the newly elected country town committeemen are also for Horner.

It is estimated here that the downstate will cast about twenty votes more than Cook county in the convention.

The Cook county convention will be held on April 27, and the governor's friends here believe that an indorsement of the entire slate, from President Roosevelt on, and including Horner, will be given then. Dr. Bundesen was indorsed by the present committee.

Election Convention Morning.

The new state central committee is expected to elect officers the morning of the convention. Harry Hershey of Taylorville is slated according to the talk here, to succeed Bruce A. Campbell of Belleville as chairman, and Sullivan probably will be reëlected secretary.

Gov. Horner spent a quiet Sunday, taking the baths during the morning and spending part of the afternoon pleasantly, watching a fashion show in the hotel gardens.

State's Attorney Courtney, it is understood, will arrive here tomorrow morning for a talk with the governor. Mr. Horner plans to leave for Springfield some time during the day to be on hand Tuesday morning when the legislature will resume its special session and consider relief needs.

CONSIDER BROOKS FOR REPUBLICAN KEYNOTE ORATOR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 19.—[Special.]—Wayland Brooks, Republican nominee for governor of Illinois, is being considered for temporary chairman of the Republican national convention and party keynoter, it was learned tonight.

The selection of the keynoter for the Cleveland gathering next June will be made by the Republican convention arrangements committee at a meeting at Cleveland Tuesday. Possibly half a dozen party leaders have been under consideration for the important function of sounding the keynote of the bid the party will make for return to power.

The suggestion of the choice of Mr. Brooks appears to have emanated from the mangers of the candidacy of Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas for the Republican nomination for President. Attention was attracted to Mr. Brooks by his spectacular victory in the Illinois primary over Len Small and other reactionary elements of the party.

The Landon boosters started the movement for Brooks as a young man, representing liberal views, who is qualified to chart a course away from the socialistic pitfalls of the New Deal while steering clear of the economic and political evils of the pre-depression era.

ASSEMBLY WILL MEET TOMORROW TO STUDY RELIEF

Second Special Session Will Be Resumed.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.

Both houses of the Illinois legislature will convene tomorrow, resuming the second special session of the 95th general assembly which originated on Jan. 8 to consider state relief problems. The session was recessed on March 6 without any permanent solution having been adopted.

Before the recess bills were adopted thrusting upon Chicago property owners the care of the poor within the city and empowering the city council to levy 30 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation for this purpose. These bills were part of the program of the Illinois Agricultural association and were signed by Gov. Horner.

One Bill Still Pending.

Still pending is one bill of this downstate agricultural program. This measure would withhold from Chicago any of the sales tax revenues that are diverted to relief unless the city first levies the full amount of the property tax. Chicago legislators expect this bill to be called for passage this week.

Also before the recess the legislature voted to terminate the Illinois Emergency Relief commission on May 1. Then, after a swift change of opinion, an amendment was introduced that would continue the relief commission until March 1, 1937, but only as an agency to allocate sales tax relief money to the various counties.

Officials in Chicago and Cook county want the legislature to continue the IERC in all its functions until July 1, when the city and townships are to take over the relief burden. Otherwise, they claim, the Cook county government would be overburdened with relief between May 1 and July 1.

Centralization Is Sought.

The Civic Federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency has urged further amendments to keep relief administration in the Cook county bureau of public welfare, instead of turning it over after July 1 to 31 new and unrelated agencies in Chicago and to the 30 townships in the county, as contemplated in the downstate agricultural program.

Also before the legislature will be the question of appropriating money for relief for May and June. Cook county and Chicago officials estimated that for relief there will be needed at least $3,000,000 in each of those months here in addition to the sales tax relief funds. They said the only way to raise the money is to appropriate it from the state treasury.

MASON DECLARED THE VICTOR BY 23 OVER HARRY HALL

The Lake county canvassing board, after a special session yesterday, announced that State's Attorney Charles E. Mason had won renomination for his place in the Republican primary of April 13, but by a margin of only 23 votes.

Mr. Mason received 10,692 votes and his opponent, Attorney Harry A. Hall, 10,669, according to the official returns. Mr. Hall carried 47 of the 75 precincts in the county, but a majority of 960 votes piled up for Mason in five polling places in Zion put Mason over. Wilbur Glenn Voliva supported Mr. Mason.

Mr. Hall said last night that he believed a true count of the votes would show him to be the winner. He added that he might file a demand for a recount in the County court at Waukegan today.

DEATH STALKS 30 MILLION IN CHINA'S FAMINE

Dogs and Cats Food for Starving People.

CHENGTU, Szechwan province, China, April 19.—(AP)—Wholesale suicides and "mercy" slayings were reported today in Szechwan province, once the "Paradise of China," but now called "China's Hell."

This section is suffering the worst famine with an accompanying drouth in China's history. Confirmed reports show that dogs and cats have been eaten and even rodents are prized by hunger stricken peasants.

Reports coming in from the province portray conditions difficult to believe but which are considered authentic. With tree bark, roots, and grasses long since exhausted, dying thousands allegedly are reduced to cooking and eating human flesh from the bodies of relatives dead through starvation.

Thirty Million Affected.

This great territory of interior Asia heretofore has been so highly developed agriculturally that its 70 million inhabitants had escaped famines, floods, and pestilence which repeatedly scourged other sections of China.

Latest reports on the famine indicate 30 million persons are affected instead of the 20 million first reported. There has been no tabulation of deaths. Reports only say tens of thousands have died from starvation or accompanying illnesses or have committed suicide to end the agony. Some reports say many entire families have committed suicide with parents slaying their children and then killing themselves.

Officials said the situation primarily was a result of communist incursions during the last two years in which the Reds overran and despoiled the land.

Lack Seed Grain.

The area today is barren. Not a sheep, pig, fowl, or crop remains. The invaders not only took all of these but ate the seed grain, dooming the surviving populace.

Many thousands of able bodied men were killed by Reds and their corpses piled into big graves, officials asserted.

White clay is being made into soup. It seems to deaden the agonies of hunger. But this is virtually slow suicide as the earthen soup clogs the digestive tract, with a resulting slow and agonizing death. Hospitals and orphanages here are filled with emaciated children from the afflicted areas.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, head of the nationalist government, has arrived here to attempt to organize relief, but apparently can do little because of the vast scale of this disaster.

The province's relief agencies are totally inadequate to meet the emergency. Competent authorities expressed fear that 15,000,000 persons might perish unless the entire resources of the nation are devoted to relief.

FAMINE RAVAGES CENTRAL CHINA

Arrow points to Szechwan province, China, where 30,000,000 persons are suffering directly and indirectly from severe famine.

1,000 Crippled Children to Be Guests at Circus

Garage Doors Blow Shut; Motorist Killed by Fumes

Max Klaus, 51 years old, 5217 Lakewood avenue, was found dead yesterday, apparently from the effects of carbon monoxide poisoning, in his car in a garage behind his home. Summerdale police said they believed the doors of the garage blew shut and that Klaus was overcome by the auto's fumes before becoming aware of his danger.

600,000 PUPILS OPEN CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN WITH EVENTS TODAY

The city's 600,000 school children will make war on dirt in the next two weeks in the annual Clean-Up, Paint-up, Light-Up campaign opening today. Chicago high schools last year won a national trophy with a record of almost 5,000,000 separate clean-up achievements, including cleaning, washing, polishing, painting, repairing and planting jobs. Local trophies will be given this year to five high schools.

Schools will have special assemblies, community meetings, parades, plays and demonstrations to foster the campaign, according to the Chicago Association of Commerce, which sponsors the civic project. Amundsen and Manley High schools will present songs and sketches for the campaign at special assemblies today.

Tomorrow the community centering about Calumet High school will take part in a parade with the American Legion and civic and business organizations participating. Bands from St. Killian, St. Sabina and St. Leo's schools and students of 10 grade schools will also march with the high school group.

Girl Mysteriously Shot as She Sits at Window

New York, April 19.—[Special.]—Police search was started today for the mysterious marksman who shot and seriously wounded Miss Rafaela Cataldo, 18 years old, who was sitting in a window in her second floor home.

HUNT ALCOHOLIC FIREBUG AFTER 6 BLAZES IN BRONX

5 Set in Baby Carriages; 20 Suspects Seized.

New York, April 19.—(AP)—Police and fire marshals sought an "alcoholic pyromaniac" as the person who set six fires in Bronx tenements in rapid succession early today.

Five of the fires were started in baby carriages in hallways, a lighted match apparently being thrown into them. The sixth started in a rubbish barrel.

Three persons were hurt and two firemen overcome by smoke. All the fire equipment in the Bronx and some from Manhattan screamed from place to place, accompanied by ambulances and radio patrol cars.

Thomas P. Brophy, fire marshal, theorized the blazes, which roused hundreds of persons from their beds to watch the excitement, were set by an alcoholic who got a thrill from the mounting flames.

Police speedily collected more than 20 suspects, taking them to station houses for questioning when first answers were unsatisfactory.

Detectives seeking the indendiarist found one of the ignited carriages just as it was becoming a menace to adjacent walls.

The first blaze occurred in a four story duplex apartment house in Gouverneur place. Ten minutes later fire was discovered under a stairway in a four story tenement a half block away, and for the next half hour alarms sounded at regular intervals. Nightgowned tenants scampered over rooftops and down fire escapes to safety.

Marie Cosgrove, 24, one of four persons rescued by firemen from the second blaze, suffered severe burns and lacerations. Hubert Baldwin, of Manasquan, N. J., also was helped down a ladder from this building and treated for slight lacerations.

In two instances the flames spread to adjoining buildings until a total of seven structures, mostly tenements, were involved.

CLERK FOUND DEAD IN ROOM.

James Campbell, 58 years old, a Railway Express company clerk, was found dead yesterday in his room in the Roosevelt hotel, 1152 South Wabash avenue. The body was lying over a bathtub where Campbell had apparently fallen, striking his head.

Fete "Oldest Traveling Salesman," Active at 95

Numerous congratulations were being received yesterday by Harry P. Nicholson, who says he is the oldest active traveling salesman, upon the observance of his 95th birthday Saturday. A birthday celebration was held at the home of his son, Dr. James M. Nicholson, at 5833 Kenmore avenue. His two brothers, Robert, 87 years old, of Milwaukee, and Thomas 82, of Detroit, were there. For the last 50 years Nicholson has been selling manila rope.

Grass Fire Douses Lights for 4,000 in Park Ridge

Four thousand residents of Park Ridge were without electric lights last night after a prairie fire destroyed two wooden poles carrying wires that supply the northern part of the suburb with power. The fire started at Oakton street and Greenwood avenue, and burned for 45 minutes before it was put out by firemen of Park Ridge and nearby suburbs. Crews were sent to restore electric service.

JOB PROBLEM IS SEEN AS MASTER KEY IN CAMPAIGN

Biggest New Deal Hurdle Will Be Ranks of Idle.

industry to make work for the jobless and foot the bill.

On the other hand are the great majority of business men and the conservative Republicans and conservative Democrats who contend that what the country needs is not more but less regimentation and experimentation; that there would be work for all who want work if industry and long term investment were relieved of the uncertainty and apprehension engendered by the trend of the New Deal toward socialism, the prodigal spending, the increasing deficits, the danger of inflation, and the steadily mounting burden of taxation.

On the one hand is the New Deal school which, by producing less and selling it for more, would increase the purchasing power of the producers. On the other hand are the anti-New Dealers who by producing more and selling it for less per unit would increase the purchasing power of consumers and also of producers. Each school maintains that its way is the only true road to prosperity.

Recovery Gains; Relief Costs Mount.

There is a growing conviction that there is something fundamentally wrong when recovery is progressing, but relief costs increasing. Government statistics show that in the last two years industrial production has increased 26 per cent, construction contracts 24 per cent, factory employment 14 per cent, factory pay rolls 33 per cent, and national bank deposits 41 per cent. Yet in the first nine months of the current fiscal year the estimated expenditures of the federal relief agencies have increased 40 per cent.

According to the national industrial conference board, the President's notions of reducing unemployment materially by reducing hours of work are visionary.

According to the latest conference board figures average hours of work in manufacturing are 38.3 per week. This represents an increase of only 1.6 hours over the average in April, 1935, when the NRA still was in effect. In all but six of the twenty-five industries covered by the board's survey average hours are less than forty, which was the maximum in most instances during the period of code regulation.

NRA Limitations No Panacea.

"It is evident, therefore," says the board, "that the restoration of NRA limitations to manufacturing would have little or no effect in relieving unemployment. Furthermore, it may be estimated that not more than 1 million 600 thousand additional workers would be given employment if a reduction to thirty hours per week is assumed.

"In Jauuary, 1935, labor cost per man hour in manufacturing was 9 per cent above the 1929 level. An increase in productiveness has tended to offset this increase in labor cost, but industry as yet has not benefited materially from increased efficiency because of the fact that production remains 20.2 per cent below 1929 in quantity, and 30.6 per cent below on the basis of value.

"The further increase in labor costs, necessarily implied in the maintenance of weekly earnings in combination with a reduction of hours, might be expected to operate as a check on industrial recovery.

Answer in Other Fields.

"Manufacturing industry in January, 1936, was giving employment to approximately 8 million 892 thousand persons, or 400,000 more than in January, 1935, and 937,000 more than in January, 1934. It has been able to do this because of an increase in the demand for manufactured products, particularly those of the durable goods industries. A further increase in output undoubtedly would provide employment for additional workers, except in those fields where operation still is on a part time basis. The attainment of that objective, however, is not wholly within the power of industry.

"The solution of the unemployment problem will be achieved not so much by increasing manufacturing output as by stimulating activity in other fields."

IDOL OF VENEZUELAN ARMY ENDS HIS TERM AS PROVISIONAL CHIEF

CARACAS, Venezuela, April 19.—(AP)—Gen. Eleazar Lopez Contreras, idol of the Venezuelan army and popular hero who has guided the country through the trying days since the death of the dictator-president Juan Vincente Gomez, ended his term as provisional president today.

But it was generally expected he would be reëlected "to make a goverinment of the people and for the people"—as he himself described his aims in his retiring speech before congress—by the end of this week.

The important step in transition from the dictatorship of Gomez, who died last December at the age of 78, to a democracy, was inaugurated without any disturbances. Pending the election of a new chief executive, Dr. Arminio Borja, president of the Supreme court, will act as head of the government.

The new president will be chosen by the hand picked Gomez congress. Although it is bitterly disliked by the populace, the citizens are willing to let it carry out this last task to set up a new régime.

CHARGE HITLER IS BUILDING NAVY BASE OFF AFRICA

PARIS, April 19.—(AP)—French officials charged tonight that Germany is secretly constructing a naval base on a Portuguese island off the west coast of Africa.

They declared a German company is outfitting one of the Bissagos Islands off Portuguese Guinea as a base for submarines and hydoplanes. They said the concern—which they charged was a "blind" for the German government—had contracted to buy the island from Portugal.

These French officials asserted the navy ministry believes that the alleged naval base construction is part of a German plan to strike quickly at French transport of troops and raw materials from French colonies if a war should break out between Germany and France. The company controling the island, French officials declared, is disguished as the "Compania Agricoly Fabrica de Guine" and is headed by the same group which operated German railroads in the former German colony of Cameroon, now held by Great Britain and France.

LET NEIGHBORS PROVIDE RELIEF, EXPERT PLEADS

Warns Unbearable Taxes and Inflation Threaten.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 19.—[Special.]—The National Economy league, announcing a study by its research director, John C. Gebhart, today urged a return to coöperative effort between federal, state, and local governments to lighten "the staggering and ever increasing cost" of relief.

Mr. Gebhart's report called attention to the fact that the government already has spent 7½ billion dollars in an effort to prime the pump of industry and create jobs, with the cost steadily increasing, and that under the WPA, or boondoggling system, the annual cost will range from 2 billion to 10 billion dollars a year.

Also, the study disclosed, the so-called work relief projects have added thousands of families who would not have been on the rolls had the relief activities been confined to subsidies to the states.

"Neighbors Know," Says Director.

"Leave the handling of relief to the neighbors," urged Henry H. Curran, director of the economy league, in making public the study. "They know who needs the money and who doesn't; who wants to work and who doesn't; how to care for those who need care, and how to keep out the fakers. They know which is better, the boondoggle or the dole. Leave it to the neighbors—they know!"

Mr. Gebhart's study disclosed that the CCC camps constitute the most expensive type of work relief ever undertaken, although he made no quarrel with the type of work done.

He found that so-called rural rehabilitation was another extremely costly undertaking and had been expanded 121 per cent since the formation of Dr. Rexford Guy Tugwell's Resettlement administration.

"We may," he said, "to use the President's words, have 'quit this business of relief,' but we seem to have embarked on a federal program designed to provide jobs or various types of public works for 3½ or 4 million persons. If this policy should be continued, the annual cost will range anywhere from the 2 to 10 billion dollars a year. We have had sufficient experience with public works to make approximate estimates of the cost of various types of projects."

To employ 3,500,000 persons on the type of work carried on by Secretary Harold Ickes' PWA would cost more than 10 billion dollars a year, the study disclosed.

"We face two inter-related problems. We must balance the federal budget if we are to avoid inflation, unbearable taxes, or both; we must devise a system of coöperative relief for destitute families which is effective and humane and which can be kept within revenues of federal, state, and local governments."

POLITICAL CHIVALRY STILL LIVES; LEWIS VOTES FOR OPPONENT

Washington, D. C., April 19.—[Special.]—Senator J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois has disclosed that chivalry in politics is far from dead. He has just recounted his experiences in voting in the Illinois primary Tuesday.

When the senator went to vote in his home precinct, an election official asked him if he knew his "lady opponent," Mrs. Ruth R. McNamara. Senator Lewis said that he had never met her.

"Nobody around here seems to know her," the official said.

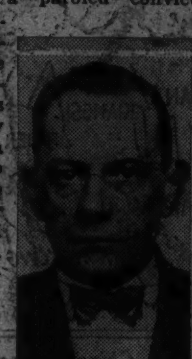
"There hasn't been a single vote cast for her all day."

"That will never do," Senator Lewis replied. "It must not be said that a lady presented herself for election in this precinct and got no recognition. I shall vote for her myself."

The senator piled up a plurality of more than 1,000,000 votes over Mrs. McNamara and another opponent.

PAROLED CONVICT BATTLES GUARDS IN THEFT; IS SLAIN

Robert Burns, 38 years old, 3220 Monroe street, a paroled convict from Joliet penitentiary, died yesterday in the Bridewell hospital of wounds suffered a few hours earlier in a battle with two watchmen in the office of the City Wrecking and Lumber company, 2301 South Pulaski road.



ROBERT BURNS.

One of the watchmen, John Peterka, 50 years old, 4104 West 24th place, interrupted Burns as he was attempting, shortly before daybreak, to shatter a safe in the office with a sledge hammer. When the burglar showed fight Peterka fired on him four times. Three of the bullets took effect, but Burns swung his hammer and knocked the watchman down.

1935 WORLD SERIES HERO, Goose Goslin, says: "A big-league ball player has to watch his digestion. Smoking Camels helps stimulate digestion."

"I HAVE TO EAT IN 30 MINUTES—and then go to work catching red-hot rivets, standing on narrow beams hundreds of feet in the air," says Harry Fisher, steel worker. "Smoking Camels helps my digestion, gives me a swell 'lift.'"

Smoking Camels Assists Digestion to Proceed Normally and Stimulates a Sense of Ease and Good Feeling

When people are tired, worried, or nervous, digestion is apt to be affected. The flow of digestive fluids slows up.

Smoking Camels has a favorable influence in increasing the flow of these digestive fluids. The increase brought about by smoking Camels has actually been measured by scientists. Thus, there are sound, definite reasons why Camels add to the enjoyment of your meals.

Camels are supremely mild—never get on the nerves or tire your taste. Enjoy Camels as much as you like...for their good cheer and "lift"...for their rare flavor! Smoke Camel's costlier tobaccos for digestion's sake. They set you right!

SHE FEEDS THOUSANDS DAILY. Miss Lenora Flinn, dietitian, says: "With me, it's always Camels! Smoking Camels during meals and after stimulates digestion, causing increased flow of digestive fluids. Camels never jangle my nerves."

COSTLIER TOBACCOS

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

THE TERRACED MARINE DINING ROOM of the Edgewater Beach Hotel, Chicago. Those who dine on tempting food...at leisure...with music...and gay companionship...also appreciate Camels for their aid to digestion. Camels make food taste better—help you to enjoy it more. "Good times and good tobacco go together," says Fred, maître d'hôtel of the Marine Dining Room. "Here, where fine foods are prepared and served for those who like the best—so many of our guests smoke Camels. They are immensely popular."

STILL MUST RELY ON CAPITALISM, MOSCOW ADMITS

Reds See Day of Change as Far in Future.

MOSCOW, April 19.—(AP)—The soviet state must for the time being carry on with certain traditions inherited from the bourgeoisie. This was among important announcements contained in a statement on the governmental and social development in soviet Russia published today.

The statement made plain, among other things, that the time has not yet arrived to abandon the principle or practice of compulsion and that inequality of income, and therefore, of the distribution of the material comforts of life, must continue in the transitory period under the protective guidance of the state.

Hold to One Political Party.

Further, the statement showed, democratization of the soviet system under the new constitution now being formulated, will not lead to the creation of political parties or any organization opposed to the communist party. These explanations were printed in the magazine Bolshevik, official organ of the central committee of the communist party.

The soviet state in its present phase of development can, in a conditional sense, still be called a "bourgeois," the Bolshevik stated. It explained this is due to the fact that it must carry on with certain traces of capitalistic rule while building the base for their full elimination.

The Socialist state as it presently exists in the soviet union, said the Moscow magazine, is represented as the first and lowest stage in communism and prepares the way for a higher social order by eradicating class distinctions and all inequalities among individuals.

"On the Basis of Need."

As long as the present phase continues, the magazine declared, there will be a need for the use of power as a means of compulsion. The retention of the principle of payment according to quality and quantity, and the amount of labor performed, must also continue.

The first is necessary, said Bolshevik, because while generations from the former class society still exists, there will be "bearers of traditions of capitalism" to keep in check. The second step is necessary until the means of production and distribution have been developed as to permit the distribution of the necessities of comforts on the basis of need, which is the principle of communism.

Ernest Temple, 7 years old, 3233 North Halsted street, who disappeared from his home early Friday morning, in the arms of Detective Michael Fay at Town Hall police station yesterday. He was found after he requested food from housewife in flat at 746 Belmont avenue.

BOY, 7, LOST 60 HOURS, IS FOUND AS HE BEGS FOOD

Ernest Temple, 7 years old, who ran away from his home at 3233 Halsted street early Friday morning, clad only in his underwear, was found yesterday afternoon after he had been missing for more than 60 hours.

The boy was recognized from newspaper descriptions when he knocked at the kitchen door of Edward Von Busch, 746 Belmont avenue, and asked for food.

Ernest said he had been sleeping in a basement since he ran away from home. He told police he had not eaten since Thursday, and said:

"Daddy and mother [his stepmother] were scrapping. Daddy went away and mother said, 'Why don't you go find him?' So I went."

Capt. Patrick O'Connell said that the father, Ernest Sr., and the stepmother, Mrs. Lillian Temple, would be kept in custody and probably would be charged with contributing to the delinquency of little Ernest and of Mrs. Temple's two children by a former marriage.

President Stedronsky said he and Felix A. Zdrejewski, the one new trustee elected, would be installed.

MAY SOON BE BALD

True, he now has a good head of hair. But he knows that he is rapidly losing it, because each morning his comb and brush are filled with fallen hair. His scalp is covered with scaly, sticky dandruff, and it itches constantly. He has tried to ward off baldness by dousing his hair with miscellaneous "cure-all" lotions, but has concluded that they merely make his hair fall faster.

Unless he takes immediate steps to find out exactly what is causing his loss of hair, he'll surely soon be bald. Please tell him, for his sake, that Thomas effectively treats 1600 cases similar to his each day; that Thomas has helped a quarter-million other men to avoid baldness, and can help him, too.

A Thomas scalp specialist will gladly examine his scalp (without charge) and determine exactly which of the 14 local scalp disorders are attacking his hair-growing structure. The reliable, 17-year proved Thomas treatment will then be directed to overcoming those scalp troubles, and almost before he realizes it his abnormal hair-fall will stop; dandruff will disappear; and new hair will start to grow on the thin and bald spots. Why not come in TODAY for a free comprehensive scalp examination?

¶ Thus, for the first time in railroad history, California may be reached in but one business day from Chicago, in but two business days from the eastern seaboard.

¶ THE SUPER CHIEF will make one round-trip each week. Westbound, it will leave Chicago each Tuesday evening—commencing May 12th—at 7:15 p.m., CST, arriving Los Angeles each Thursday at 9:00 a.m. Eastbound—commencing May 15th—departure from Los Angeles will be at 8:00 p.m. each Friday, with arrival Chicago at 1:45 p.m. each Sunday. Connections at Chicago assure convenient Monday morning arrival at important Eastern cities.

¶ THE SUPER CHIEF obviously is planned for those demanding the utmost in swift and luxurious transcontinental travel. It will be drawn by a giant new 3600 horsepower twin-unit Diesel locomotive. Uncrowded, and completely air-conditioned, it will carry the finest of standard heavy steel Pullman equipment, whose smooth-riding qualities at high speeds have been amply demonstrated. The gourmet will find a kindred spirit in the steward of the Fred Harvey diner. In short, it is the purpose of the Santa Fe to link the speed of THE SUPER CHIEF with the niceties and individuality of service to be expected of a train so named.

● Attention is drawn to the fact that inauguration of the SUPER CHIEF in no wise interferes with the service of the CHIEF, for so many years the West's finest and hours fastest daily train between Chicago and California. As a matter of fact, the CHIEF will extend supremacy in its field when, effective May 10th, its westbound schedules will be cut another 2⅙ hours, its eastbound time by over 4½ hours.

11 KILLED AS NEW ARAB AND JEWISH ANGERS FLAME

Street Fighting Sends 65 Jews to Hospitals.

JAFFA, Palestine, April 19.—(AP)—Nine Jews and two Arabs were reported tonight to have been killed in rioting in which Arabs and Jews fought against each other and with police.

Many cars were burned outside this predominantly Arab city, which borders the all-Jewish city of Tel-Aviv. The outbreaks, in which 65 Jews and 15 Arabs were injured, led to the imposition of a 7 p. m. curfew in Jaffa and Tel-Aviv.

Mobs of Arabs and Jews camped tonight on opposite sides of the border between the two cities, and police were stationed between them to prevent further disorders. Jewish shops in Jaffa were closed.

Police Shoot 2 Arabs.

The two slain Arabs were reported to have been shot by British police in self-defense, while most of the Jewish injured bore knife wounds.

The demonstrations were said to be an outgrowth of resentment over the slaying of two Arab laborers in Neged, near the Jewish colony of Petach Tikvah, following a holdup by Arab brigands in which a Jew was killed and two Jews were wounded.

The Palcor agency reported that Palestine police blocked all highways between the coast and Jerusalem, as a precaution to prevent further racial clashes.

Sir Arthur Wauchope, high commissioner of Palestine, proclaimed an order in council empowering the taking of precautionary measures of defense to prevent further rioting.

This agency also stated that the Nationalist Arab party, meeting in the town of Nablus, decided to proclaim a general strike until "the full Arab demands are granted." The resolution called on Arabs throughout the country to join in the strike. There has been much friction between Arabs and Jews over representation on a legislative council for Palestine.

Arab mobs were stirred this morning when agitators spread a rumor that many Arabs had been killed by Jews. Jewish passersby were then attacked and five of them were taken to a hospital.

March to Jewish Bank.

The crowd marched on the Jaffa branch of the Anglo-Palestine bank, a Jewish owned institution. Unable to control the surging demonstrators, police fired and killed two Arabs. This aroused the fury of the Arabs to a new pitch and they renewed the attacks on Jews.

The deaths today brought to fourteen the number of Jews and Arabs killed since Wednesday.

The racial excitement has been growing since then. Jewish and Arab newspapers exchanged charges and two Arabs were mysteriously killed Thursday night in their lonely shack near Kfar Saba.

The Arabic press charged today that the murderers of these two Arabs were Jews, but the Jewish press advanced the theory that the murderers were smugglers, who killed in revenge because one of the victims was a police informer.

Hunt Armed Gang.

JERUSALEM, April 19.—(AP)—Police pressed a hunt today for brigands said to be part of an organization numbering more than 600 Arabs supplied with money and arms and operating in Syria and Transjordan as well as in Palestine.

The bandits were responsible, officials said, for killing and injuring several Jews in recent hold-ups, which prompted Jews in Tel-Aviv to demonstrate Friday against alleged government laxity in suppressing the brigandage.

It was announced today that a policeman would be indicted for "superfluous shooting" when police used guns and truncheons to disperse the crowd.

THE DISCREDITED LEAGUE.

The Italian armies have all but conquered Ethiopia. Italy is now or is likely soon to be in a position to dictate terms of peace. The Turks have moved soldiers into the demilitarized area at the Dardanelles in violation of the Lausanne treaty. The German army is in the Rhineland in violation of the Versailles and Locarno treaties. The Japanese are pressing ahead in China, extending their zone of influence and intensifying their economic and political activities on the mainland at the expense of another league member.

All of these operations were recognized from the start as in defiance of the treaties and therefore they all called for preventive action by the league. Against each of the treaty breakers except Turkey the league did intercede. It sent the Lytton commission to Manchuria, received a report that Japan was the aggressor, but took no action. It imposed economic sanctions on Italy. It was summoned to consider the German advance, but has taken no positive action against Germany. Japan was unmoved by the league's warnings and withdrew from the association. Italy was unmoved by the league's economic boycott. The league obviously is unwilling to take any steps against Germany, which also has resigned its place at Geneva.

Aggressor nations do not fear the league. League membership evidently is of small value to nations; they abandon their seats without much sense of loss when it is more convenient to be a nonmember than a member. The league's economic sanctions might be effective over a long period, but the threat of the boycott was insufficient to dissuade Italy from her invasion of the territory of another league member, and the imposition of the boycott has not denied victory to the Italian arms.

From their conduct there is even some reason to suspect that Germany, Italy, and Japan have some kind of secret understanding to destroy or at least to discredit the league. Certainly they are watching each other's moves with the closest attention. They, at the very least, are teaching each other how to defy the league and get away with it. Germany instructed Japan, Japan instructed Italy, and Italy, in its turn, gave some new ideas to Germany. Under these circumstances, and with its record of distinguished futility, the league is not likely to command greater respect in future.

There are two theories of the league's rôle and they are highly divergent. The French expected it to maintain the allied supremacy over the central powers, as provided in the Versailles treaty. Nothing like that has happened, as is evidenced by the fact that the Germans have denounced the reparations and rearmament clauses of the treaty with impunity. The other theory was that the league was to preserve the peace all over the world. There, too, the failure has been no less striking, as Ethiopia and Manchuria attest.

Those who value peace and aim to preserve it can scarcely look to the league any longer as an agency which will serve their ends.

SEC AND FCC.

Jones, the New York oil man, tried to withdraw an application filed with the Securities and Exchange commission for a certificate to sell some stock. When the commission questioned the sufficiency of the statements he had made in his application he wanted to withdraw it. The commission accepted this as evidence that if he hadn't been challenged he might have offered some securities with misleading declarations and have got himself into trouble with the law.

Upon this assumption the commissioners demanded that he submit his books and stand an investigation. He had done nothing except file and ask to withdraw his prospectus. It required an opinion from the United States Supreme court to shake him loose from the grip of the SEC. It was determined to proceed against him as a potential wrongdoer. The majority of the court in vigorous language denounced these fishing expeditions which sought to subject citizens to unreasonable searches and seizures in violation of the constitution.

Suppose we turn to another picture. The federal communications commission, at the request of the Black inquisition, seized and turned over to the inquisitors millions of private messages of individuals and firms. They were to be used contrary to law in the expectation that cases might be framed against victims with what was picked up in a general ransacking of private papers and effects. When the communications commission found that it was discovered in a dereliction and in a flagrant abuse of authority it went into the Supreme court of the District of Columbia with a motion to dismiss the bill of complaint in the suit brought by Publisher Hearst charging the commission and the Black committee with illegal activities.

The shoe was on one foot when Jones wished to withdraw a statement upon which no action whatever had been taken and upon which no consequences whatever depended. It is on the other foot when the communications commission is proved to have done things which have been severely censured by the Supreme court. It wants to back out and not face the accusation that it had done highly reprehensible acts violating the privileges and immunities of citizens.

A WORD TO THE SHIP WISE.

While it is true that British steamship men are all agog over the successful trial runs of the new nautical extravaganza, the Queen Mary, most of them are aware that this new monster, like its predecessor, the Normandie, is economically unsound. It is general belief that this vessel will be the last of the luxury liners. It is the Great Eastern of the present era, and will be supplanted by something entirely different. What a chance for the American steamship industry if it can develop the ingenuity and aggressiveness of the automobile manufacturers!

The Tribune has frequently outlined the requirements for an American ship. If an American line will construct an air conditioned, fireproof vessel to accommodate passengers and not palm gardens, that will primarily offer transportation instead of entertainment, and a fare that will look more like a steamship rate than the price of a new automobile, that will abolish the relic of European feudalism classifying its patrons, that will divorce the cost of meals from the price of passage and offer grill room service, it will attract the necessary volume of travel to pay dividends.

The modern Diesel engine is as dependable as its gasoline prototype in the automobile. With modern steering apparatus the officer on the bridge can both direct the vessel and control the driving machinery more efficiently than through an elaborate signal system and a whole corps of engineers. Large crews were inherited from sailing vessels, but a ship with a modern power plant could be operated with a mere handful of "sailors," each an expert in his line. With cafeteria or grill room systems there will be no need for the army of stewards and waiters, which in the case of the luxury ships frequently outnumber the passengers.

Throw aside all traditions, retaining only maximum safety and a round trip rate of $125 from Chicago to London and return will start a travel loving public thinking rather than dreaming of a European tour.

TARIFS BY DICTATION.

The chairman of the United States tarif commission, Robert Lincoln O'Brien, has expressed approval of tarif making by means of reciprocal trade treaties such as Secretary Hull has negotiated. Mr. O'Brien is a Republican from Massachusetts. He says he is going to ask the Republican convention in June to adopt a plank to perpetuate the new tarif making method which, he says, is vastly preferable to the old logrolling method.

Mr. O'Brien implies that the reciprocal treaties are of a different order. He wishes to create the impression that the new tarifs are scientific, arrived at by impartial expert study. The fact is, of course, that they are made by politicians in the executive branch of government instead of politicians in the legislative branch. The country has not forgotten Mr. Roosevelt's attempt to fire a federal trade commissioner, William Humphrey, because Mr. Humphrey was unwilling to take orders. The federal trade commission is also, supposedly, a nonpolitical, independent board; nevertheless, Mr. Humphrey was removed by presidential order and it was not until after his death that his right to the office was upheld by the Supreme court in a suit for the payment of his salary to the heirs.

Mr. Roosevelt, like others with dictatorial aspirations, has no use for scientific detachment. He wants what he wants and he means to have it. To him the great virtue of the reciprocal tarif arrangements is that he can make them. He can accept the recommendations of his experts if he wants to, but he is under no necessity in the matter. He can use his control of tarifs to reward the faithful and punish his opponents. If his tarif commission will not approve his plans he may seek means of winning them over, but if that fails he still can ignore the recommendations and go ahead.

THE TRUTH OF KITES.

[Washington Post.]

The cherry blossoms have crept upon us and not a word yet in these columns about kites. This was an oversight. Fortunately, April is showing enough of the leonine bluster, usually associated with its predecessor, to make the discussion not entirely abstract.

Three small boys were taken recently by their mother to an open tract bordering the Memorial highway. The wind from the river was steady and their kites rose easily once running had lifted them into the air. But not to stay up. With perverse swoops they would veer from right to left, finally nose-diving abruptly into the ground. Passing motorists drew up to the curb to watch the sport. Finally one man stepped out of his car and asked permission to assist the discouraged Franklins.

Ripping up a handkerchief he first added tails to their craft. And the harnesses needed careful adjustment—so. Once again the kites soared into the sky, this time smoothly and surely. The stranger coached the boys in jogging their kites higher and showed them how to take advantage of every puff. And this was how to reel in quickly during a lull. Then he proposed to send a "message" up to a kite. A scrap of paper was found and a hole torn in its center. Placed on the string it was blown up to the peak of the harness. He explained that in such a manner human aeronauts of earlier days riding on teams of box kites could receive instructions from below. The boys were all for building such an apparatus immediately.

But no, that would take time and special materials. The man must go. He explained to the mother that he had two small sons at home in the west himself, and that when he saw her boys flying kites he could not resist coming over to help them. But that was not the whole truth. Sons or no sons, the live tug of a kite riding high into a spring morning has an appeal no man with any sense of romance can resist.

TURKEY has junked its part of the Lausanne treaty and refortified the Dardanelles. And yet the dictionary says a treaty is "an agreement between nations solemnly ratified." And the more solemnly they ratify a treaty the quicker they are to burst out laughing whenever they want to tear it up.

I WONDER who writes dictionaries, anyhow? The only proper definition of a treaty is "a document signed by nations each one hoping it will hold the other fellow while each signer knows that he will hop out as soon as he gets good and ready."

LOOK AT THE PAINTINGS of the great diplomats gathered around a table on which lies a treaty they are all going to sign binding their respective nations to do or not to do certain things. How noble the diplomats look, truth and honor and high purpose and a sweet love for humanity are stamped upon their countenances. But did you notice that in every painting or photograph of the signing of an immortal treaty there is only one hand of each diplomat revealed, the one he is signing or going to sign the treaty with? The other hand he keeps out of sight. And why? whys you. Because on the other and concealed hand he's got his fingers crossed, that's why. And while those who gaze on the picture say that the diplomats look as though they were murmuring Heaven's blessing on the treaty, as a matter of fact they are thinking just one word—BALONEY!

PLAINT OF AN ADOLESCENT.

Give over, give over, my Lord,
With this dealing in devils and drakes!
What need of the glittering sword
With marvels in vermin and snakes?
What miracles need You employ
Whose earth is the smallest design—
The owner may sport with his toy . . .
The advantage, my God, is Thine!

I have in my bosom enough
Lone sorrow to lay at Your feet,
I have had me a flicker of love
And a moment has been complete.
I have ranted and groveled and swore
So much like a human, in fine,
That I shall pursue them no more—
The advantage, my God, is Thine.

Do I rave at the parcel of lies
Or swallow them whole like a fool,
I am sick with the sure surmise
That there is no measuring rule;
Do I clutch my fingers at space
Or plead for a heavenly sign,
You may answer or turn Your face—
The advantage, my God, is Thine.

Am I devil, or saint in disguise
You have fettered me here with flesh,
I am either too stupid or wise
To seek to escape from the mesh;
Do I grant to the devil his due
Or claim that such freedom is mine,
It means nothing at all to You—
The advantage, my God, is Thine.

The struggle, if struggle it be,
Is ordained to a definite end;
What use is this living to me
When death is the answer You send.
Do I stand like a man and resist
Or fawn with a biblical whine,
I am still but a child in a mist . . .
The advantage, my God, is Thine!

STUDENTS here and there in the colleges seem disinclined to go to any future wars we may get into. They should worry. It has long been a pet theory of many philosophers that wars were necessary to reduce the surplus population. But that was before the day of demon drivers and hit-and-run drivers, drivers unable to see a red light and the cocktail drivers. We don't need wars any more; oh, lawsy, no! traffic accidents will remove surplus population, besides a lot of the population that isn't surplus.

AND NOW THE AZALEA, the forsythia, the violet, and the jack in the pulpit as well as the red bud and hepatica queens are being crowned. And after them come the cherry blossom, the lady slipper, the trillium, the apple blossom, the quince blossom, the orange blossom, the lemon blossom, and the prune blossom. All very beautiful, I grant you, but where is the onion blossom queen? Or don't onions have blossoms? All right, then let's have just an onion queen. Is there anything helps the human race more than the modest onion? There is not. Let us have an onion queen. And a spinach queen. I want a spinach queen so that I can go out and make faces at her. And so will all the dear little children. Still, we should have a spinach queen. Spinach is full of vitamins. And as Daniel Webster said about Dartmouth college: "It may be a small vegetable, but there are those who love it!"

MANGANESE TREATMENT OF ACNE.

THE annoying and disfiguring state of affairs known as acne is usually preceded by overactivity of the oil glands of the skin. This unsightly, pimply eruption has presented one of our most difficult medical problems, and the remedies proposed are legion. A successful attack followed by prompt recovery is the exception rather than the rule. Many an adolescent youngster has had a year or more of embarrassment because of the appearance of pustules on the face, the forehead, or about the nose, and, in some cases, permanent scars have resulted.

Oliver and Crawford report their experience with the administration of manganese. The preparation used was a colloidal suspension of the hydroxide of this metal, and the injections were given deep into the muscles of the buttocks.

Just how manganese acts is not clear, although it is known that the element occurs in practically all plants and in the seed coats of grains. It also is known that in the absence of manganese plants cannot manufacture chlorophyl [green coloring matter] successfully, hence the amount of sugar and starch which they can produce is less. Inasmuch as chlorophyl is necessary if the plant is to produce starch, we can say—no manganese, no chlorophyl; no chlorophyl, no starch.

The study in question included 134 patients with acne, ranging in age from 12 to 37 years. All had been treated by other means for a year or more; many of them for a longer period. Foci of infection had been carefully searched for and removed when found; diets had been prescribed, as well as vaccines, ultraviolet light, iron, and vitamins.

The treatment consisted of approximately five injections, which were administered at weekly intervals. Of the total number of cases nearly 70 per cent showed definite improvement or complete relief from the infection. Eighteen patients had relapses, and each of these received a second series of injections, which was successful with all but one.

Stimulated by their apparent success, these authors used the same method on 45 patients with boils, many showing recurrent crops. Most of the cases had been treated earlier by surgical methods, which included hot compresses and evacuation of the pus after the boil had come to a head. In many cases vaccines had been tried. Despite the use of numerous remedies boils continued to appear.

With the employment of manganese, however, recovery or satisfactory improvement was noted in approximately 85 per cent of the cases. One particularly stubborn case presented a history of 126 boils coming one after another over a period of two years. This patient was entirely relieved after seven injections. Still another patient, who showed persistent multiple small boils of eight months' duration, was greatly improved after three injections. This case was complicated with ulcerative colitis and a rectal abscess. A repetition of the treatment at a later date influenced the colitis favorably.

About half of the patients complained of some stiffness of the hip and thigh for from 6 to 24 hours following the injections. The majority, however, showed no further symptoms. No one of the cases developed an abscess or reaction of any type, although approximately 1,500 injections had been given.

These authors conclude that manganese is a valuable remedy, particularly in infections of the skin followed by pustule formation. They caution, however, that this element alone may not be sufficient to conquer a chronic acne and advise that all cases should receive appropriate local treatment. They also believe that manganese plays an important part in body economy, and that the failure to provide an adequate amount in the food of children, particularly of the adolescent age, may in some way predispose to skin infection.

CONJUNCTIVITIS.

L. A. W. writes: Every year about this time I begin to suffer from conjunctivitis. 1. What causes it? 2. Can it be cured, and how?

REPLY.

1. Conjunctivitis [itching eyelids] may be caused by foreign bodies [exposure to wind, dust, and smoke]; it may be epidemic, depending upon the presence of certain microorganisms, usually the pneumococcus; it may be acquired from contact with infected towels, handkerchiefs, etc., or it may be associated with colds, hay fever, or grippe.

2. Yes, it can be cured. Iced compresses should be applied for from fifteen minutes to an hour three times a day. The eyes should be washed in boric acid solution several times daily. If the malady is of bacterial origin it is contagious, and care should be taken that it is not transmitted to others. If it is a manifestation of hay fever, tests for sensitivity should be made and an appropriate vaccine used.

SLEEPING HUNGRY.

H. L. writes: Every so often one hears the remark that it is much more healthful to go to bed on an empty stomach. I find I enjoy a much better rest if I eat a light lunch before retiring. My work keeps me up until 3 or 4 a. m. and invariably, if I do not eat something before going to bed, I will awaken in a few hours and have difficulty in getting back to sleep.

REPLY.

As long as food eaten before retiring does not keep you awake there is no reason for abstaining. In your case I believe the practice a reasonable one. Your unusual working hours force an adjustment in your eating habits.

QUIVERING HAND.

Mrs. P. L. writes: My 10 year old daughter has lately developed a quiver of her left hand, which trembles if she tries to hold something. My doctor doesn't seem to make anything of the matter, but why should this persist?

REPLY.

The symptom may be due to fatigue. On the other hand, encephalitis is an important cause. Tremors sometimes follow intestinal infections, pneumonia, or measles, and then subside in a few weeks.

INGROWN NAIL.

E. K. writes: I have had an ingrown toe nail for some months. How can I get it out?

REPLY.

Well fitted stockings, round toed shoes, and proper trimming of the toe nails are essential in the care of ingrown toe nail. Cut your nails straight across without rounding the corners and pack small wisps of cotton under the outer edges.

TEHERAN, Iran [Persia.] — This country's efforts to grow cotton for export and home manufacture promise to accomplish a reform which the league of nations was unable to bring about—reduction in the production of poppies for opium. Although the league urged Iran at least to reduce poppy production if it was impossible to prohibit the culture, nothing was done.

For one thing, tax receipts from poppy culture formed a large part of the country's revenue. Poppies paid the cultivators much better than any other agricultural product. Furthermore, there was a large local demand for opium, with nearly half the inhabitants of Iran using the drug.

Opium has been practically the sole Iranian product taken by Japan—no doubt for the Chinese market—in exchange for the flood of cheap Japanese goods which has been pouring into this country. Incidentally, to provide another product for exchange with Japan, the Iranian government recently gave to the Togo Trading company for a period of ten years the salt mines on certain islands in the Persian gulf. Iran does not need the salt, having plenty of mines, and Japan does, having been deprived of salt from Italian controled mines owing to the Italo-Ethiopian war.

The cultivation of cotton promises to cut the production of poppies because Iran has found good markets for her cotton and expects to sell more and more of it at the expense of Egypt, India, and the United States. Germany and probably Japan are considered the most promising potential buyers of Iranian cotton, accepting it under a barter arrangement. It is expected that Japan and Czechoslovakia will make new trade treaties with Iran in a few months.

Luristan, a fertile province crossed by the Trans-Iranian railway, is a new area now being put under cotton cultivation. It is almost virgin soil, never having been tilled because it lacked a peasant population, and is expected to produce much of the product. The inhabitants are nomadic tribesmen who but three years ago had nothing to do with the land, living instead off their flocks and brigandage.

Large numbers of these tribesmen have now been disarmed by the present king and efforts are being made to settle them down to peaceful occupations.

COPENHAGEN.—Tremendous volcanoes which play ball with huge rocks and ice mountains as big as five story buildings have lured three groups of scientists to prepare an expedition to Iceland to make an international study of the Vatna Joekull district. They will have for their subject an ice field spreading over more than 3,420 square miles, lying some 6,000 feet above sea level, with an ice cap about 1,000 feet deep.

No life exists on the surface of this white world where blizzards sometimes change the view towards the distant black mountains which frame the ice desert. But below the ice cap there is plenty of life, for here lie some of the most interesting volcanoes on earth. These occasionally erupt, filling the air with stones and ice. The last eruption, which took place during the summer of 1934, was witnessed by the Danish scientist, Dr. Niels Nielsen, who was at that time exploring there. The crater left by this outbreak was 1,200 feet deep.

Since then it has been visited by German, Italian, and Austrian expeditions. At present Dr. Nielsen is completing preparations for the three party, inter-Scandinavian expedition to make a geological investigation. He and his helpers have already left Denmark for Reykjavik, the capital of Iceland. There they will be joined by two more expeditions, one from Stockholm, Sweden, and the other from Iceland. The party will proceed in automobiles for the first 180 miles, and the remaining 120 miles to the very center of the last eruption will have to be done on horseback and on foot.

The volcano will be attacked from three sides, and each expedition, consisting of six to ten scientists, will have its individual task to perform. One is to measure the eruption temperature. Another is to study the melting process of the ice after an eruption, and the Danish group will study the movements of the glacier. The expeditions will collaborate on their joint contributions to the existing information. They expect to finish their studies during the summer months. During their work the scientists will constantly be threatened by new eruptions.

POWER OF ATTORNEY.

Chicago, April 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—If I appoint an attorney giving him power of attorney in writing, can he turn a case over to another attorney without my consent?

M. S.

The phrase "power of attorney" ordinarily means something entirely different from the word "attorney." Under a power of attorney, the agent would be given specified powers, not necessarily having anything to do with the practice of law. We assume that you refer to an ordinary employment of an attorney. It is a common practice for lawyers of experience and standing to delegate parts of their work to subordinates and unless your agreement embodied exceptional circumstances, it seems probable that the delegation involved in your case was permissible. JOHNNY APPLESEED.

South Bend, Ind., April 15.—In your paper a few days ago you published a dispatch from Springfield, Mass., in which doubt was cast upon the story of John Chapman, alias Johnny Appleseed. A Springfield historian, Harry Wright, regarded the story as a myth, a creation of the imaginations of some nice old ladies, you reported.

The writer spent four years in writing the facts and running down every story he could find concerning this kindhearted, altruistic scatterer of apple, plum, and cherry seeds all over the middle west from about 1800 to 1845.

He was as well known to the early pioneers as was Daniel Boone, and his travels extended from Pennsylvania to Missouri and from Michigan to Kentucky.

He lived around Ashland, O., for some fifteen years and in Fort Wayne, Ind., for seventeen years. He died in 1845 and was buried two miles north of Fort Wayne in the Archer burying ground. He has relatives all over Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, and Illinois.

I met in my travels one old lady who had met him in her childhood, and in my files I have a letter from an old lady at Butler, Pa., Mrs. E. J. Howard, who when she was a little girl made small bags for him for his apple seeds. He always stopped with her father, a physician, whenever he came that way.

Chapman was an educated man and held a commission from the Swedenborgian church at Boston to preach, and for two years was a missionary on the Potomac river. He frequently spoke in the churches in the west and delivered Fourth of July talks.

He died worth some $10,000, and in the records in the courthouse at Fort Wayne are full proceedings of his burial and the closing of his estate.

There are as many proofs that Chapman lived and worked around the west as there are that George Washington was at Braddock's defeat.

FORECAST.

Chicago, April 16.—In November the boondogglers expect to reëlect Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt. To insure the result they have arranged an outpouring of public money during the next seven months on a scale beyond the ability of any one to comprehend. These funds, charged to the account of thrifty people, will be parceled out by the unscrupulous Mr. Farley among those who, for a consideration, would sell their votes.

In November we shall know whether we are to be ruled for another four years by thieves or whether those who believe in American institutions and ideals of government and free enterprise will undertake the job of mopping up the Roosevelt mess.

The release of all this vote getting money can't help causing a tremendous business activity, and many unthinking people are going to say we are on our way to recovery, but the reaction after the spending orgy ends—as end it must—is going to be terrible.

PERSONALITY DEFECTS IN TEACHERS.

Chicago, April 14.—At regular intervals through the school year, women, beloved in the communities in which they work and capable of giving many more years of service, are dropped from the teaching force through the retirement act. There remains with us, secure in her position, the maladjusted woman, who has probably never contributed anything to the profession and who retards the development of certain children who are placed with her.

The teacher with serious personality defects selects from every group she controls one or more children on whom to vent her peculiarities. Her attitude toward the child is usually one of silent derision, sensed by the class and carried into the playground. The child may be above the average in intelligence and hold a consistent record of superior scholarship and behavior, but if he be her selected victim his capabilities are something to be destroyed rather than developed. Work intelligently and painstakingly done is tossed aside with the lowest grade so that the child may be held with the inferior. The least childish irregularity of conduct is grasped at as an opening for a tirade, and the smallest incident that the same teacher passes over with a wise word is exaggerated and the wildest comparisons made until the child is bewildered by her distorted sense of values.

The effect of a woman like this on a child who has been taught that the teacher and the school rank with the parent and the home is serious indeed. And for the good of the child parents must go on—giving their coöperation to this teacher—this woman whose eyes can never quite meet the eyes of the interceding mother.

The list of eligible young women who stand at the door and knock—waiting for positions in our schools—might be considerably lessened if women like this were out of the service.

Next comes the fence on either side of the reconstructed Japanese buildings, as a protection to what? The buildings or the silly gardens on the east side?

Words fail me; go see for yourself. If you ever had any real love for this once lovely spot you will understand how many will regret its passing. No one more than Chicago, April 15.—It would be appropriate to have the equestrian statue of Gen. U. S. Grant removed from Lincoln park to the park named in his honor. The new site should be about 500 feet north of the main public entrance to the Field museum and the statue should face north.

AUSTRIAN ARMY PARADES; LITTLE ENTENTE ANGRY

Military Attaches Boycott Review in Vienna.

VIENNA, April 19.—(AP)—The little entente made a pointed gesture of disapproval today as Austria's small but efficient army held a spring parade on Ringstrasse.

Half a million persons watched several hundred trucks, light and heavy artillery pieces, tanks and armored cars pass in a snappy procession, which lasted for three hours.

The little entente, offended by Austria's determination to introduce compulsory military service, showed its disapproval by instructing its military attachés to refrain from occupying places reserved for them among the reviewing officials.

Alfonso Watches Parade.

On the other hand, military delegations from Italy, Germany and Hungary were present. Former King Alfonso of Spain and Sir Austen Chamberlain, former foreign minister of Great Britain, were among the spectators.

It was stated in well informed quarters that the little entente [Czechoslovakia, Jugo-Slavia and Rumania] indicated yesterday it would be displeased by the extraordinary display of military force which might be interpreted as a show of defiance in the face of the entente's protest against Austria's new compulsory military service law.

In any event, Austria showed less of its army than in the parade a year ago. Only 15 airplanes, including a bomber, soared ofer Heroes' square. Emphasis on motorized equipment indicated Austria's policy of developing a highly mobile army.

Burst of Political Activity.

There has been an unusual burst of political activity in this section of Europe in the past few weeks. The Hapsburg monarchist leader, Baron Friedrich von Wiesner, solemnly declared "The time for a restoration of the imperial order is ripe." Nazis, who wish to see Germany forge to the east, answered with the slaying of two opponents and other acts of terrorism in southern Austria.

Croats, seeking autonomy, touched off disorders in Jugo-Slavia, in which at least fifteen were killed.

Rumania outlawed the Rightist "Iron Guard," which tried a comeback with an assassination and conspiracy. Dozens of its members were arrested.

Hungarian Revisionists, encouraged by the German cxample, renewed their clamor for changing the treaty of Trianon and acquiring lands lost to the little entente.

Bulgaria Demands Corridor.

Bulgaria, alarmed because Turkey remilitarized the Dardanelles, renewed a demand for a corridor giving her a direct route to the Aegean sea.

On all sides there were evidences of rearmament. Rumania raised its ordinary military budget to $38,000,000 and created a special fund of $20,000,000 for the development of aviation.

The Vienna newspaper Neuste Nachrichten estimated Czechoslovakia's air strength at more than 900 planes, Rumania's at more than 800, and Jugo-Slavia's at more than 850.

TROOPS PROTECT 1,100 JUAREZ MEXICANS AT FIRST LEGAL MASS

El Paso, Tex., April 19.—(AP)—Guarded by two detachments of the 24th Cavalry regiment, more than 1,100 Juarez, Mexico, Catholics early today crowded the ancient Guadalupe mission for the first legal mass held in the state of Chihuahua since Oct. 25, 1934. Juarez is across the Rio Grande from El Paso.

Federal Judge Miguel Mendoza Lopez Friday granted an injunction restraining officials from interfering with the services. Juarez city authorities had refused to protect the worshippers. The judge requested troops to patrol the mission.

The Rev. Salvador Uranga, pastor of the mission, was assisted by the Rev. Manuel Deoses and the Rev. Jesus Grijalva, all exiled when Chihuahua curtailed religious services in 1934.

WORK ON STATE HIGHWAY POLICE RADIO RESUMED

Work on a state highway police radio chain, which had been tied up for two months by a strike of union electricians, was resumed last week and plans were being made yesterday to open the first broadcasting unit at Springfield within the next three weeks. Seven stations throughout the state will be in the chain.

The strike was called by the union when a demand that the stations be operated by union men was refused by state officials. A compromise agreement was made and the electricians returned to work.

The station at Springfield [WQPS] is complete except for installation of the transmitter. The other stations at Dunning, Du Quoin, Pontiac, Effingham, Sterling, and Macomb will be completed as fast as possible. Each station will have a sending radius of 70 miles.

Approximately 300 motorcycles and 200 automobiles of the state highway police will be equipped with receiving sets.

Mountie and Bride Found Shot to Death in Room

VANCOUVER, B. C., April 19.—(AP)—Corp. George H. Whitman of the Royal Canadian mounted police, and his wife, Lillian Whitman, were found shot to death today in the wife's room in a rooming house. Police said they believed the officer shot his wife and then killed himself. The couple were married two months ago at Bellingham, Wash. Their acquaintanceship was said to have started prior to the divorce of Mrs. Whitman from her former husband.

Teacher Spanks Girl, 11; Mothers Call for Strike

Highland Falls, N. Y., April 19.—(AP)—Eighteen indignant women—mothers and taxpayers—voted today to call a strike of sixth grade pupils at Fort Montgomery school tomorrow and Tuesday as a protest to the reinstatement of a teacher who spanked one of the students with a ruler. The trouble started when Mrs. Carrie Hynie, principal and teacher of the sixth grade, spanked 11 year old Frances Sanders.

RUSSIAN LEADER TO GUIDE REDS IN SPAIN'S UPRISING

Moscow Agents to Direct Activities from Paris.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, April 19.—The activities of Spanish communists will, in the future, be directed from Paris instead of Moscow, according to headquarters of communist internationale in the Kremlin. It today announced the designation of Paris as the center of its immediate activities in southern Europe.

Nicolai Bukharin, who succeeded G. E. Zinoviev as president of comintern, later resigned in favor of Dictator Josef Stalin. Bukharin, who is still a member of the comintern presidium, now is in Paris en route to Spain to give expert advice on the development of the Spanish revolution.

Won Praise from Lenin.

Bukharin, according to the late Nicolai Lenin, is one of the clearest revolutionary thinkers in Russia. His thesis that bolshevism can only result from a civil war and class war was adopted by Lenin in his discourse on how to develop revolutions abroad. Incidentally, the soviet press recalls that Lenin predicted Spain would be the first country in Europe to adopt a bolshevik form of government.

The Moscow newspaper Izvestia, of which Bukharin is editor, said his visit to Paris will be indefinite.

An important development which is expected to assist the quick development of a communist revolution in Spain was mentioned in the Moscow Pravda. It reported that Spanish communist and Socialist leaders have decided to form a committee of six communists and six Socialists who will organize the youth of both parties into special shock brigades to promote revolutionary activities. Pravda says the Spanish delegates at the last comintern congress in Moscow promised to obey these instructions.

The possibility of a bolshevik revolution in Spain is the chief topic of discussion in the Russian capital.

Bar Officers from Politics.

MADRID, April 19.—(AP)—Parliament after an all night session approved a bill early today forbidding army officers to participate in "political activities."

The body then recessed for a week's vacation. Under the order of the ministry of the interior several high civil guards have been relieved of duty pending further orders, presumably because of the connection with street fighting here Thursday.

NINE FIREMEN INJURED.

New Orleans, La., April 19.—(AP)—Fire of undetermined origin swept over a wide area in the southwestern section of New Orleans late today, destroying a sash factory and four residences and injuring nine firemen. Unofficial estimates of the loss was $75,000.

CHARGE GOV. LANDON'S NAME PUT ON BALLOT DESPITE HIS PROTEST

San Francisco, Cal., April 19.—(AP)—Two candidates for places on an uninstructed California delegation to the Republican national convention today charged that Gov. Alf M. Landon's name had been put on the state presidential primary ballot "in direct opposition to his expressed wishes."

The charges were made by Arthur B. Dunne and Edward S. Shattuck. They read a letter which they said was from the Kansas governor, under date of Feb. 10, in reply to a Republican assembly resolution asking Landon to enter the California primary.

"It seems ungracious for me," they quoted from the letter, "to decline to enter the California primaries, and yet I am obliged under my theory of this campaign to take this position."

"Despite this attitude," said Dunne and Shattuck, "the forces of W. R. Hearst entered Landon's name on the ballot, and since have joined Gov. Frank F. Merriam in the type of high pressure organization that Gov. Landon does not want."

GERMAN ENVOY LOST IN DESERT ON AUTO RACE TO AN OASIS

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

CAIRO, Egypt, April 19.—Baron von Stohrer, German minister to Egypt, is lost somewhere in the desert near Baharieh oasis, about 100 miles southwest of Cairo. Von Stohrer was participating in an automobile race held under the auspices of the Royal Automobile club of Egypt from Cairo to the oasis. The race began yesterday. The road passing through the desert is not clearly defined. About thirty-five miles from Baharieh Von Stohrer today lost the path, getting off of the main road. He has not been seen since.

Desert police and airplanes as well as other auto race contestants are searching for him.

CUBAN TOUGHS BEAT DANCERS AT YACHT CLUB

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

HAVANA, April 19.—A group of unidentified hoodlums armed with rubber clubs assaulted a gathering in the Cuba Nueva Yacht club, located on the Almendares river, early today, beating a large number of prominent men and women dancers. Many were badly bruised and several women fainted.

The group surrounded the club building after firing machine guns in the air. There was a panic as the hoodlums entered the dancing salon and attacked the guests. The hoodlums fled after the attack.

Police are unable to ascribe any motive since the club is a sports organization and in no way is connected with politics.

FILM FOLK WILL AID STRICKEN GIRL IN HER LONG HEALTH FIGHT

Hollywood, Cal., April 19.—(AP)—A sad story of Hollywood had at least a temporarily happy ending today.

Dolores Casey, who came to the movie colony to enter a beauty chorus, was admitted to a Monrovia, Cal., sanitarium for what doctors said probably would be a long fight against tuberculosis. She was assigned to her first part last week. A day later the disease struck. She was alone and without money.

Chorus girls began collecting money to help her. When they were finished, the sum was pitifully small. Others heard. Director Ray McCarey and William Frawley, actor, joined the move.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

195 Acres in Oats

April 19, 1936.

OAT seeders have been moving up and down last year's corn rows on the Tribune experimental farm near Yorkville recently. When the men quit work last night 195 acres of Iowar, a medium early variety, had been sown.

The oats were seeded in three fields —65 acres in field No. 19 and 50 acres in No. 21 [both on the south side of the farm] and 80 acres in field No. 8, on the north side of Fox river. This year's crop plans provide for 257 acres of oats. The farm manager hopes to get the remaining 62 acres in the ground early this week.

All of this year's oat land, with the exception of two acres in field No. 21, was in corn last year. The ground is being double disked ahead of the seeders, the tractor drawn disks going first the long way of the fields and then crosswise.

The oats are sown with end gate seeders attached to wagon boxes. The wagons are driven the long way of the field, straddling every ninth corn row and sowing a strip nine rows wide. The land is again disked both ways and then double dragged with a spike tooth harrow which has the teeth set at a backward slant so they will not penetrate the soil deeply.

Find Soil Quite Dry.

The object in disking the ground after the oats are sown is to cover the seed to a sufficient depth to insure their sprouting in the comparatively dry soil. Last year there was an abundance of moisture in the soil at oat sewing time and only drags were used to cover the oats. The fields were quite dry last week.

More bushels of oats are being seeded per acre on the Yorkville farm this spring than in former years. This is because the seed, saved from last year's crop, is unusually light, weighing only about 26 pounds to the bushel. The seeders are set to sow about four bushels per acre.

A mixture of clover and timothy was sown with the 65 acres of oats in field No. 19. The seed was mixed in the proportion of 3 pounds clover to 1 pound timothy. The mixture was sown at the rate of 14 pounds to the acre.

On the east one-third of field No. 21 Hubam Pellow blossom sweet clover was seeded with the oats at the rate of 10 pounds per acre. The sweet clover will be used for early fall pasture and then plowed under next spring for soil improvement.

Chinch Bug Traps.

Several acres of spring wheat are being sown in odd patches about the Yorkville place this year. The farm manager wants to save enough seed to sow a larger acreage next year because he needs the straw for bedding in the cattle feeding yards during the winter. He also expects the wheat to serve a two-fold purpose this year:

1. As a nurse crop for red clover, which is being sown in all the plots at the rate of 16 pounds per acre. The second cuttings of the clover are to be threshed for seed for use on the farm.

2. The patches of wheat may be used this summer as chinch bug traps in case the bugs become plentiful enough to cause trouble. Past experience has shown that chinch bugs tend to collect in fields of small grain during the spring and early summer months. They seldom give much trouble in the corn fields until after wheat, oats, barley, rye, and such small grains are cut. Then they immediately leave the stubble fields for the nearest field of corn, where they do their greatest damage by sucking the sap from the tender corn plants.

If the wheat plots become badly infested with chinch bugs this summer the wheat and clover will be sacrificed and each plot plowed as deeply as possible, putting the bugs far enough beneath the surface to make their migration to the cornfields extremely difficult. Barley is often used in this manner to trap chinch bugs, since these pests seem to prefer barley to any other small grain crop.

DON'T BE TERRIFIED

by these infections unless you're failing to get proper medical care

Both the venereal diseases can be cured if promptly and persistently treated by a capable physician instead of by yourself or a quack

IT'S foolish, these days, to be terrified by either gonorrhea or syphilis. For modern medical treatment practically assures a cure—provided you consult a good doctor soon after infection and follow his instructions faithfully. In fact, it is now possible to arrest further progress of long-standing cases of syphilis!

But it's equally foolish to (1) neglect a venereal disease, (2) attempt to cure it yourself, or (3) consult one of those quacks who pose as "specialists in the diseases of men." They usually advertise by means of sensationally alarming and misleading pamphlets passed out in public places.

If any of these serious mistakes is made, gonorrhea may result in sterility, crippling rheumatism, or prostate, bladder and other troubles. And syphilis may lead to heart disease, blindness, apoplexy, locomotor ataxia, paralysis or even insanity!

Skill and experience needed

It requires much skill and experience to cure a venereal infection, hence you should choose your doctor with the utmost care. Your family physician is a good man to consult, or you can get excellent medical attention at very low cost from the well-trained doctors of the Public Health Institute.

The Public Health Institute is recognized by the medical profession as the largest venereal disease clinic in the world. Since 1920 it has given over 4,000,000 treatments to more than 220,000 individual patients! Thus you can have implicit confidence in the medical service it offers.

Every man and woman physician on the staff of the Public Health Institute is a graduate of a reputable medical college, and is thoroughly experienced in the most modern methods of treating venereal infections. Each is duly licensed to practice in Illinois by the State Board of Medical Examiners.

The Public Health Institute goes to great lengths to insure privacy and peace of mind for its patients. Numerous individual treatment rooms are provided, and for the sake of even greater privacy each patient is known by a number rather than by name.

Treatments as low as $1.00

Organized by public-spirited citizens as a corporation "NOT-FOR-PROFIT" under the laws of the State of Illinois, the Public Health Institute specializes in venereal diseases at remarkably low fees. A complete examination for gonorrhea and syphilis, including urinalysis and Wassermann test, costs only $3.00, while some treatments for syphilis cost as little as $1.00 and some of those for gonorrhea still less.

Hence there is no need for any sufferer from gonorrhea or syphilis to be frightened by his or her disease. For not only can virtually all new infections be cured, but first-class treatment is now available at charges within the reach of all. Even persons who are temporarily pressed for funds can arrange to be treated.

NOTE: The Public Health Institute has no connection with any other Chicago health or medical institute, and should not be confused with those operated for personal gain!

Gardens of Old South Beckon to Chicagoans

Many Now Touring and Others to Go Soon.

BY JUDITH CASS.

WHILE some returned travelers are talking of the beauties of the gardens they have seen this spring, in Charleston, Mobile or Natchez, others who are planning trips are talking of the gardens they expect to see soon, for quite a number of Chicagoans are going to Virginia for Garden week, April 27 to May 2. The Garden Club of Virginia, made up of 27 clubs in that state, arranges the pilgrimage and calls it Garden week, but it is really the old mansions more than the gardens themselves that interest the visitors.

There is a small admission fee for each garden, and for museums, and the proceeds go into a restoration fund the Garden club is using to restore publicly owned, historic gardens. The gardens that thus far have been restored through this fund are those of Stratford, home of the Lees; Kenmore, home of Fielding and Betty Washington Lewis; The Manse, birthplace of Woodrow Wilson; Wilton, home of the Randolphs, and the old Rolfe place. The fund also supplied the moneys for planting around the Washington and Lee chapel.

Kenmore of Particular Interest to Chicagoans.

Kenmore is of particular interest to some Chicagoans for there is a branch of the Kenmore committee in Illinois, and Mrs. Arthur Meeker is its regent. A card party for the benefit of the committee is being given on Wednesday, April 29, at the residence of Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr., 1550 Lake Shore drive.

One of the oldest and loveliest of the many places that are opened during Garden week is Belle Grove, which is owned by Chicagoans, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Hooker of Winnetka. It is the birthplace of President James Madison and is an outstanding example of colonial Virginia architecture. Mrs. Hooker went south a week or two ago to make sure that her old fashioned gardens will be at the height of their beauty during Garden week, when she will have as her house guest Mrs. William Sherman Hay of Winnetka, who now is visiting friends in Middleburg, Va.

Belle Grove is in the northern Tidewater district, a tip of land between the Rappahannock and Potomac rivers. It is a very old district and among its other interesting places are Wakefield, a replica of George Washington's birthplace; Stratford, birthplace of Gen. Robert E. Lee, and two signers of the Declaration of Independence, Francis Lightfoot Lee and Richard Henry Lee; and Sabine hall, built in 1730 for Landon Carter, and still occupied by his descendants. The Wellford family own it now and Mrs. Wellford is chairman of Garden week.

Mrs. Ralph R. Richardson to Show Charming Estate.

Another charming Chicagoan, Mrs. Ralph R. Richardson, will be showing visitors the beauties of Fairfield, a splendid old estate in the Winchester and Boyce district. Mrs. Richardson's house is not old enough to be opened during Garden week, but it is on the estate of Fairfield, the residence of Mr. Richardson's mother, Mrs. John D. Richardson, so of course the younger Mrs. Richardson assists the elder one in acting as hostess during the busy week. Fairfield, built by Warner Washington in 1770, is noted for its fine box and terraced gardens.

Gunston Hall, in the Alexandria district, is another estate that often has been visited by Chicagoans. It will be on exhibition during Garden week. It is the home of Louis Hertle, whose wife, the late Ella Daughaday Hurtle, was Mrs. Tracy C. Drake's sister. The Hertles formerly lived in Chicago but went to Virginia about 15 years ago and bought and restored the home of George Mason, author of the Virginia bill of rights.

Ronald Tree, grandson of the first Marshall Field, and his wife, the former Nancy Perkins of Richmond, Va., are the owners of Mirador, another beautiful old Virginia estate that will be opened during Garden week. It is about 18 miles west of Charlottesville and is the former

A Gay Nineties Gown

Miss Louise Brydon, who is a newcomer to Chicago will model this Gay Nineties' gown, from the stock of the White Elephant Rummage shop, at a tea tomorrow afternoon at the Casino. The tea and fashion show, in which nearly a dozen attractive young women will take part, will benefit the Children's Memorial hospital. All of the clothes displayed will be from the stock at the shop, so there will be many stunning garments as well as a few "fashion freaks," on view.

Women Hold Art Exhibition of Their Own

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

A delightful exhibition of paintings by women has opened in the Hoosier gallery, 211 West Wacker drive. A number of artists are represented and on the whole the weaker sex shows up with remarkable vitality and craftsmanship. There are portraits, landscapes and still life arrangements, many of them worth while.

A charming portrait in the pre-Raphaelite manner is that of a young girl, just the head, by Margaita Weaver. The amusing "Nursery Days" by Sadie Lowes brings to mind the interesting one-man show this painter held a few months ago in the Drake hotel. The "Nursery Days" boasts intriguing animals of color.

If one wants an utterly charming picture in contrasts turn to "Suburban," by Mary Wright Witmer, a summer chair on the corner of an inclosed porch with all of winter in snowy solitude outside. "Harrisville," by Sara Bard, is a breezy water color. "October Woodland," by Lucie Hartrath, is as lovely as her landscapes invariably are. They are warm and rich and sympathetic.

Among the other paintings of interest are "Portrait," by Dorothy Harford; "Haven," by Lenore Conde Lawson; "Spirit of Easter," by Marybelle Spencer; "Drying Sails," by Lillie Fry Fisher, and "A Spring Bouquet," by Gertrude Wiser Nelson.

The exhibition will continue to May 1.

An exhibit of advertising art is in the fourth floor gallery, Marshall Field and Company. It is remarkable for the distinction of the photographs used and for the fascinating study of a girl in yellow, seated in a blue chair, painted by Joseph Allworthy.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Literally a pearl among lipsticks is one that rests in our cosmetic storehouse at the moment. It's not a new one, strictly speaking, but its jacket is—and said jacket is so handsome it couldn't possibly be permitted to make its bow without some greeting and plenty of applause. Cases are of enamel, with a narrow band of gilt at each end with one in the center—and each is topped with a rather large and luscious looking pearl.

There are four in pastels—yellow, pink, green and blue—with the simulated pearl tinted to match. There is also a dignified black one topped by a white pearl and a most bridalish looking one in all white. These are among the handsomest sticks we have ever seen; we are even tempted to say that these are the best looking for the price that we ever saw. There have been some stunners, mostly for evening, but they cost a young fortune. These pearl topped sticks don't.

The lipstick itself we have lauded before and we know that those of you who have become acquainted with it liked it immensely. It's one of the best, with creaminess of texture and beauty and fidelity of shade to recommend it. Besides that, it's scented with gardenia—a real gardenia, incidentally—that makes it extra special. Women who are intensely aware of the taste and odor of the lipstick they use and insist that delightful pleasantness prevail will like this.

You'll find this in two shops in town. It's part of a smart English cosmetic line. ELEANOR NANGLE

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Life was just full of Beerys and bullets the other afternoon.

Sitting in the Fox projection room, with a thrilled high school girl [on spring vacation] beside me, I watched "A Message to Garcia" with Wallace Beery, and "King of the Damned" with his brother, Noah, unreel. [Tell you about the latter next Sunday.]

"Like delivering a message to Garcia!" we used to exclaim when discussing something that was difficult or indefinite of accomplishment.

The saying—and the picture—are founded on fact. The event upon which they are based was one Lieut. Andrew S. Rowan's delivery of a message from President McKinley to the Cuban leader, Gen. Garcia, at the time Cuba was fighting to shake off Spanish dominance.

Where IS Gen. Garcia?

Nobody in Washington knows the exact location of the general and his army. It is somewhere in a certain jungle grown area of Cuba. Lieut. Rowan's, the responsibility for locating him, evading the enemy, and delivering the message which shall apprise the leader of facts with which it is vitally necessary that he should be acquainted.

Full of courage and determination, Rowan starts out . . .

He is trailed by a famous espionage expert—for the other side—Dr. Krug, Nordically portrayed by Alan Hale, so, I presume, as not to offend the Spaniards. He falls in with an American expatriate [Mr. Beery] who doesn't care whom he works for or betrays [until he meets Rowan] so long as there's pay for his services. He sees a military execution, and meets and falls in love with a lovely Cuban girl—who becomes all mixed up with his life pattern from then on.

The actual event of the delivery of the message has been highly colored and embellished and there are times when the picture goes a bit too far. The torture scenes are unpleasant and unnecessarily long drawn out, and there WAS a regrettable leaning toward theatricals on the part of the director.

BUT—the picture has a heap of action, considerable suspense, and it is ably acted. Wallace Beery is intriguing as Dory, a compleat rogue and, probably, the greatest liar since Baron Munchausen.

See you tomorrow.

Jane Withers Uses Logic to Locate Kittens

Mother Cat Unable to Keep Family Hidden.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., April 19.—[Special.]—Ten year old Jane Withers, who can be regarded one of the smartest actresses in pictures, regardless of age, demonstrated her intelligence recently.

Jane's pet cat, which recently showed up with four kittens, had taken to moving the kittens to different points about the house, occasioning much concern in the Withers' Beverly Hills home.

The other morning the five cats were missing again. Search of the house, the space under the house, the basement, the garage, and the yard yielded no clew. Her mother told Jane that the cat probably had wandered too far to be found.

"Mother, I'm sure they're around," the little girl said while her lip quivered. "Now let me see. Where would I take my babies if I were a cat? I would look for a place that was warm. There would have to be something soft to lie on. It would have to be out of the sun, and where dogs or people wouldn't disturb us."

Then her face lit up. "Why, mother," she said, "I'll bet I know where kitty is." There was a dash to an upper bedroom where Jane went directly to a closet. In the corner behind some boxes was the cat family, bedded down on some clothes which had fallen from hangers.

Needing 300 Indians for the Indian village in "Ramona," Henry King put that many redskins on the studio pay roll. When shooting of horseback scenes was to start he found these Indians couldn't ride. Himself from Virginia he had imagined all Indians rode. King called on Jim Thorpe, the old Carlisle athlete, who by common consent acts as head broker in American Indian film talent, to replace the pedestrian redskins with riders.

During recent months while W. C. Fields was off the screen, he began getting more fan mail than while making pictures. The sentimental interest of fans, who read of the veteran comedian's serious illness, was responsible. Some of the mail came from Europe, Asia, and South Africa, according to Fields, who is now playing the rôle of a likable old con man in "Poppy" and many letters were from physicians and near physicians. His feminine secretary, "Mickey" Michaelson, answered most of the letters. Fields himself tries to answer those from children and old friends.

"I've seen that man spend an hour with a pen in his hand, trying to compose a letter to some child," Miss Michaelson said. "Although there would be a dozen important letters dealing with business affairs that he had to reply to."

While homesick Fields took to penning notes to his studio friends, to the colored girl who cleans up his dressing room, and to "Mickey" herself. These were humorous, and Fields signed them "The Great Man."

The most lavish film opening in the writer's recollection covering twelve years, outdoing even the boom displays before depression, was the coast first night showing of "The Great Ziegfeld." For orchids, minks, sables, diamonds, emeralds, plug hats, tails, low backs, new fashions in feminine eyebrows, eyelashes, fingernails, and hair ornaments, long and gawdy town cars, and effervescent after theater parties, "The Great Ziegfeld" hit a Hollywood high.

The crowd that gathered around the Carthay circle was in the thousands, although not as vast as one of the early Charlie Chaplin openings in silent days, and the throng's "take" in autographs was slimmer, because the film people are cutting down on this.

The audience, which paid $5 a seat, was composed almost entirely of important people inside, or on the fringe of, the film industry, and with few exceptions seemed to regard "The Great Ziegfeld" as the best film of the music-costume-back stage spectacle type ever turned out.

Front Views and Profiles

ON a recent spring morning a student sat in the John Crerar library struggling with an involved German treatment of karyokinesis. Torn between the necessity for learning to make a living and the urge to live, intensified by the April sunshine, it was hard going. Then, suddenly, as though some one had opened abruptly a door to some oriental garden, the air seemed laden with the fragrance of spikenard and myrrh.

Dreamer— Sharpshooter— Wanderer— Hard heart.

"The air seemed filled with the suggestion of sensuous sandalwood and the sophistication of patchouli, blended in such an essence as Circe must have diffused about Ulysses," the young man writes.

"'Ah,' thought I, for did I not know my McKenzie and his 'Aromatics and the Soul' too well. Just a trick of memory. . . . The fragrance became stronger and stronger. Alas, so dulled was my comprehension that the printed page no longer held words but lines, undulating to a sensuous rhythm.

"I looked about me. Poring over a medical dictionary, not six feet away, stood the cause. Lovely arched eyebrows, knit in perplexity. Youth. A jaunty island of spring flowers floating on a sea of gold. Eyes like the skies over Capri. But whereof this oriental essence? Surely such as she would diffuse about her the fragrance of lily-of-the-valley, pink roses at the most.

"The vision looked up. Already anticipating the tinkle of silvery temple bells, I heard a husky baritone.

"'Say, could you help me?' She consulted, then showed me a list of laboriously lettered words. 'I got the swellest guy—he's a doctor, but he writes the hardest letters . . .

"'But these are not medical words. You will find them in the large Webster over there,' I replied.

"'Now ain't I sold out. I thought these five words were medical terms,' she pouted.

"And a rather artificial blonde made her way to the Webster, leaving in her wake the odor of tawdry oriental perfume.

A LETTER addressed to John McCabe finally reached him, after traveling steadily since last October, having gone some 21,000 miles back and forth between Illinois, Africa, and Asia. The letter, written aboard the airliner Sooki of the Royal Dutch airlines, when the sender, Carleton Smith, was flying over the Holy Land on his return from Persia last fall, would have reached him last November had not part of the address been obliterated, Mr. McCabe explains. As a consequence the letter was returned from Chicago to Cairo, then to Alexandria, Egypt; then to Bement, Ill.; back to Alexandria, through Paris a second time, and finally to Carleton Smith in New York City, who apparently forwarded it to Mr. McCabe. Mr. McCabe wistfully wishes he had been the letter.

MARGARET BOEHNER vouches for this story. A friend was approached by one of the members of the Grant Park Sunners' club, who modestly asked, "Say, buddy, can you give me the price of a cup of coffee and a sandwich?"

"Certainly, I'd say about 15 or 20 cents," retorted the hard-hearted fellow.

New Lingerie Sets Records for Loveliness

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Every year a crop of brides descends upon the town to spend Dad's cash like pennies for trousseau trivia and probably decide the lovely lingerie and negligees are the very best and most romantic looking stuff that has ever been set before a trousseau collector. Having shopped just as enthusiastically every spring, and having refrained from the dangerous sport of comparison, we are stumped this year.

If next year's showing is any more alluring than the current displays of bridal luxuries and necessities we will have to get a new supply of superlatives and romantic adjectives.

Just try and beat the airy robes of net, in pale pink or blue, made like a fitted long coat. The sleeves are short. Racing down the front is a row of double ruching. The skirt is wide and billowing. Or see the tangerine chiffon concoction made with layers of chiffon in the swooping wide circular skirt, and the equally wide and circular shoulder cape that sweeps the floor. Or the ice white satin robe with a diagonally cut sash of chiffon combining grape blue and jade green, and that green is in turn repeated in the long chiffon cape coat that reaches the floor.

Long chiffon capes in jewel colors are being worn over shimmering satin sheaths instead of the last year's idea of big sleeved coats. Star sapphire blue, topaz gold, ruby, and pastel colors are plentiful.

Nightgowns in true ivory satin come with some positively unbelievably low price marks. They are festively trimmed with lovely laces. The newest excitement is over the delicate hydrangea colors in filmy lingerie, with lace dyed to match the color of the chiffon. Gleaming satin nightgowns are topped with short sunburst pleated capes of chiffon instead of the bed jackets of last year. Fine pleated nightgowns, with the fine pleatings from shoulder to hemline, are true French revivals.

Ask to see the dove gray, the pale yellow, the heavenly shades of blue and pink before you think we're too ecstatic about these new collections.

May Robson 71; Retire? Maybe, When She's 100

Hollywood, Cal., April 19.—(AP)—May Robson's 71st birthday today seriously interfered with her tap dancing.

She rose early to practice. But couldn't.

"The telephone," said "Muzzy," "it's been going ever since 6 o'clock this morning."

She allows her number to be listed in the book; answers the phone herself, and gets out of bed at 6 a. m. every day—all highly untypical of a first ranking movie star.

"So I couldn't do much tap dancing," she said. "Too many interruptions. I'll practice tomorrow."

Vital to her fingertips, she has signed a new movie contract. She hopes to see the Olympic games and "can hardly wait for the football season to come again."

As for retiring ——

"Certainly," she smiled, blue eyes sparkling, "when I'm 100."

Critic Praises Work of Two Young Pianists

But Their Pounding Gets Them an Admonition.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

When two young musicians of the talent and vitality of Pauline Goldberg and Ruth Grossberg brighten a spring afternoon with a joint piano recital, the temptation is overwhelming to give most of this space to enthusiastic and well intended suggestions as to the manner in which those still remaining flaws in their musical makeup can be removed, and the quality of their work raised overnight from satisfactory to excellent.

But such a proceeding might give any one who was not present in Kimball hall yesterday a very false impression, for the virtues displayed in the course of the afternoon far outnumbered the vices.

To the virtues first, then. Their concerted work in the Arensky "Polichinelle," was firm, accurate, rhythmically convincing. Miss Grossberg's playing of the excerpt from the Grieg Sonata [which closed her first group of solos] had genuine sweep and power to it. There was dignity, if not repose, in the Bach Fantasie and as much interest in the Hayden Variations as the dreary set has any right to command.

Miss Goldberg calmly attacked three virtuoso test pieces in a row [Yes, even the Scarlatti fits nicely into this category], and had practically no serious technical mishaps in all their length. Her playing is brilliant and assured.

But why should pianos be pounded so, when the instrument's best effect lies in the subtlety and sweetness of that blend of its gently vibrating strings that no other medium for music making can quite equal? And Miss Grossberg's sweep and power would be far more impressive if the device of contrast were utilized oftener. The dynamic scale of the piano, from mezzo-forte down, is at once the most difficult and the most delectable range of its expressive power.

Miss Goldberg displayed the same fault in her solos, turning the florid and flowing Italian Concerto into entirely too powerful and angular a piece of music. She used more contrast than her co-recitalist, but had difficulties with tempo that offset the advantage. No living pianist could play the Allegretto of the Waldstein Sonata at the pace Miss Goldberg set at the start; even Lhevinne would have to make some compromise with physical realities when that passage came along in which one must trill and carry the theme in the same hand. And why those sudden fortes in the rare, sweet Introduction?

Alban Knox, a tenor with a definite flair for folk music, was unwise enough last night to begin a Kimball hall recital with songs of quite a different type. His perfomance of two Italian bits, one by Donaudy, the other the Donizetti "Furtiva Lagrima," was censurable on grounds of style, this inclusive word being intended in the present case to cover accuracy of pitch and time scheme as well as conviction of utterance and authoritative delivery.

Five minutes later Mr. Knox brought his naturally pleasant voice quality to the interpretation of four Scotch and English folk songs. They were lyric and moving, with a skilfully handled legato style and genuine fervor. Emer Phibbs, the intrepid accompanist who had accepted the assignment on an hour's notice [because of the sudden illness of Mr. Schneider] played a Scott "Valse Caprice" in a poetic, and technically expert, manner.

Her Husband's Past

IN LOVE WITH A STRANGER.

Andrew "wasn't going to have it."

Dick, who wanted to marry Nell Martin, Andrew's daughter, was not the object of the old man's rage. Andrew approved of Dick Holmes. It was Nell with whom he was angry, and at the moment she was not there to listen to all the harsh things that were being said about her.

"I mind it began the night of the dance in the assembly hall," Andrew said, his nostrils quivering. "Folks were talking about the way she was carrying on."

Dick "minded" it, too. Mrs. Martin rallied to the culprit's defense.

"Nellie hasn't said 'yes' to you, Dick. She'd a right to her bit of fun and I thought Mr. Cameron seemed a nice sort of gentleman. So handsome and attentive and all. Sort of different, as you might say. You see, it's a little unfortunate perhaps that Nellie's a year or two older than you, Dick. Only last night she was saying she didn't hardly like the idea of marrying a boy."

"She was liking it alright until this Cameron feller came along," Nell's father said. "What's he doing loafing around Wellsport all this time?"

Andrew peered into the rainy night. There wasn't a light to be seen. Nell had taken out the car that afternoon without his permission and it was now getting on to 8 o'clock.

"We've heard what's happened to her. She's sitting in the lounge of the Wellsport hotel canoodlin' with a divorced man."

"Dad, you don't know that for certain. Nellie told me Mr. Cameron had lost his wife about five years ago," Mrs. Martin protested.

"There's more'n one way of losing a wife in these days," Andrew told her. "Dick heard he was divorced and that he'd run through a sight o'

"Dad, all city chaps aren't wrong 'uns. Nellie told me that Mr. Cameron's with an engineering firm in London, and that he brought along some work to Wellsport for the sake of peace and quiet."

"You've said enough," Andrew told his wife severely. "You're to blame, anyway. You never raised a finger when the feller began to come out here. Why did he stop coming all of a sudden, I'd like to know? 'Cause he was just about smart enough to guess we'd be finding out the truth about him. . . . If that darter o' mine isn't home in five minnits, I'll thank you to drive me into Wellsport, Dick. And I'll take me along a horsewhip, too."

Mrs. Martin looked out of the window. "I see the lights of a car," she said. "I think that must be Nellie."

. . . .

Nell Martin had done something that afternoon which even to herself seemed to verge on the scandalous.

She had been seeing quite a lot of this stranger, Eric Cameron, until four days ago. Then suddenly for no reason she could account for he stopped coming out to the farm.

She owned to herself that she was "crazy about him," and had been almost certain that he felt the same way about her.

Nell was by far the prettiest girl in the neighborhood and well used to the admiration of young men. She could have picked and chosen where she liked, but so far had made no decision.

Her parents wanted her to marry Dick Holmes and very nearly she had said "yes" to him.

But now Nell knew she could never marry Dick. She wasn't in love with him, and she was in love with Eric Cameron.

During those four days when she waited in vain for him to come again to the farm, she had suffered agonies.

She dressed up each afternon; she was distrait; she wandered about restlessly to keep her mind off him—but nothing availed.

Then she tried to summon pride to her rescue.

Mr. Cameron had only been pleasantly polite. How conceited to have imagined that he had fallen as deeply in love with her as she had with him.

When she closed her eyes she could see him as plainly as she had seen him that first night when their eyes met across the dance floor in the assembly hall.

Tall, fine-featured, with dark hair slightly frosted at the temples, and gray eyes that seemed to speak to her even before Jack Parmlee, the lessee of the Wellsport hotel, brought him over and introduced him.

There was a glamor about Eric Cameron—the lure of the mysterious and the unknown.

He told her he had been watching her a full hour before they met. She was the only girl in the room worth looking at, he said.

But might that not be merely an excess of gallantry? Still, he had followed it up by asking if he could call upon her.

"Mums, I think I'll go into town this afternoon. Is there anything you want?"

Mrs. Martin said no, there wasn't anything at all she wanted from Wellsport.

"Looks as though it's going to rain," she had added, as though in discouragement of her daughter's project.

"O, I don't think so," Nell replied.

It did rain. It was pouring before she reached town, and the best place to put up the car seemed to be the garage attached to the Wellsport hotel.

"I am a fool," Nell told herself. "Chasing after a man who's probably forgotten all about me by this time!"

She went into the hotel lounge trying to think of a plausible excuse for being there, and the first person she ran into was Eric Cameron.

Her cheeks flamed as he came toward her. From the look in his eyes it would almost seem as if she were the one person he had been waiting for. No, he certainly had not forgotten her.

"Did you? No, you see I'm still here."

The way he looked at her made her feel all queer and trembly. It was as though without touching her at all, he had taken hold of her very life. "Such men are dangerous," she told herself, but perhaps she was the sort of person to whom a sense of danger is monstrous sweet.

"This afternoon you're going to have tea with me," Eric Cameron told her.

"I don't know that I ought—they'll be expecting me back," Nell said. But her slight demur did not mean anything.

He ordered tea and they sat down by the fireside. The lounge was quite deserted and a big lether screen made a cozy corner for them in the same snug nook in which they had sat out two dances the night of the ball.

A DEBT TO SOCIETY PAID.

Saying which, he measured his target on the house and began to shoot, spacing his bullets, finishing his distance of five feet and repeating the action. From the right, the left, and beyond, the firing had taken on this same preciseness; word had been passed from the last man of one station to the first of the next. Now the cabin was being raked with the thoroughness of repeated jabbings from a giant, many-tined pitchfork. Again and again clips were renewed. At the cabin, one Browning ceased to bark. Then a second became silent. For many minutes after that firing came in erratic bursts from various windows. Sandy believed he knew the answer; only one man remained, who strove by constant movement to present a desperate pretense of numbers. At last, as dusk became night, that also ceased.

Cautiously Sandy passed the order to advance. Converging lines of men moved slowly from cover, across the meadow—they halted, they waited, they crept on again. Closer they crawled, closer. Then Sandy shouted:

"Tear gas!"

Short guns with grotesquely large barrels were brought forth. Long projectiles were fitted into place. Aim centered upon the windows. Tense fingers squeezed triggers into action. Streaking light burst from the heavy barrels; glass crashed at the cabin. Again and again the projectiles were hurled within, there to burst, loading the interior with their gaseous charges. There was no answering shot, no sound of movement. Sandy commanded:

"Flares!"

"All right. Here's where we take it!"

Rushing men swept for the cabin, dodging swiftly into the protection of pump and hayrack and shed before the final dash to windows and doors. There at last they lost their tension. Ancy and Jock and Jimmy Lurch lay sprawled in perpetual silence. They who had dealt death had received death, for their debts to society they at last had been given a receipt—in the lead and steel of bullets.

Ten days later, on his way from Washington to an investigation in San Francisco, Sandy Ross dropped off at Kansas City and went to see Jane Bronson. Again there was the stilted meeting, the fencing for words, the attempts to avoid conversation on subjects painful to both. All failed. At last Sandy said, somewhat abruptly:

"I'm getting a new assignment after this San Francisco job."

"You are?" Jane Bronson brightened. "You mean you're being promoted?"

"Well," said Sandy Ross hesitantly, "I guess you'd call it a promotion. They need a second man in the office of the supervisor of pursuit."

"And they've given you the job?" Sandy nodded. The girl came to him. "Are you glad?"

Sandy Ross was plainly nervous. Hands which were so steady on a gun grip were shaking perceptibly. He swallowed more often than usual. His forehead was perspiring.

"Well, I'm pretty glad. You see it means—well, I won't have to live in trains and airplanes—have a place to go to——you know——a home and all that——" quickly he asked: "What are you going to do, Jane?"

"I?" Slowly she walked to the window. "What is there for me to do, Sandy, except just what I'm doing?"

He followed her.

"Well, don't you think you ought to consider something else? You can't keep up this lonely life. It isn't natural. It's foolish—girls like you don't come by the dozen. You ought to have a home, and somebody who'd take care of you and love you and——"

Her laugh seemed unreal. Queerly hopeless, she faced him.

"Who'd want me, Sandy?" she asked.

The man felt a sudden constriction in his throat. In an instant her features, her soft hair, her luminous eyes, all had become blurred to him, beautifully misty. Almost reverently he raised his arms until his hands touched her shoulders, until he had enveloped her, enfolded her, tight to him, until his lips were warmly close, hers being welded with his.

"I want you, Jane," he whispered.

THE END.

home of Lady Nancy Astor, Mrs. Tree's aunt.

Two romances were brought to light over the week-end with the announcement of Miss Barbara Shaffer's engagement to Frederick Bullen Friestedt, and of Miss Elizabeth Scott Lloyd's betrothal to Philip A. Starck.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Benjamin Shaffer made known their daughter's engagement at a tea yesterday afternoon at their apartment on Lake Shore drive. Miss Shaffer attended the University School for Girls and Ogontz, and made her debut two years ago. She is a member of the Service club.

Mr. Friestedt, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman F. Friestedt of Sheridan road, attended Colgate university after preparing for college at the Chicago Latin school and the Peddie school at Hightstown, N. J. He is a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon. The wedding will take place in June.

Mr. and Mrs. Shaffer and their daughter are having Mr. Friestedt, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Peter Adams, the former Medora Pelouze, and the Victor Lee Emersons of Philadelphia as their guests at their farm near Lexington, Ky., over the Derby week-end.

Miss Lloyd, whose engagement announcement also will come as a surprise to her friends, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Lloyd of 900 North Michigan avenue. Her fiance is the son of Mrs. Philip T. Starck of 330 Wellington avenue.

An active member of the Lighthouse Volunteer Aids, Miss Lloyd attended Roycemore and Kendall Hall at Pride's Crossing, Mass., before making her debut in 1933. Mr. Starck attended the Hill school. No date has been set for the wedding.

Engagement Announced at Afternoon Reception.

At a reception yesterday afternoon announcement was made of the engagement of Miss Barbara Cox, daughter of Mrs. Howard M. Cox, and Theodore Craig Diller, son of Dr. Theodore Diller of Pittsburgh. The news of the betrothal came as a distinct surprise to the many friends of the young couple who attended the party which was held in the Cox home on East 50th street.

Miss Cox's father, who died a few years ago, was one of Chicago's well known lawyers. Miss Cox was graduated from Vassar in 1931. Mr. Diller has been practicing law in Chicago since his graduation from the Harvard law school in 1928. He took his undergraduate training at Kenyon college. Miss Cox and Mr. Diller plan to be married at a small family wedding on May 16.

Three Versions of "Weskit"

WOMAN'S AND MISS' "WESKITS."

In spite of the distinctly feminine and frilly tendency of women's fashions this season, the masculine, tailored lines will not be downed. The mannishly styled suit still is a prime favorite, for those occasions when one wants to appear trim and wear clothes the spirit of which is practicality. For your suit, then, you will want a brief "weskit," such as those pictured today. There are three from which to choose.

The collarless model shown at the top is ideal for suits. It is single breasted and sleeveless, allowing for the wearing of a blouse underneath. Linen and piqué, in any shade to harmonize with your suit, or in white, are equally fashionable and tubable.

The center illustration describes a jacket which is best suited to be worn only with a skirt. It is chic beyond words in plaid woolen. It is double-breasted and has smart revers and clever short sleeves. An ascot matching the skirt lends charm to the neckline.

The single-breasted "weskit" sketched at the bottom is equally suitable for suits or single skirts. It has a clever little collar accented with a bow, and its sleeves may be long or short, according to your needs. White or pastel piqué tailors distinctively in this version of the "weskit."

These inexpensive jackets take little time and a minimum of material, while contributing a wealth of chic to your ensemble. Style No. 2806 is designed for sizes 14, 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38 and 40 inches bust measurement. This pattern includes provision for all three models sketched. For yardage requirements, consult the pattern envelope.

BY MARY MEADE.

Color in the kitchen—we think we've introduced it into every nook and cranny, and then some smart manufacturer shows us another new trick!

Colored, waxed baking cups, in cheerful greens, blues, pinks, yellows, and violets, appear as one of the latest color additions to the cook's workaday world. The cups, which we've praised for years because they save dishwashing and keep small cakes and muffins fresh and moist, now are gay possibilities for carrying through some special party color scheme, or just for expressing spring gladness, if that's your whim.

These practical, yet frivolous little cups come in a packaged assortment of colors, and at a small price. They're whitelined and — in case you've been wondering—they do keep their fresh colors right through the baking process.

Not that they need to go into the oven to make themselves useful. Refrigerator frozen or molded desserts may be made and served in them as a graceful finale to the spring luncheon or dinner.

An especially delightful suggestion, and an especially simple one, is that of a Roman Ice, to be frozen in the small waxed cups. To make this chilly sweetheart, sweeten canned fruit juices with honey to taste and fill the cups about two-thirds full. Top with a spoonful of heavy cream, beaten until stiff with a little honey [2 tablespoons to each cup of unbeaten cream], and place in the trays of an automatic refrigerator. Freeze for four or five hours, or until the fruit juices are frozen and the cream firm. Serve directly from the cups.

Maple Mousse.

½ cup maple sirup
4 egg yolks
Few grains salt
1 cup heavy cream

Heat sirup over boiling water. Beat egg yolks until thick and light. Pour a small amount of hot sirup into egg yolks, beat thoroughly, and return to double boiler. Cook until slightly thickened, stirring constantly. Cool. Whip cream until stiff and fold into maple mixture. Turn into waxed cups or refrigerator tray, and freeze for three to four hours.

Chicago Fashion Group to Review Style Trends

"Checking Back on Fashion Futures" will be the subject of the Chicago Fashion Group's guest meeting tomorrow at the Drake hotel at 12:30. The natural color fashion film made in Europe by Marian Stephenson and shown in New York last fall as a forecast of American 1936 fashions will be reviewed with commentary by Helen Sisson.

According to CULBERTSON

OPENING BIDS OF THREE NO TRUMP.

An opening three no trump bid is the next step above the two no trump bid, and shows at least seven honor tricks, with a maximum of eight-plus honor tricks. The distribution always is 4-3-3-3, and every suit always is securely stopped, as in a two no trump bid.

For example, bid three no trump with

♠ A Q 6 ♥ K Q J ♦ A K 5 4 ♣ A K 10 or
♠ A K Q ♥ A K 6 ♦ A K J ♣ A 10 5 4

With eight and one-half honor tricks and balanced distribution, four no trump is the correct bid. Partner should raise to six with two queens, or bid six in any five card suit headed by the queen or better.

An opening bid of five or six no trump asks for a single raise with one queen or a grand slam bid over five no trump with a five card suit to the queen or better.

Extremely Lucky Hand.

The goddess of chance too often seems to smile on not merely the bold, but the rash as well. In today's hand a ridiculously optimistic contract was fulfilled only by amazing "breaks."

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	Pass
1 no trp	Pass	2 spades	Pass
2 no trp	Pass	4 spades	[final bid]

Undoubtedly, North should have passed to the two spade bid but he evidently was a believer in miracles.

West opened the low diamond, dummy ducked, and East's king won, after which the ten of diamonds was returned. Dummy's ace won and three rounds of trumps followed. West, on lead with the queen, properly decided that his one chance was to underlead his club ace, find his partner with the queen, and declarer with the jack, and have declarer guess wrong. Since declarer was so fortunate as to be ten high in the suit, he was forced to put up the club king. When it held, he returned to his hand with a diamond and finessed his singleton heart up to the ace-queen. The queen winning, the ace was cashed for a club discard, and a club trick finally, and graciously, conceded for the poor defenders' third trick.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: With a combined holding of ten trumps, do the percentages favor a finesse for the missing king, or a straight lead of the ace for a drop?

Proper Dress Is Magic for Figure Faults

Correct Lines Conceal Overweight Hips.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

"What suggestions would you make to trim down hips that are away out of proportion to the rest of the body? My shoulders are narrow and my waistline is small. I seem to have done all my growing and widening in the hips.—Mauvaine."

The styles this year happily provide for every silhouette shortcoming, it would seem, but especially for the woman whose hip girth exceeds all her other proportions. I went with a shopper the other day whose figure answers the above description. After doing the town, she fell into the hands of a courturier who criticized, constructively, what the woman was wearing. Her costume consisted of a tightly fitting, one-piece dress, skin tight around the shoulders and upper arms, and belted in with a wide belt. The skirt was pencil-tight.

"Now," said the dress stylist, leading her new customer over the triple mirror, "see yourself. All you see are hips. You have managed every dress line to call attention to the width at the hips. Let's take another look!" In just the time it took for a change, our shopper stood in front of the same mirror with hips seemingly shrunken away. The skin tight shoulder fitting was substituted by those square, folded shoulders reminiscent of epaulets, which play optical tricks on the rest of the figure.

The waistline was robbed of its wide belt which so sharply stressed the hip width, with the substitution of a narrower belt, and the skirt was allowed to flow with a little looseness over the hips. Not full, but smoothly enough to prevent the hip bulges from standing out in huge knots as they so frequently do in the pencil-slim skirt. The woman with the hips was told to keep away from the short mess jackets, so much in vogue. No boleros and no sharp break in color between waist and skirt are permitted. A finger length packet proved to be correct for this particular woman. A three quarter-length one might serve another equally well, we were told.

"But," said the courturier, "why go around with all the hip thickness? Why don't you reduce them? Then your figure would be pretty nearly ideal!"

"That's an idea," responded the shopper. "I'll be back in the fall a new woman!" The dress subterfuges are grand for those who need them, but hips are not difficult to reduce, so why not settle your troubles for once and all?

Diamond Plaid Block.

Red, pink, white, and red print materials combine to make "Diamond Plaid Block" one of the most popular of the easily pieced patterns in any quilt collection. The simplicity of the three patches which comprise the single block, and the rapidity with which the pattern may be pieced, serve as an incentive to beginning quiltmakers. The entire quilt is composed of 42 pieced blocks and finished with a narrow one-half inch binding which serves as the border.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

After experiencing two days of unusually rough travel the Cubs got straightened out in their work yesterday and proved themselves rightful owners of the pennant which adorns their center field flag pole. This was done by the old but still effective process of hitting the ball, the upshot being a fine lathering for the Cincinnati Reds before a crowd of 11,600. The score was 16 to 6, a total which is evidence enough that it was an uphappy occasion for several pitchers.

The best that can be said for the various pitching gentlemen who saw service during the somewhat comical struggle was that Bill Lee of the Cub staf managed to survive the nine inning route. He did this not by a display of uncanny throwing, but on a lead which grew into vast proportions when his fellow workers picked up six runs in the sixth off Walter Hilcher, who earlier had rescued Gene Schott, and five in the seventh off Silas Johnson.

Klein Whacks Two Homers.

With sixteen Cub hits for twenty-nine bases recorded there naturally were numerous members of the league champions able to bid for hero recognition. Chuck Klein shaded 'em all, however, by going in for distance. He pumped two homers into the right field bleacher, giving him three for the season. He also scored once after being passed. On a numerical basis Billy Herman topped the field, but two of his offerings were singles and the third a double, making his sixth for the year. A few other items were triples by Augie Galan and Stanley Hack, and doubles by Gabby Hartnett and Bill Jurges.

The Reds, although soundly spanked after their two days of fun making at the expense of the Cubs, cornered honors in two ways. They excelled in homers by driving three of Lee's offerings into the seats for four runs. The other particular in which the Rhinelanders were in a class by themselves was in the matter of errors. They piled up four blunders in the field, two of them occurring in the sixth and enabling the Cubs to put together their six run splurge on only three hits.

Lee managed to make the Reds hit grounders in the first inning, so only three of them batted, but they tried boosting the ball into the air in the second and it wasn't so pleasant for the champions. Lombardi spanked Lee's opening pitch for a homer into the right field bleacher. After Riggs had been thrown out by Jurges, Goodman let three wide pitches float past whereupon Lee tried to put over a cripple. Goodman pounded it into the same bleacher, giving Cincinnati a two run advantage.

Cubs Tie Up Battle.

The Reds couldn't score on two hits in the third but the Cubs on the same number of hits scored the tying pair in their half. Jurges started it with a double on which Cuyler attempted a shoestring catch. Riggs threw out Lee after a brilliant one-handed pickup. Galan lined a triple into the right field corner, Jurges scoring. Galan came home on Billy Herman's deep fly to Goodman and Klein ended the inning with a lady-like bounder to Kampouris.

Three hits in the fourth brought the finish of Schott and two runs for the Cubs. Hartnett led off with a single over short and puffed his way to second on Demaree's infield out. Gabby reached the plate on Cavarretta's single and the latter continued to second on Cuyler's fumble. Hack followed with a triple to the screen in right center and Cavarretta sauntered home. Out went Schott and in came Hilcher. He in-

KENTUCKY DERBY.

BREVITY, Joseph E. Widener's handsome colt, is 2 to 1 future book favorite for the Kentucky Derby, an exceedingly short price two weeks in advance of the Blue Grass classic. If any of the other leading contenders accomplish anything sparkling in the meantime he is likely to command post-time odds as good or better a week from next Saturday afternoon.

Favorites, however, have a pretty good record in this great 3 year old event over the 1¼ mile route. In 61 previous runnings public choices have bagged the money 31 times, with 13 seconds, 5 thirds, 6 fourths, and 6 times among the also-rans.

During the last decade 7 favorites have won—Bubbling Over in 1926, Whiskery in 1927, Reigh Count in 1928, Gallant Fox in 1930, Twenty Grand in 1931, Cavalcade in 1934, and Omaha in 1935. Defeated favorites were the Bradley entry of Blue Larkspur [fourth] and Bay Beauty in 1929, Tick On [sixth] in 1932, and the Coe entry of Ladysman [fourth], and Pomponius in 1933.

Interruptions to this sequence of favorites were Clyde Van Dusen on a muddy track in 1929, second choice at 3 to 1 and heavily backed by Kentuckians; Burgoo King from the Bradley barn in 1932 at nearly 6 to 1; and Bradley's Broker's Tip, a maiden, in 1933 at odds of 9 to 1, the highest price paid on a Kentucky Derby winner since Zev's 19 to 1 in 1923.

So precedent argues for Brevity's success if he goes to the post favorite. Yet that same precedent provides a jinx for norses owned by Mr. Widener, who never yet has captured the Kentucky plum although trying many times. Last year his Chance Sun was future book favorite only to go wrong in the final days of training, so he did not even get to the barrier.

Meantime, in this short two weeks remaining many things can happen.

A Baseball Recitation.

On opening day . . .
Ah! There's much anticipation!
In most every conversation,
Mid the shouts of exclamation,
We can hear the proclamation
That the pennant's in the bag!

The Fourth of July . . .
On this day of celebration
There's a lack of exultation—
We all view the situation
With the dreaded realization
That the team's begun to drag!

Then on Labor day . . .
The apparent indignation
Of our baseball population
Is producing agitation—
We demand investigation,
O, how heads and tongues do wag!

At the season's close . . .
Well, our rookie importation
Has just caused a big sensation;
Now we have a real foundation
For our next year's combination—

OPEN CLASSES TOMORROW FOR 30,000 GOLFERS

Women and Girls Get 1st Free Lesson.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

More than 30,000 men, women and children in the Chicago district already have enrolled, the largest entry in the history of the school, which in its three previous years established new records for group instruction in the fundamentals of the game. Tomorrow night's classes on four of the Chicago park district's courses and ten Chicago Daily Fee Golf association links will be for women and girls only. Men and boys will attend their first classes on Thursday night.

Each pupil is requested to bring a wood club—a driver, a spoon, or a brassie—tomorrow night. If you don't own one, borrow one. Bring it with you, for it will aid you in grasping such A B C's of the game as grip, stance, and swing. All men and boys are requested to do likewise Thursday night.

School Opens at Seven.

All lessons will begin at 7 o'clock. This week's lessons will be devoted to play with the woods. Next week's classes will be concerned with long iron shots, and the third and final lessons of the school proper will stress the short irons and putting. In addition to these three lessons, a fourth lesson, summing up all the principles of the first three, will be given, at which several of the game's leading stars will participate in demonstrations.

The application coupon for the school appears for the last time this morning in an accompanying column, which also carries a list of the courses where classes will be held. The coupon has been run since the opening announcement, not only to gauge the expected enrollment but also to discover how many instructors will be necessary at the various courses. Present indications are that the four park courses—Jackson, Columbus, Diversey in Lincoln, and Marquette—are the most popular, although four of the daily fee courses—Mid-City, Evergreen, Big Oaks, and Elmgate—are expected to receive a large share of the enrollment.

A list of the teachers follows:

JACKSON PARK—Tom Walsh of Westgate Valley, with demonstration by Frank Walsh of Bryn Mawr. Horton Smith of Oak Park will appear at Jackson park Thursday night for the men's and boys' first class.

COLUMBUS PARK—Lew Waldron of Mohawk will be in charge of the lesson, aided by Bert Wild of Westward-Ho, with Harry Cooper of Glen Oak giving the demonstration.

DIVERSEY [LINCOLN PARK]—Jock Anderson of Techny Fields will be in charge, assisted by Packey Walsh and Frank Crowe of Bryn Mawr. Johnny Revolta of Evanston, national professional and western open champion, will give the demonstration at Diversey tomorrow night.

MARQUETTE PARK—Joe Jemsek

Fire Destroys Clubhouse at Tam o' Shanter

Fire, caused by an overheated furnace, early yesterday morning destroyed the clubhouse on the grounds of the Tam o' Shanter Golf club on Howard street east of Waukegan road with a loss of $135,000.

One hundred and twenty couples in attendance at the opening party of the season were about to sit down to dinner when the blaze was discovered. The fire departments of Niles, Park Ridge and Morton Grove were called, but the flames were beyond control by the time apparatus arrived.

An orchestra, engaged for the party, kept playing while the guests and members left in orderly fashion. Dr. Robert Borchert, club president, and Christ Callsten, secretary, assisted the guests in escaping.

Plans for reconstruction of the clubhouse will be discussed at a meeting today. Temporary headquarters will be provided next Saturday, with showers and eating facilities for both men and women, according to club officials.

BREVITY PLAYS SECOND FIDDLE TO COLDSTREAM

BY FRENCH LANE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., April 19.—Fine weather, lots to see and much more to talk about caused several thousand persons to line the rails at Churchill Downs this morning.

There against a background of flowering shrubs on the clubhouse side and row upon row of thoroughbred filled stables on the other, danced Brevity, the Derby favorite, and after him Chicago's pride, Coldstream, which on this occasion outstarred the favorite.

The curiosity to see Churchill Downs before it is overrun by the Derby throng prompted most of the visitors to reach the course by 6 o'clock. They stayed for nearly four hours. It was well they arrived early for both Brevity and Coldstream were up at the crack of dawn and their day's work was over before 7.

Coldstream Breezes Mile.

Coldstream, making his first serious move of the season over the Downs Derby course, was sent a mile, breezing it in 1:42 3-5. It was the best training gallop of the year in Kentucky. He was full of run at the finish and Kentuckians, who had doubted that Trainer Alex Gordon would have this fellow ready because of the late spring, changed their tunes immediately.

Brevity's work was over the same route. The crowd was so dense on the back stretch when he appeared that he had to delay his speed test while the track was cleared. He moved in good even stride all the way, did not wear blinkers, ran away from his work companion, Shot Up, and rounded out a handy mile in 1:43. Coldstream had stepped each fraction a trifle faster than Brevity. It is a well known fact, however, that Brevity is a better horse when he wears blinkers.

The rail birds took the results home with them, combined them with information gleaned from Saturday's races in which nearly a score of Derby eligibles had competed, and out of the grand jamboree attempted not only to extract the Derby winner but also to shape the entire Derby field.

Brevity Still Favorite.

There was hardly a dissenting vote that Brevity would remain the favorite and the general opinion tonight seemed to be that there are still 29 probable starters in the lineup. This likely field is as follows:

Horse.	Owner.
Brevity	Joseph E. Widener.
Hollyrood	Hal Price Headley
Coldstream	C. B. Shaffer
Granville	William Woodward
The Fighter	Mrs. Ethel V. Mars
Sangreal	Mrs. Ethel V. Mars

Teufel	Mrs. Henry C. Phipps

The Derby stock of at least six candidates will boom this week as a result of their performances in competition Saturday.

The Fighter Shows Class.

The Fighter, another Chicago colt, owned by Ethel V. Mars, raced into the top flight when he won the Texas Derby. Gold Seeker's victory in the Chesapeake stakes made it appear that at least one filly will strive for the Derby price this year. Delphinium, Bright Plumage and Teufel all indicated by their performances in the Chesapeake that they must be reckoned with in the Derby.

Tintagel's victory in the Merrick purse in New York returned him to the good graces of his Derby followers. Hollyrood, while beaten soundly by Tintagel, indicated in the late stages that at a longer distance he might have fared better. He at least lost none of his followers.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., April 19.—Schoolboy Rowe this afternoon squelched the White Sox right out of their proud 1,000 per cent rating in the American league standings. The 5 to 0 victory achieved by the Detroit Tigers was the lank Arkansan's second shutout of the season as well as the world champions' second victory.

The Sox were rather proud at having eased the pain of the shutout by getting one runner to third and two to second. In the season opener against Cleveland the Schoolboy didn't let an Indian get to second. Moreover, the Sox made five hits and the Indians made only four.

Stratton Starts Well.

Young Monty Stratton was even a better pitcher than Rowe in the first four innings. He allowed only one single and Rowe allowed two, but after that there wasn't much to depress the 22,107 Tiger partisans who attended the affair. In the fifth the Tigers, aided by some heavy footed work by Jimmy Dykes and Mule Haas, made two runs on a walk, two scratchy hits, and one good smack after the side should have been out.

The deficiencies of Dykes and Haas, however, cannot be blamed for the defeat, for a homer by Goose Goslin, the first in the new Navin field, was knocked in the sixth and would have been enough to win, of course. Another power run was scored on Owen's single and Gehringer's double in the seventh. The Tigers' final run was made off Clint Brown, recent acquisition from Cleveland, making his first appearance in Chicago regalia.

Haas Reaches Third.

The five Chicago hits were made by the first five men in the Sox batting order. The man who got to third was Haas, who doubled in the seventh and reached third on a wild pitch. In that inning Rowe struck out the side. He struck out six in all, and walked only one. The pass Piet got to start the eighth was the only one Rowe has issued this season.

Neither Rowe nor Stratton had to fool around much in the first inning. In the Chicago half Gehringer threw out Radcliff and caught Kreevich's popup. Then Haas lined to Owen. In the Detroit half Stratton threw out Rogell, Cochrane popped to Appling, and Gehringer flied to Kreevich.

Each team made a single and got a runner to second in the second inning, but each ended by having the third out accomplished on a called strike. Washington led off for the Sox with a single to left and went to second on Appling's tap to Rowe. He stayed on second while Piet flied to Simmons. Dykes was called out on strikes. Greenberg started the

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Joey Church, 19 year old boy from Batavia, N. Y., would have delighted the heart of one of those 19th century writers whose prolific pens wrote of the ambitions and subsequent successes of boys who wouldn't be discouraged by prohibitive odds. You may be thrilled by Joey Church for he now has won the National A. A. U. featherweight boxing championship and he will compete in the National Golden Gloves tournament which opens at the International amphitheater on May 7 and ends on May 20 at the Chicago Stadium with the selection of the American Olympic boxing team.

Joey Church will be in Chicago for the tournament because he wouldn't quit fighting even after he had been licked. Joey lost the Niagara association boxing title this year in the meet at Buffalo to Harris Blake. For two years prior to this year Church had won. The Niagara association was financially unable to send any boxers other than their eight association champions to Cleveland, although the national rules provided that two boys in each weight class might be entered.

Joey Goes to Cleveland.

"That suits me," Joey told his coach, John DiCarlo, who had just about given up hope his protégé could win a place in the National Golden Gloves tournament. "I'm going to Cleveland."

And Joey came to Cleveland, sometimes walking and occasionally getting a pickup in an automobile. He arrived on the day the amateurs weighed in, passed the examinations, and sneaked upstairs to bunk on the floor of the room of one of the boys who came from his district.

Joey won two fights that first night. No one paid much attention to him until the champion of his association had lost and Joey came through with another victory in the quarter-finals. In the semi-finals last Friday night he whipped Lou Gevinson of Washington, D. C., by the narrowest of margins, but he won, and then, with the big crowd in Cleveland's Public hall cheering him on, he trounced Rudy Oden of Los Angeles for the 126 pound championship.

Semi-Finalists Qualify.

These four semi-finalists qualify for the National Golden Gloves tournament in Chicago. Tommy Morris of Detroit, Ted Kara of Cleveland, Chicago's 1936 Golden Gloves champion, and four boys from the national collegiate boxing tournament, and one champion of the army and navy comprise the field from which the United States Golden Gloves champion will emerge on the night of May 20. The university men are Bob Fadner of Wisconsin, Elmer Kelly of Loyola of New Orleans, Denver Welch of the University of West Virginia, and Bill Shores of the University of North Carolina.

No one of the eight weight classes will be more representative of the United States. The states represented are New Jersey, District of Columbia, New York, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Louisiana, North Carolina, West Virginia, and California.

Rudy's Sure He Can Win.

Any one of these boxers may be the National Golden Gloves champion. Ted Kara was a standout in Chicago's Tournament of Champions. Bob Fadner of Wisconsin is the college champion. And Rudy Oden of Los Angeles Athletic club promised he would win. Rudy told us in Cleveland that "I can whip any guy my weight in the world," but he added "unless some tough Chicago mug proves otherwise."

Oden is of German-Mexican descent. He won the Los Angeles C. Y. O. championship this year and, of course, the Southern Pacific association title of the A. A. U. He's 19 years of age, is a native son, and employed as a cabinet maker. He played football while attending Lincoln High school in Los Angeles [his father was a football star] and also won gymnastic honors.

Martell Instructs Oden.

Oden has been instructed in boxing for two years by Art Martell of the Los Angeles A. C. At Cleveland, Manny Robins, who coached Don Gonzales in 1931 when Don won the Golden Gloves featherweight title, was in Oden's corner. Robins is picking Oden as the National Golden Gloves winner and predicts he will represent the United States at Berlin in the Olympic games.

215 WILL START IN MARATHON AT BOSTON TODAY

Boston, Mass., April 19.—(AP)—Fifteen excellent distance runners will race for a trophy, a laurel wreath and Olympic consideration while 200 others strive to force pounding hearts through miles of red mist tomorrow in the 40th renewal of the famous Boston A. A. marathon.

Provided there are no withdrawals, George V. Brown, Olympic marathon committeeman, will start a field of 215, including five former winners. The marker is 26 miles, 385 yards from the back bay doorway of a Boston university building.

Only 15 of these, many of them veterans of this struggle, appear to have any kind of a winning chance. Of the five former winners, only two rank in the select group, Johnny Kelley, the Arlington florist, who won last year, and Les Pawson of Pawtucket, R. I., who set the course record of 2.31:01 3-5 in 1933. Clarence Demar, the seven times winner; Jimmy Henigan, who led the plodding pack in 1931, and the 1917 winner, Bill Kennedy, the East Portchester, Conn., bricklayer, have passed their peaks.

SMITTY—A GAY YOUNG BLADE

Salvatore and Sharkey Clash at Marigold

Geno Salvatore, lightweight of La Salle, Ill., and Jackie Sharkey, Minneapolis, are the principals in the eight round windup bout tonight at the Marigold Gardens. Tommy Howell, Danville, and Harold Brown of the west side will clash in the six round semi-windup.

Salvatore gave Davey Day a great fight in one of his best showings in the north side arena, and he has won the majority of his bouts in local rings. Sharkey has been campaigning in the northwest, where he fought a draw recently with Irish Mickey Walker. Jackie never has dropped a decision in the Marigold Gardens.

Out of the six round bout between Brown and Howell should come a worthy opponent for Davey Day or Frankie Sagilio. Brown has won eleven straight fights in the Marigold ring, and Howell, managed by Eddie Long, is looked upon as a future champion. Tommy has scored thirteen victories on the north side. Neither Brown nor Howell has lost a pro fight here. Jack Blackburn, trainer of Joe Louis, will be in Howell's corner.

Billy [Chief] Webster, Milwaukee, meets Sammy Verse in a four rounder; Wally Walker, another Milwaukee boxer, faces George Dungey, Bloomington, and Mickey O'Shea and Ray Drake will open the show. There also will be one wrestling match.

Matchmaker Kid Howard yesterday announced the signing of four supporting bouts to the John Henry Lewis-Izzy Singer windup at the Chicago Arena, 333 East Erie street, Wedneseday night. Frankie [Cowboy] Edgren of Cheyenne, Wyo., and Eddie Boyle of Cleveland, contestants in the Chicago Stadium heavyweight tournament, will meet in the six round semi-windup.

Two welterweight bouts between Pat Murphy of Danville and George Engle of South Bend, and Ken Murray and Jack Hawkins, both of Chicago, and a lightweight encounter between Sammy Verse and Paul Dempsey, two local boys, were made. The Murphy-Engle match is six rounds, the other two four rounders. One more bout is being sought to round out the card which will mark the Chicago debut of Lewis, the light heavyweight champion of the world.

Edgren won his first four fights in the Stadium tournament and gained a repuation for his hard punching and clowning.

Ali Baba will wrestle Alex Kasaboski, Canada, Wednesday night at the Arcadia Gardens. Jack [Bad Boy] Brown will be back after a long absence, meeting John Swenski, Lynn, Mass. The pair will meet in the semi-windup. Three other bouts will complete the card.

Eight amateur bouts will make up the regular weekly boxing show at the Johnny Coulon club, 1154 East 63d street, tonight. Mike Spratt, featherweight, will meet Earl Gibson in one bout, while Herman Vanderplow will be paired with William Powers at 147 pounds. Sherman Edwards will face Frank McBride at 160 pounds.

Danno O'Mahoney will top a wrestling card April 30 at the Coliseum. Ray Steele is one of the leading heavies anxious for a meeting with Danno, and Jim McMillen and Abie Coleman also want to wrestle the Irishman. Orville Brown, who lost to McMillen last week, also is being considered.

Notre Dame Club Holds Annual Festival Tonight

The University of Notre Dame Club of Chicago will celebrate Universal Notre Dame night with a program and dinner at the Hotel Knickerbocker this evening. Sound movies will be shown of the Notre Dame-Ohio State game last November and a full length feature in sound, "The Spirit of Notre Dame."

Chicago Golf to Hold Directors' Tourney May 16

The Chicago Golf club will hold an invitational tournament to be known as the Directors' tournament on May 16.

Frank Walsh of Bryn Mawr is in charge of the schedule of events to be played by the Illinois Professional Golfers' association in coöperation with the Chicago District Golf association. There will be the usual number of Monday events in which the professionals pair with the amateurs of the club at which the event is held. There also will be events with the Chicago Women's District Golf association and the Illinois Seniors' Golf association, and the pro-amateur title meet of the Chicago District Golf association.

The executive committee of the Chicago District Golf association will meet at the Chicago Athletic association on Friday to pass on applications for membership and decide several important matters. On April 27 the annual meeting of caddy chairmen and caddy masters will be held at the same place at 6:30 p. m.

Arrangements for the Chicago district junior open tournament to be held at Westward-Ho Golf club the week of June 22 are being made. Fred O. Rippel, chairman of the special committee, has mailed entry blanks to Chicago schools. Only boys under 18 are eligible. President Walter G. Leininger of the Chicago District Golf association has donated the championship trophy. One hundred and twenty-eight boys will qualify for the match play rounds.

GRANVILLE? SOME SAY HE'S BETTER COLT THAN OMAHA

And that Derby Distance Should Suit the Son of Gallant Fox

BY FRENCH LANE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., April 19.—Before leaving for England last fall, Omaha, the 1935 Derby winner, handed the torch to his stablemate, Granville, with the admonition to go on down into Kentucky and carry on for William Woodward's Belair stud.

Granville will be a good pinch-hitter for Omaha for, like last year's Derby winner, he too is a son of Gallant Fox who won that Derby way back in 1930. Granville's two year old racing deeds are so much like those of Omaha that the entire situation begins to look a bit uncanny.

Like Omaha, Granville is of the long, rangy type and wasn't able to unwind his long legs in the short dashes patterned for two year old runners. When he did get them into motion he made up ground rapidly. So did Omaha.

Finishes Close Up in Belmont Futurity.

As a result of these slow get-aways, Granville won but one race as a two year old. That was an overnight allowance affair at six furlongs run at Aqueduct, and his opponents didn't amount to much. One month later he ran a grand race in the Belmont Futurity event, though he finished sixth. He was but two lengths and a quarter back of Tintagel, the winner, when the $100,000 struggle ended. Granville was away with the rear guard, encountered all sorts of crowding, finally found racing room and literally was mowing the opposition down in the late stages.

That was his last start as a juvenile. He went to Woodward's Belair stud in Maryland for a long rest. Soon after Jan. 1, he was put into training and has been at it ever since. Some mighty fine reports are coming along that he is up to that keen edge demanded of a Derby colt. He probably will start in New York this week and then will come on into the Blue Grass country for his Derby engagement.

Fitzsimmons Will Give Encouraging Pat.

Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons will saddle him and give the same encouraging pat on the neck that he gave Omaha before he sent that big son of Gallant Fox out of the paddock and onto the Churchill Downs course a year ago to carry the Belair silks to their first Derby triumph.

Granville has the best distance running blood of Europe coursing through his veins, not alone from his daddy, but from his mother, Gravity, a daughter of Sarmantion. Folks who claim to know all about horses say he is a better horse than Omaha. So why shouldn't he win the Derby?

MOLINE EAGLES BOWLING TEAM PILES UP 1,077

A. Heagstrom and T. Campanella led the two Rockford doubles entrants with 949. Heagstrom led in the singles with 543.

H. Woolzey and F. Mackiewick of Barberton, O., took the lead in the doubles with a 1,245 series. Mackiewick shot 636 [202, 220, 214] and Woolzey 609 [204, 182, 223].

Gourd Will Attract Wrens as Nesting Site

BY BOB BECKER.

The bird fan who wants a different kind of nesting box for the wrens around his house should not overlook the possibilities of gourds. They make desirable houses for the peppery little wrens that will be coming into Chicagoland to spend the summer with us. Down south you see gourds by the hundreds being used as nesting boxes by purple martins, wrens and other species. Nearly every little cabin in one part of Georgia that we visited had a cluster of gourds attached to a pole or a tree nearby so that the birds would nest and raise their young close to the habitation. Because of the widespread use of gourds the purple martins down south do not see as many beautifully built martin houses as found here in the north.

We have a couple of gourds in our yard which never fail to arouse the interest of the wrens. Even if the birds do not raise a family in one of the two they at least look them over and start a nest. Wrens are known for this trick of starting a nest and then changing their plans and moving to another location. Thus the bird fan who wants a family of wrens should provide more than one nesting box on his grounds.

Choose Clay Nesting Box.

Last summer a pair of wrens fussed around our back yard inspecting various nesting boxes and the gourds for several days. They looked at this and that and talked things over until they had us baffled about the place they were going to take. When they began to assemble small twigs in one of the gourds we felt rather sure that we had obtained tenants. Two days later we checked over the wren situation and found that the birds, acting true to form, had abandoned the gourd and had chosen a clay nesting shelter on top of the fence around our kennel. This clay box is about seven feet above ground. During the summer vines almost hide the place, thus it is a dandy spot for a wren nest.

Wrens Are Due Soon.

The wrens will be coming up from the south before long, so bird fans should clean out nesting boxes for them or provide new ones around the house and in the garden. Boxes of various sizes and shapes will satisfy these birds since they are not at all particular about home. Almost anything from an old shoe to a home-made nesting box is usually acceptable to the peppery wrens. They are friendly, extremely active, great singers, and generally a big favorite among bird fans in Chicagoland.

THE FIGHTER MAY RUN IN $12,000 ILLINOIS DERBY

Aurora Track Sends Bids to Stake Winners.

Invitations to the owners of the winners of Saturday's important 3 year old specials, the Chesapeake stakes at Havre de Grace and the Texas Derby at Arlington Downs, were dispatched yesterday by Racing Secretary Dick Leigh to enter their horses in the $12,000 Illinois Derby which will be run May 22 at the Aurora race track.

The Texas Derby, which has been won by such good performers as Bobsled, Plight, and Roman Soldier, was won Saturday by the Milky Way farm's The Fighter, the Bull Dog colt which was so prominent in last season's 2 year old racing.

The Fighter Owned by Mrs. Mars.

The Fighter is owned by Mrs. Ethel V. Mars, Chicago, and because she has made an annual habit of naming her leading color bearers for the Illinois Derby, Leigh is certain that The Fighter will be in the field which faces Starter John Morrissey on Derby day.

This belief is strengthened by the fact that The Fighter has not been nominated for the Preakness stake, which will be run at Pimlico on May 16, although he has been named for the Kentucky Derby.

Winners of second and third money in the Texas Derby are regarded as certain starters in the Illinois Derby. Second place went to A. G. Tarn's Rushaway, and Tarn already has eleven horses stabled at Aurora. Rushaway recently won the Louisiana Derby at the Fair Grounds in New Orleans, a track whose management is the same as Aurora's.

Holl Image, third in the Texas Derby, is owned by William Schmidt, Chicago, and was nominated for the Illinois Derby immediately after he had won the Arkansas Derby at Hot Springs several weeks ago.

Gold Seeker May Come Here.

Gold Seeker, the filly which on Saturday won the Chesapeake stakes, has been nominated for both the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness, but there is still an excellent chance that she will start in the Illinois Derby. She is owned by the Foxcatcher Farms stable [nom du couse of W. F. du Pont Jr.].

Delphinium, second in the Chesapeake, races in the silks of the Brookmeade stable, which usually sends a division to Chicago for summer racing. Grand Slam, third in the Chesapeake, is owned by the Bomar stable of Detroit.

HOME RUNS HELP YANKEES BEAT SENATORS, 9 TO 1

New York, April 19.—(AP)—With Bill Dickey leading the attack with a homer, a double, and two walks, the Yankees ended their first home stand today with a 9 to 1 victory over the Washington Senators.

A crowd of 26,485 saw Monte Pearson, former Cleveland pitcher, coast to a seven hit victory. The Yankees piled up four runs in the first two innings off Whitehill, and in the fifth they collected three more when Dickey hit his homer with Gehrig and Lazzeri on base. Roy Johnson rapped out a homer in the second inning with none on base.

Cubs Defeat Reds, 16-6, in 16 Hit Attack

Kampouris Ruled Out.

The Reds had another chance to embarrass Lee in the fifth, but between their own blunder, or maybe it was Umpire Charley Moran who erred, and a snappy catch by Klein they couldn't make headway. Cuyler led off with a pass and Klein dropped Kampouris' fly. Kampouris, after going half way to second, sprinted back to first and apparently arrived ahead of the throw, but Moran, after due deliberation, ruled him out. Demaree raced in to capture Babe Herman's short fly and Klein closed the inning by picking Lombardi's fly off the fence. Klein then celebrated his catch by floating a homer into the seats in the home half of the inning.

Demaree who also had the pleasure of concluding the six run sixth, opened it with a single. McQuinn fumbled Cavarretta's grounder and Hack walked to fill the bases with none out. Demaree scored on Myers' fumble of Jurges' roller. Cavarretta counted on Lee's infield out. Hack scored on Galan's fly. Jurges rode home on W. Herman's single. Klein walked and followed W. Herman across the plate on Hartnett's double to right, after which Demaree flied to Babe Herman.

Klein Does It Again.

The fun in the seventh when Johnson endeavored to pitch, was started by Cavarretta's single to left. Hack singled to center. When Jurges popped out and Lee fanned, it appeared Johnson might escape, but his troubles weren't over. A roller by Galan hit first base, giving him a single and loading the bags. All three occupants ran for the plate on Billy Herman's double past third, his sixth of the season. Klein then harvested the sixteenth run for his gang by sailing his second homer of the afternoon into the right field seats.

No one begrudged the Reds their little activity in the eighth. They scored a couple of runs on a pair of hits. The bothersome Lombardi doubled to left and Riggs pounded a homer into the same seats that had been a target for the four previous round-trippers. The Reds scored another pair in the ninth on a pass to Handley, a double by Pinch Hitter Chapman, and a wild pitch.

Henshaw to Open Pirate Series Today

The Cubs departed last night for Pittsburgh, where under the current style of schedule they will be detained for only two days of play with the Pirates. Roy Henshaw, the midget southpaw, who whipped the Pirates in seven of eight tries last season will endeavor to show them some more of his skill in the opener today. Cy Blanton probably will be the Pirate starter.

Gene Ford, former Iowa State university athlete, who won two games and lost five at Peoria last season, a record that induced the Cubs to purchase him, was given his unconditional release yesterday by Manager Grimm. Ford made the entire see-America spring tour with the Cubs, but a sore arm kept him out of action.

Manager Grimm gave himself another off day yesterday, and the vacation may continue indefinitly. The back ailment which forced him to be a bench manager for the greater part of last season has returned.

The two bleachers were well loaded but the grandstand turnout was a matter of concern for the gentlemen in the counting room.

Rowe Humbles Sox; Detroit Triumphs, 5-0

Tigers' half by looking at a third strike, then Simmons singled to center and went to second while Piet was throwing out Goslin. Fox was called on strikes to end the inning.

It was three up and three down in the third for both sides.

Kreevich led off the fourth with the second Sox hit, a single to right, but Haas hit into a double play, started by Rogell, after which Washington bounced to Greenberg.

The Tigers failed to make any progress in their half of the fourth. Cochrane was called out on strikes and Gehringer flied to Radcliff. Greenberg walked, but the inning was over when Simmons popped to Appling.

Appling opened the fifth with a single to right. Cochrane attempted to catch him off first and threw past Greenberg. Luke tried to reach third on the throw, but he was thrown out, Greenberg to Owen. Piet was called out on strikes, and Dykes lined to Fox.

The Tigers Get One.

The Tigers' second hit of the game drove in the first run of the afternoon in the fifth. Goslin walked, moved up on Fox's sacrifice, and scored when Owen singled past Dykes. Sewell threw out Rowe and Owen stopped at second. Rogell was credited with a hit when Haas failed to cover first base after Stratton had captured Rogell's grounder, Owen moving over to third. Cochrane singled to left scoring Owen, Rogell stopping at second. Piet threw out Gehringer to end the inning.

The Sox seemed a bit nonplused when they went to bat in the sixth. Sewell fanned, Stratton tapped to Rogell, and Radcliff fouled to Greenberg. The Sox got Greenberg and Simmons out of the way in the sixth on some nice work by Kreevich, but Goslin came through with his home run. It was a smash into the upper deck of the right field grand stand. Fox walked and was out trying to steal second, Sewell to Appling.

Rowe Mows 'Em Down.

Rowe struck out the side in the seventh, though Haas managed to become the first Sox to reach third. Kreevich fanned, then Haas doubled to left center. Washington fanned. Haas got to third on a wild pitch, but the inning ended when Appling took a third strike.

The Tigers added their fourth run in the latter half of the seventh and came close to making more. Owen opened with a single. Rowe fanned and Rogell flied to Radcliff. Cochrane walked after a three and two count, after which Gehringer doubled to right center, scoring Owen. When Cochrane tried to score also he was out at the plate, Kreevich to Piet to Sewell.

The Sox eighth was notable for two reasons: Piet got Rowe's first pass of the season. Dykes and Sewell flied out, then Bonura supplied the unusual event of the inning by getting into the ball game. He batted for Stratton and flied out to Goslin.

Brown Makes Debut.

Brown made his first appearance for the White Sox in the Tiger eighth and started by pitching a triple to Greenberg. Simmons promptly scored Hank with his second hit, a single to center. Goslin hit into a double play, started by Piet. Then Dykes threw out Fox.

Radcliff opened the ninth with the fifth hit off Rowe, but a pop fly and a double play ended the engagement.

Sox Home Today; Kennedy Opens Indian Series

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., April 19.—The White Sox will be back at Comiskey park tomorrow afternoon for a two game series with the Cleveland Indians. Vernon Kennedy, who pitched the major leagues' only no hit game last Aug. 31, with the Indians as victims, will hurl tomorrow.

After their two games in Chicago the Indians and Sox go to Cleveland for two games. Then the Sox will return to Chicago for three days with the Tigers before departing for Boston.

The first information the Sox will seek on returning home will be a bulletin on Ted Lyons' cold. Ted was left behind in the hope that he might recover enough to work against Cleveland Tuesday, Wednesday, or Thursday.

Maccabees, Sparta Win Cup Games

The Maccabees defeated the Moravska Orlics, 4 to 1, yesterday, in the second round of the Peel cup play at Kuppenheimer stadium, 18th street and Kostner avenue. Moravska took advantage of a high wind and immediately harassed Goalie Fisher, but their attack was shortlived, as the Maccabees went into the lead in the 15th minute. Art Waldron scored on a pass from Molvie. The Moravskas then tied the score when Wright, running close in, beat Fisher. The Maccabees again took the lead when Molvie, from a long run, beat Gibson.

Lillie of Moravska and Pearlman exchanged blows immediately after a penalty and were expelled. Near the close of the first period Cuthburt scored on the outstanding play of the game, heading the ball over the goalkeeper into the net.

Wightman Cup Team Is Picked by U.S.L.T.A.

New York, April 19.—(AP)—The United States Lawn Tennis association today selected four players to defend the Wightman cup against England at Wimbledon, June 12-13. They are Helen Jacobs, Berkeley, Cal., No. 1 ranking United States woman; Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, Cambridge, Mass., No. 3; Carolin Babcock, Los Angeles, No. 4, and Mrs. Marjorie Gladman Van Ryn, Philadelphia, No. 5.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody's failure to decide whether she will be available for international competition this summer accounts for her absence from the list, but she will be added later if she plays abroad.

U. S. Holds 9 to 5 Lead.

The score in competition for the women's international team trophy stands at 9 to 5 in favor of the United States, the Americans having won the last five matches.

With the exception of Miss Jacobs, who has been living in London for several months, the team will leave for England May 20. It will be in charge of James S. Cushman, who will coöperate with Miss Jacobs in directing the team play. The American team also will compete in the British tournament at Wimbledon, June 22, and will start home on or around July 7.

Mrs. Arnold Turns Pro.

Missing from the United States team this season is Mrs. Ethel Burkhardt Arnold, Los Angeles, who last year kept the cup in America by winning the deciding match from Kay Stammers, 6-2, 1-6, 6-3. Mrs. Arnold turned professional at the end of last season.

Her place is taken by Mrs. Van Ryn, wife of Johnny Van Ryn, United States Davis cup player. Mrs. Van Ryn played in the Wightman cup doubles at Forest Hills in 1933.

CUNNINGHAM IS IMPRESSED BY COLLEGE STARS

Says Vets Face Trouble in Olympic Tests.

Lawrence, Kas., April 19. — (AP) — Some collegian may surprise the present Big Four in the United States 1,500 meter Olympic trials in July, Glenn Cunningham, world's mile record holder, predicted today.

Cunningham, who set an outdoor world record of 4:06.8 in the mile and the American record of 3:50.5 in the 1,500 meters, sees Bill Bonthron, Gene Venzke and Joe Mangan as his strongest contenders for the Olympiad trip to Berlin in August. He has beaten and been defeated by each.

But, said the former Kansas university star, "whoever is at his peak for the trials will win. And it may be some fast-coming college star."

San Romani Is Threat.

Cunningham saw one of those potential threats speed through a 4:12.7 mile in the Kansas relays here yesterday. He is Archie San Romani of Emporia, Kas., Teachers' college, who anchored his school's distance medley relay team to an unofficial world's record of 10:12.7. The official mark of 10:14 was set by Manhattan college of New York in 1933.

San Romani's 4:12.7 mile equaled Cunningham's best time for the distance at the Kansas relays, made in 1934. He was scheduled to oppose Cunningham in the 1,500 meter Olympic trial, but withdrew to save himself for the relay.

He's Taking It Easy.

Cunningham is certain the winner's time in the final Olympic trial will be near the world record of 3:48.8 set by Bonthron, then of Princeton, in 1934. Bonthron has not competed this spring. He is conditioning himself at Princeton for the trial.

Cunningham, who has not been impressive this spring, said he has been bringing himself along slowly so as not to run myself out too early."

GERMANY DRAFTS ALL CHILDREN INTO NAZI RANKS

Sets 'Deadline' for Them to Enter Youth Units.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 19.—The final and complete Nazification of the youth of Germany was formally decreed today by Baldur von Schirach, Nazi youth leader, in addressing young people of Germany on the eve of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's 47th birthday, which occurs tomorrow. Von Schirach said only children who are brought up in the ranks of Hitler Youth will be permitted to enter the Nazi party.

The Youth leader said that 90 per cent of the youth of the nation between the ages of 10 and 18 is enrolled in "national youth" and Nazi Youth organizations. He appealed to parents to see to it that the remaining children receive their chance at a Nazi future. He requested the parents to send them into the Nazi organization. If this is not accomplished by May 1 special laws will be passed, Von Schirach warned.

Goebbels Praises Leader.

"Hitler has become the leading moral factor for the whole world in a Europe crippled by senile insincerity," Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, said in a Hitler birthday address over the government controled radio.

A further expression of admiration and loyalty to the fuehrer was to be broadcast at midnight from all German radio stations. Youths in all parts of the reich will congratulate Hitler in poetry, song, and music.

In rain and sleet children marched to churches and assembly halls today to swear an oath of allegiance to the fuehrer. Thousands of children stood in long lines before the chancellery in Berlin to sign six huge red bound visitors' books congratulating Hitler.

May Free Jailed Nazis.

It was rumored in political circles that Hitler is preparing to grant amnesty to his "followers who were imprisoned because they were overzealous in their love for the leader."

In view of the renewed discussions with Roman Catholic leaders concerning the interpretation of the concordat, it is assumed the fuehrer also will extend amnesty to members of Catholic orders who violated financial red tape rules to safeguard the interests of their organizations without seeking personal advantage.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: "You'll Be a Man, My Son"

BRITISH BUDGET TO SET HIGHEST FIGURE SINCE 1931

Chamberlain to Seek 4 Billion Dollars.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 19.—Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, spent the week-end putting finishing touches on the annual British budget which this year will reach the highest figure since 1931. It is expected the budget total will be just under 800,000,000 pounds or 4 billion dollars.

Chamberlain will submit his proposals to the cabinet tomorrow and will announce them formally to the house of commons Tuesday. Chief interest in the budget speech will center around Chamberlain's announcement of how the financing of Great Britain's enormous rearmament program will be made. In view of this and other rising expenditures it is already established there will be no relief from present taxation burdens.

Eye Tax Burden.

Revenue last year amounted to 3 billion dollars and in some quarters there is nervousness about the chancellor's ability to provide for the greatly increased commitments without increasing taxation.

Experts, however, believe that apart from minor adjustments there will be no change and that Chamberlain will rely on the expansion of revenue from present sources to meet the ordinary expenditure. This expenditure is apportioned as follows: Consolidated fund services, 1 billion 175 million dollars, civil and defense services, 2 billion 665 million dollars.

This total, however, does not include the provision to be made this year for the new rearmament program.

Defense Sum Unstated.

No estimate has yet been presented to parliament of the amount to be spent in 1936 on strengthening the fighting forces. All that is known is that the air force's part of the program will cost about $50,000,000 this year. Requirements of the army and navy may bring the aggregate for 1936 up to $110,000,000.

Belief is that Chamberlain will not attempt to cover this emergency expenditure from revenue, but will resort to borrowing on short term treasury bills. The defense expenditure will become an increasingly serious problem for Great Britain during the next two or three years. A defense loan is widely talked of as the eventual plan for financing rearmament.

Mourning for Howe

The White House flag displayed at half staf yesterday for Louis McHenry Howe, secretary to President Roosevelt and his political guide for years. Howe died Saturday night after a long illness.

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Washington, D. C., April 19.—(AP)—A White House funeral was planned tonight for Louis McHenry Howe, President Roosevelt's friend and political mentor for two decades.

Howe, 65 years old, died last night in Naval hospital after more than a year's fight—much of it under an oxygen tent—against heart and chest complications.

The White House announced tonight, after the arrival of Howe's widow and son, that funeral services would be held at 4 p. m. Tuesday in the high-ceilinged east room, scene of many state functions.

Burial will be at Fall River, Mass., Howe's hometown which he visited on the infrequent occasions when he left his "other home" at the White House.

In the 20-odd years since "Louie," as a newspaper man, first explained politics to Mr. Roosevelt as a first-term member of the New York legislator, Howe had become a member of the family.

To him, the President remained until the end only "Franklin" in personal salutation and "The Boss" when referred to in talks with friends.

Chas. E. Krebs, 64, Dies; Machinery Manufacturer

Charles E. Krebs, 3000 Sheridan road, a manufacturer of special machinery, died yesterday at Ravenswood hospital. At the request of Mr. Krebs before he died the body will be taken to Powhatan Point, O., for burial in a family cemetery plot. Funeral services will be held Wednesday in Powhatan Point. News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Well, Eddie Cantor picked a new winner for his $5,000 college scholarship last night—the lucky young man is Owen W. Mathews III. of Portland, Ore.—and this time you may be sure that the award will stick.

Meanwhile other sponsors have pointed out that Eddie might have avoided all the embarrassment over the fake essay of the young Missouri lad if he had not made public its text. It was this that brought about the exposé by the real author.

Few sponsors of radio's numerous contests disclose the text of the winner's compositions. Federal regulations require that the statement "in case of a tie duplicate awards will be made" must be included in announcing a radio contest. By not disclosing the text of the winning entries sponsors do not run a risk of having to pay double.

Though duplicate awards are rare they have been made in radio contests—even when the prizes were motor cars. Last year ten automobiles were offered for the best names for Ma Perkins' car. Eleven cars were distributed because the winning name was submitted by two persons. In additon a score of duplicate cash awards were made.

Sponsor of the National Amateur Night hour, conducted by Ray Perkins, has occasionally paid for extra awards [usually brief radio, vaudeville, or night club engagements] to trios or quartets instead of single winners.

Paul Whiteman during his recent talent quest here picked four individuals as winners: Wayne Van Dyne, tenor, and the the Three Ranch Boys. His intention was to choose a single winner as he had in other cities but the judges couldn't agree so he took both the singer and the harmony team.

And the mention of judges serves to recall that important radio contest rule: "The judges' decision shall be accepted as final." It gives the sponsor a legal out. There is said to be on record a case of a contest where this rule was left out in the announcements. A disgruntled contestant who failed to win claimed his answer was superior to the one that won. He told it to a jury which agreed with him.

In a west coast radio contest a young lady won first award. Day or so after the announcement reporters disclosed that she had been convicted of bootlegging. The judges then got together and rescinded the award, unfair as that appears.

The number of entries in radio contests sometimes reaches a staggering total. The Cantor competition attracted more than 300,000 young peace advocates. In the first Amos 'n' Andy contest there were more than 2,000,000 entries seeking a slice in cash awards of more than $30,000.

The cigaret concern now sponsoring Lily Pons and Nino Martini will switch to a lighter program Friday, May 1, on CBS. Kay Thompson and her girls; Ray Heatherton, baritone; the Rhythm Singers, and Andre Kostelanetz' orchestra will present a new dance series from 10 to 10:30 p. m. . . . A competing cigaret will bring Freddy Rich to the air at 10 Saturday nights on CBS in the third weekly instalment of the program called "Your Hit Parade." The other two are conducted by Al Goodman on Wednesday evening and by Carl Hoff on Saturday.

Joe Morrison, who got his start to Hollywood after introducing "The Last Roundup" on the airways while with George Olsen, and June Knight will be the headliners of the Palace Varieties over WMAQ at 6:15 tomorrow.

RISE IN WHEAT MARKS SHIFTING CROP PROSPECT

Drouth Still Grips Southwest Area.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The rise of nearly 7 cents a bushel in new crop wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade last week signalized the rapid change that has taken place in the crop picture in the last few days.

Less than three weeks ago prospects suggested that the United States would harvest a good crop of winter wheat and that the country would reënter the export market after several years of lean production during which imports were necessary to meet domestic consumption.

Today that optimism has faded. The rainfall that was to produce the harvest envisioned only a short time ago has not materialized and from numerous points over the winter wheat producing belt comes the complaint that has been familiar for the last four years—drouth.

Deep Southwest Suffers Most.

In the driest sections of the producing area—the deep southwest—the crop began with insufficient soil moisture and the hoped for rains have not been received. Even in sections where the season got off to a better start the crop is now reported to be retrograding. Each 24 hours that passed last week without rain in the dry southwest fired the speculative fever of the wheat market.

The market, perhaps, has overemphasized the gloomy side of the crop picture in the last few days just as it stressed too strongly the favorable aspects a few weeks ago. During the first week of April, when private forecasts suggested a harvest of considerably in excess of 500 million bushels, speculators were going short of the market in the belief that the decline in prices would continue indefinitly. Last week the same speculators, who had not covered earlier, were executing a rapid retreat and a mild bullish stampede was on.

Crop In Crucial Period.

It is anybody's guess which way the price scales will tip in the next few days but it is generally conceded to be the crucial period of the season for the winter crop. Crop observers assert that more than 20 million acres of the total winter wheat area of 47 million acres are in acute need of rainfall. If moisture comes much of this area is expected to yield a fairly satisfactory harvest. Without rain further deterioration of condition is inevitable.

The advance last week carried the September future to the highest price quoted this season, 92½ cents a bushel, a net gain of 6 3-6 cents over the preceding week closing quotation. Reflecting the current ebb in demand from commercial buyers the May future, which expires before the new crop harvest, did not keep pace with the advance in the new crop futures last week. It closed 5½ cents higher, while the July contract finished with a gain of 6⅞ cents.

SELLING FORCES GAIN HEADWAY IN STOCK MART

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 19.—Although the current business news seems to point to a continuation of the recent trade improvement, operations on the stock market show a disposition to lean more and more to the selling side of the market.

Varied explanations are offered for the anomaly. Many brokerage house observers think the display of bearishness can be ascribed more than anything else to the misgivings aroused by President Roosevelt's Baltimore speech, with its suggestion of further New Deal experiments at the expense of convalescent business.

Others see at least a secondary explanation in the tax bill, now pending before congress, and the growing fear that still higher and wider levies are going to be in order after the next presidential election, regardless of any tactical gesture the administration may make, as the campaign gets under way, or applying the brakes on its hitherto unrestrained spending. Still others would place a measure of the blame on the anxiety aroused by the European war clouds.

Reason for Selling.

Talk in financial circles in the last few days has shown indisputably that a considerable proportion of the selling is based primarily on popular disappointment over the reports now coming in from industry. These reports establish, to the satisfaction of many traders, that share prices in these last weeks of their thirteen months advance have run too far ahead of earnings.

That numerous issues—perhaps a majority of those listed—are selling rather high from the investor's viewpoint when measured by the yardsticks of dividends or earnings is generally conceded. Commentators point out, however, that this is not an unusual state of affairs in an up-and-going market such as this admittedly has been in the last year or so. Stocks, they emphasize, do not respond to purely investment influences so readily as do high grade bonds.

However, business indices have not shown any sudden reaction. The freight carloadings figures for last week showed a 6 per cent rise over the corresponding week of last year and were higher than the preceding week, electric power production figures showed a fresh increase, steel output advanced and good reports continue to come in from the automobile production centers and from other business sources.

Leaders Are Weak.

Current market weakness is chiefly in the old-line leaders like the steels, motors and rails. Some of the cheaper issues have dropped rather sharply. Building shares had one or two bad sessions last week, Johns-Manville tumbling 10 points in Saturday's session on its disappointing first quarter report.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S "average of fifty representative stocks" closed at 122.41 yesterday, having risen from 77.92 on March 18, 1935. In the meantime the principal European markets have made little progress. On the basis of international indices, Paris share prices average only 2.7 points higher for the thirteen months; Berlin, 3.4; London, 4.1, and Amsterdam, 8.1.

LIVE STOCK GROUP CALLS WALLACE RULE "RUSSIAN"

Washington, D. C., March 20.—(AP)—Methods used by Secretary Wallace in fixing rates for livestock sellers were termed the "arbitrary will of one man" today in a bulky printed argument for live stock commission firms at Kansas City.

The court was told that a lowered rate schedule, ordered into effect by Secretary Wallace in June, 1933, had driven "one-fifth" of the Kansas City market agencies "out of business" and was "based upon his own untrammeled judgment and not upon the evidence."

"Under such a conception of governmental power," the brief asserted, "the state of our economic society and the exercise of personal liberty is not substantially different from that prevailing in Russia, Germany, and Italy."

The argument was submitted by Frederick H. Wood, New York City attorney who has appeared before the highest court on several occasions to oppose New Deal measures. Oral argument on the case—in which a three judge federal court upheld the government last year—is scheduled for the week starting April 27.

$224,918,000 OF HOLC LOANS USED FOR BACK TAXES

Washington, D. C., April 19.—(AP)—The Home Owners' Loan corporation reported today it had paid out $224,918,000 to states and municipalities in back-tax payments on properties on which it acquired mortgages.

The money for tax payments, the corporation said, was included in its loans to home owners. "The net result," it was said, "is that the taxes in arrears were paid, while the HOLC is being reimbursed for such expenditures through principal and interest installments paid by its borrowers."

Saying that most home owners who sought HOLC loans were in default on taxes and assessments as well as their original mortgages, the corporation added that it advanced back-tax money "in order to protect its own lien and to save the home owner from further penalties and the risk of tax sale."

Tax payments, it was said, aggregated 7.4 per cent of the corporation's total advances of $3,041,528,596 to 1,004,206 home owners.

RETAIL TRADE SAGS AFTER EASTER UPTURN, BUT EXCEEDS YEAR AGO

Retail activity in Chicago declined last week as the usual post-Easter recession occurred. While turnover was materially under the preceding week, it was sufficiently ahead of 1935 to continue the general tone of improvment evident since the start of the year.

Wholesalers were busy with orders for late summer and fall delivery, although in many lines of business there appeared to be a tendency to buy only for immediate needs. Fears of election results and legislative action have injected a note of caution into the activities of many buyers, particularly in gift lines.

Steel output climbed further during the week. While railroad demand tapered off enough, impetus was given by traction companies and automobile manufacturers to more than take up the slack.

Other sections of the local industrial field moved slowly ahead. Pay rolls and production showed no signs of curtailment. Railroads, transit lines and public utilities enjoyed a good week, according to reports.

B. & O. REVENUES AND EXPENSES FOR 1935 INCREASE

New York, April 19.—(AP)—Net railway operating income of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad in 1935 totaled $24,298,956, an increase of $621,017 over the preceding year, the annual report mailed to stockholders today showed. Operating revenues in the years amounted to $141,873,643, an increase over 1934 of $6,334,247. Operating expenses totaled $105,464,140, or $6,126,356 greater than the preceding year.

After taxes, rents, fixed charges, etc., the deficit amounted to $3,180,908, an increase of $644,843 over 1934.

In his statement to stockholders, Daniel Willard, president, said the 5.58 per cent increase in freight revenue during the year was due partly to emergency increases in rates granted by the interstate commerce commission in April, 1935. In discussing the increase in operating expenses, he pointed out that the restoration of wages which were in effect prior to Feb. 1, 1932, added approximately $4,515,000 to operating expenses.

In 1935 the company paid in federal and states taxes approximately $7,519,323, or 19.52 per cent of the income, before taxes, which was equivalent to $2.39 on each share of stock outstanding.

Fight on U. S. Power Plans Starts Today

Washington, D. C., April 19.—(AP)—A constitutional challenge to the law under which the administration finances municipal power plant construction will be heard tomorrow by the District of Columbia Supreme court. Five suits have been combined into a case involving the right of Secretary Ickes to advance PWA loans and grants for such plants.

NEWTON D. BAKER. [Acme Photo.]

Newton D. Baker, secretary of war under the Wilson administration, is scheduled to head counsel for the Alabama Power company, the Texas Utilities company, the Iowa City Power and Light company, and the Oklahoma Utilities company. Two of the five cases originally were brought by the Alabama company.

Ten Municipalities.

Ten municipalities and their applications for a total of $2,908,000 in PWA loans and grants are involved in the litigation. They are Decatur, Ala., $350,000; Florence, Ala., $435,000; Sheffield, Ala., $230,000; Tuscumbia, Ala., $130,000; Russelville, Ala., $125,000; Guntherville, Ala., $87,000; Hartselle, Ala., $60,000; Iowa City, Ia., $413,000; Plainview, Tex., $423,000; Hominy, Okla., $150,000.

The applications for loans and grants to the municipalities were made under a section of the recovery act, which authorized the Public Works administrator, by direction of the President, to promote a program including development of hydro-electric power and transmission of electrical energy.

Hit U. S. Policy.

The companies have protested the PWA municipal power projects were part of a national policy of the administration to establish a "yardstick" for rate making in the power and light industry and as such would destroy private enterprise in those fields.

They contended the projects did not come under the general welfare clause of the constitution because they apply to local communities, and that furthermore congress made an unlawful delegation of legislative power to the President and his administrators in the recovery act by leaving to their discretion the types of projects to be financed from public funds.

STEEL OUTPUT STILL CLIMBING; RATE NOW 70½%

Railways and Auto Plants Buying.

An advance of four points in steel production last week lifted the national operating rate to 70½ per cent of plant capacity. The upturn was due to fresh commitments, mostly from the automobile manufacturers and railroads, according to the issue of Steel published today.

Steel operations this month are running at an average of 80 per cent of the 1928-29 capacity, but since that period approximately 9,000,000 tons have been added to the country's capacity.

Most significant in the April steel expansion, the journal says, is the improvement shown at Chicago and Pittsburgh, the evidence of diversity in demand and the broadening base of recovery.

Chicago Operating Rate Rises.

Last week the Chicago operating rate rose 2½ points to 70½ per cent of plant capacity, or 8 points above the average for March, while Pittsburgh improved 8 points to 65 per cent, or 17 points above the March average. Youngstown advanced 4 points to 80 per cent. Wheeling, 8 points to 84 per cent; eastern Pennsylvania, 1¼ points to 43½ per cent; Cincinnati, 4 points to 80 per cent; Buffalo, 3 points to 65 per cent. Cleveland declined 1½ points to 84½ per cent, while other districts were unchanged.

Along with these gains in steel ingot output, sheet production rose to 70 per cent of capacity and tin plate mills operated at 80 per cent. Shipments on March specifications are still heavy and will not be completed before the end of April, the review reports.

Auto Plants Place Orders.

Substantial orders at the new price levels have been placed for May delivery to automobile manufacturers and miscellaneous consumers. The Ford Motor company has not yet purchased its requirements. Structural shape awards last week showed little change at 18,991 tons, but considerable tonnage is in prospect for eastern flood rehabilitation work.

The magazine's iron and steel price composite is 2 cents lower at $33.09 a ton, while the finished steel index remains at $52.20 a ton and the steel works scrap composite at $14.37 a ton.

Pick Your Borrowing Plan

This bank offers more than one borrowing plan. You may pick the plan hat suits you best.

Many people borrow on their automobiles, and the rate we charge is just the same whether a car is new or used. So far as insurance is concerned, we ask for only Fire and Theft, though we strongly urge that every car owner insure himself against collision hazards.

Many people prefer to borrow on marketable securities. On collateral loans over $500, the discount rate is only 5½% per annum.

But so many people choose to borrow simply on a signature basis—a promise to pay—the promise of the borrower backed by a friend or two.

The figures in the chart illustrate the costs and monthly installments on typical amounts asked for. Of course you may borrow any other amount on the same relative basis. Regardless of amount or the plan you pick, you will observe that our charges are low and the terms are liberal.

CHARGE FEDERAL POWER PROJECTS ARE OBSOLETE

Engineers Open Midwest Conference Tomorrow.

Engineers will present evidence that the fourteen hydro-electric power projects of the government are already obsolete and economically unsound when they gather here this week for the Midwest Power Engineering conference, it was learned yesterday.

The conference will be held at the Palmer House, with the exception of this afternoon's session, which will be in the International amphitheater at the stockyards, where exhibits will be maintained. The conference will close on Thursday.

Call Steam Power Cheaper.

Information will be presented to show that it is cheaper to produce and transmit steam generated electricity than that produced through water power, which is the power to be used in the government projects.

This viewpoint is expected to be stressed particularly in an address on Wednesday afternoon by Frank F. Fowle, president of the Western Society of Engineers and a prominent consulting engineer of Chicago. He will speak on "The Nation's Power Supply: Its Economic Development Under Private Enterprise."

The address is scheduled to follow that of Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, chairman of the Tennessee valley authority, on the same afternoon. Morgan will speak on "The Nation's Power Supply: Its Economic Development Under Government Participation."

Attack Financing Argument.

Financing of huge government power projects now on the argument that it is feasible because of low interest rates is also expected to be attacked by engineers discussing the economic side of the power picture.

Wednesday's sessions will be followed by a dinner at the Palmer house, where Silas H. Strawn, past president of the United States Chamber of Commerce and prominent lawyer-economist, will speak on "Engineers and the General Welfare."

The conference will be opened this morning with an address of welcome by Mayor Kelly, followed by Frank D. Chase, president of the conference, who wil speak on "Politicians Versus Engineers."

Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific.

Investors' Guide: Please explain why Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific 7 per cent preferred stock sells for around the price it does. If the par value is $100 and it pays 7 per cent why can it be bought for less than the interest rate?—S. H. R.

Answer: Stock does not pay interest. Interest is payment on borrowed money. Preferred stock does not represent money loaned to the corporation, but a share of ownership. Preferred stock, when it pays anything, pays dividends and these come out of profits.

Par value is a term that is often misleading. It has no effect on current market prices or on future market prices.

Preferred stock of Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific is selling at its current low levels because the road is in bankruptcy under section 77 of the bankruptcy act, its past earnings record is not impressive and its future earnings prospect, so far as the preferred stock is concerned, unpromising. Eventually the road will be reorganized and the stock will be turned in for some new type of stock if it is allowed to participate in the reorganization.

Investors' Guide: Please furnish me with information regarding Standard Oil of Nebraska. Thank you.—C. A. I.

Answer: Standard Oil company [of Nebraska] owns and operates about 202 filling stations in Nebraska. It does not engage in production, refining or transportation of petroleum products, but markets output of Standard Oil company [Indiana] and Mid west Refining company.

On Dec. 31, 1935, current assets were $2,400,000 and current liabilities were $217,000. Capitalization consists solely of 182,803 shares of $25 par capital stock on which nothing has been paid since the 25 cent disbursement on June 20, 1934.

BRITISH TRADE SHOWS SLIGHT GAIN THIS YEAR

Imports Are Considerably Larger than Exports.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 19.—A modest expansion of British overseas trade, larger, however, on the import than on the export side, was recorded both for the month of March and the first quarter of 1936. The trade increase was made despite the fact that during this period economic sanctions deprived industry almost entirely of one of its best customers—Italy.

Statistics published by the Board of Trade Journal show that British imports for the first three months of this year increased $109,500,000 compared with the corresponding period of 1935. Exports, however, gained only $3,000,000.

In March, 1936, Great Britain purchased $340,260,000 worth of goods from abroad compared with $302,535,000 a year ago. It sold $182,550,000 worth of produce and manufactured goods compared with $179,760,000 in March, 1935.

Expansion Is Moderate.

Expansion of the British overseas trade at the present moderate rate, economists declare, is scarcely sufficient to maintain the British proportion of the total international trade. The value of overseas trade in the first quarter of this year was approximately 7 per cent greater than in the corresponding quarter of 1935. Volume must have been less since British wholesale prices, meanwhile, are estimated to have risen around 4 per cent.

According to a recently published report compiled by a German official statistical office, the volume of world international trade in 1935 was 3 per cent greater than in 1934. In the last quarter of 1935 the increase totaled 7 per cent.

Gold Holds Own.

On the basis of these figures, which indicate a steady upward trend, British economists are inclining toward the view that this country's overseas trade expansion is proceeding at slightly less than the rate for world trade as a whole. This is at a moment when in France, Holland, and Switzerland arguments for and against devaluation are being energetically canvassed, with the discontented traders of those countries loud in complaints based on a comparison of the sterling bloc "prosperity" with the gold bloc "impoverishment."

Yet in the field of international trade, as pointed out by the noted economist, Prof. Ohlin, in the current Index, the sterling bloc cannot be regarded as having outpaced the gold bloc.

CHARGES AUTO PARTS CONCERNS SEEK MONOPOLY

Washington, D. C., April 19.—(AP)—The federal trade commission today issued a complaint against the National Standard Parts association and 57 member companies charging them with price fixing, unfair competition, and an attempt to monopolize the sale and distribution of automobile parts and accessories.

The commission set May 22 as the final date on which the association and others named in the complaint may show cause "why an order to cease and desist from the practices complained of should not be issued."

The association, with headquarters in Detroit, has a membership of 295 jobbers and 194 manufacturers, including many makers of nationally known trade-marked articles. Among the firms cited were the AC Spark Plug company, Flint, Mich.; General Electric company, Schenectady, N. Y.; National Carbon company, Inc., New York City; Perfect Circle company, Hagerstown, Ind., and Timken Roller Bearing company, Canton, O.

Washington, D. C., April 19.—[Special.]—A summary of reports of officers, directors, and principal stockholders of transactions in equity securities in February and early months made public today by the securities and exchange commission included a distribution by the J. N. Pew estate, Philadelphia, of 251,594 shares of the common stock of Sun Oil company on Aug. 10. On that date the stock was selling in the market at $65 per share, giving the total stock distributed a value of approximately $16,350,000. Its value in the current market is about $21,000,000.

No further details as to the distribution were given in the summary. It showed, however, that from Aug. 2 to 8 the estate had sold 1,624 shares of the stock and after the distribution retained no holdings.

The summary supplemented an earlier one which also included reports for the same months. As in the previous summary there was considerable selling shown in the rising market of the recent months. There were a few gifts disclosed for the first time, including 2,866 shares common of Parrafine Companies, Inc., in November, by R. S. Shainwald of San Francisco, an officer and director; 5,000 shares of common stock of Parker Pen company in July by George S. Parker of Janesville, Wis., director and beneficial owner, and the following in December, all before the higher gift taxes became effective on Jan. 1.

AGENTS WANTED—TO TAKE EXCLUSIVE territory for the Chicago Retort Gas-Lamp; men with $200 to $500 can make from $10 to $25 per day; hundreds are being sold every week. Call on GEO. H. GREGORY, 93 Dearborn-st.

FIFTY years ago, when gas lights illuminated most of Chicago's homes, using Tribune want ads was the popular method of getting things done quickly and at low cost.

Throughout the intervening years, the Tribune want ad market has grown steadily. Using Tribune want ads is a tradition almost as old as Chicago itself. As a result of years of fair dealing and satisfactory service, this market place has won the confidence of each succeeding generation of Chicagoans.

This is one of the basic reasons why Tribune want ads get the best results today. Because they get the best results, people invest more money for Tribune want ads than for want ads in all other Chicago newspapers combined.

NEW RAILROAD RAIL DEVELOPED BY BETHLEHEM

Is Designed to Eliminate Peril of Breakage.

Bethlehem, Pa., April 19.—(AP)—One of the latest products of the steel industry's laboratories, announced today, is a railroad rail believed to be free from internal fissures—one of the chief causes of cracking under the pounding of heavy, fast trains.

Developed by the metallurgists of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, the rail is the result of seven years of study and testing. The company has produced experimentally more than 200,000 tons and announces that this year the bulk of its rail production will be under the new process.

Bethlehem controls patents, and has already licensed the Inland Steel company of Chicago and the Colorado Fuel and Iron company of Denver to use the process.

Rail Buying Increasing.

The new rail appears at a time when railway equipment buying is slowly emerging from the stagnation of the last several years, and when the roads are demanding greater strength and durability to bear the burdens of new high speed, streamlined passenger trains and faster and heavier freights.

The steel industry has been struggling for years with the problem of making rails free from internal cracks or fissures, not visible or on the surface, which result in breakage under use.

Bethlehem believes it has solved the problem through the comparatively simple process of rigid control of the cooling of the smoking hot rails after they come out of the rolling mill. Too rapid or uneven cooling has been found to be the chief cause of the internal cracks.

Various Methods Tried.

Steel companies have experimented with methods of regulating the cooling, such as plunging the hot rails in hot oil or molten lead. The Bethlehem process consists of stacking the red hot rails into a huge square bundle and placing them in an oven, where the temperature is scientifically reduced over a period of many hours.

Inside cracks metallurgists call "transverse fissures." They cannot be seen and can only be discovered electrically by the testing car. Yet they weaken the rail and result in actual breaks.

[The Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation recently announced that it would go into production soon on its "nomalized rail." This rail, developed after 24 years of research, is also said to eliminate the danger of transverse fissures, or "rail cancer."]
